Credit Is Due

Several weeks ago some discussion arose pertaining to the conditions which prevailed in the college cafeteria at that time. During this controversy, promises and compromises were made by both the students and the administration.

This week our cafeteria received a Grade "A" health rating for cleanliness, and there has also been a marked improvement in the quality and taste of the food recently.

Following the old adage of "giving credit where credit is due," we think credit is due the two dietitians and all others who have aided in making these improvements.

But there is still one change that can be made—this one by a small number of students who seem to disregard entirely and show no respect for the rights and feelings of their fellow students. It has been an established rule since the opening of the present cafeteria that smoking is allowed only during the snack bar and not during regular meals. The mere fact that smoking is permitted during the time when only a few students are in the cafeteria shows that the rule is not in the least discriminatory as some may think.

If a man can't wait until he's outside to lite up, then he just isn't a man—he's still a plain kid!

Give 'Em A Chance

Now that the spring rains have commenced falling quite frequently, the gay young blades of grass are beginning to break the hard winter crust from the earth and to show forth their greenness. Only with our cooperation can the grass grow and beautify the campus. When the lawn is damp, especially, it is harmful to trample down the new shoots. How many of us have actually saved a minute by taking a short-cut across the corner of the lawn?

The warm weather naturally makes us want more and more to sit on the lawn and enjoy the lovely spring afternoons. This raises another thought. As good citizens, we must try to remember not to throw papers and chewing gum wrappers on the lawn. All of us will agree that a yard spotted with trash detracts from the general appearance of any campus.

Students, put on your thinking caps! We have two things to remember. (1) Let's try not to walk across the grass, and (2) let's not mar the beauty of the lawn by thoughtlessly throwing bits of paper around.

'Nuff said?

IT'S A FACT??

COUPLE OF THE MONTH

Now it can be told! A romance has budded out right under our noses and few people have been aware of it. The happy two consist of Morgan Murphy and Dulcie Hayes. Murphy comes to us from the peach orchards of Georgia, and is in his second year here at Brevard. Ducie hails from the cornfields of Illinois and has been here about 14 years.

The love affair started somewhat as an accident. Dulcie was holding a French coaching class one night and Murphy happened to be the only student present. Since that time, there have been many more coaching classes and a few bridge parties in West Hall.

Murphy plans to leave here in the Spring and go to a senior college to get his degree. Dulcie plans to remain here at Brevard for another decade or so. We all have faith in this couple and wish them the best of luck.

NEXT WEEK . . .

The merchants of the city are going to do their utmost to gratify the desires of our couple. John's Other Chevrolet Company is going to present them with a virgin 1949 Chevrolet. Our Chris-Craft friends are giving them a two-passenger cabin cruiser; and may there be no smoke on the water. The manager of the U-Wear It store is giving the male a spring gabardine suit and an umbrella. The girl will receive from Sam's Drug store a year's supply of fingernail polish that can be used for anything from painting toenails to hard-wood floors. So that the couple will miss no time in howling at the moon, Mitchum's drug company is going to present them with a year's supply of no-doze tablets. The local Commercial Chamber has in store for the couple an all expense-paid trip to Hawaii. This will have to take place during the summer vacation, and no chaperones will be allowed. Angel's Flying Service is going to honor the two with a Stenson Voyager, and a map of faraway places will be given by Beng Croosby.

Our hats are off to an outstanding couple!

DEADLINE HEADLINES : : :

We are glad to have the dean back with us after having spent a few days in the Asheville jail on a charge of drunken driving.

Congratulations to Miss Smiths' sophomore English class! Few people believed that a whole class could make an "A" in one of her classes.

We are all wondering when Peahead Andrews and his all-faculty polo team will return from Havana. A report from Cuba stated that the team was off-set when stable-boy Loomis got his ears caught in a hay-lift and was hospitalized for six weeks.

Dr. Coltrane announced to the press early this week that mixed drinks could be sold at the remaining dances to be held this year.

We hear that the Brevard police department was not too pleased over having to go to Ross Hall at 4 a. m. Sunday morning to quieten a disturbance. Miss Wheless and Mr. Connally, the only two hauled in, were released on $500 bond early Monday morning.

For the key to this nonsense, take a look at the dateline above. And by the way—if any of you students are ever in Mexico City, you have a cordial invitation to drop in and see the writer of this column and the editor of the paper.

What's Your Opinion?

By FRANCES SLOOP

(What do you think can be done to build up school spirit?)

Frank Thompson: "Practice broader-minded friendships with less personal attention."

Bob Davis: "I think there ought to be more student participation in chapel programs and I don't think students should be allowed to pay their way out of chapel. We should get a school song and should sing it often."

Charlie Freeman: "More cooperation between the students and the faculty."

John Hyre: "The faculty and the students should cooperate with each other by supporting the different activities around school. Why doesn't the faculty allow the girls to participate in more activities?"

Gardner; tympani, Jewell Sentelle; bells, Bill Huntley; and percussion, Richard Kelley, Bob Hunt and Sarah Freeman.

"Tudie" Crawford: "If the faculty and the students would have a little bit of 'stick-to-it-tive-ness' and keep the promises they make, I think everybody would have a little more spirit about the things they are asked to do. Why doesn't the faculty try some new method of getting to know the students better and maybe there would be better understanding among the two."

Jack Bennett: "It would help if all the students would speak to each other."

Frank Overman: "If the students showed more interest in activities, it would create better spirit."

Max McCracken: "The school spirit would be better if people would take more interest in the school."

Kat Adams: "I think the student body should act as a unit to support the school rather than be so critical. They should be willing to put more effort behind it rather than waiting for the other man to start it."

John McIntyre: "The students should support the various clubs and organizations on campus. In this way, they would get to know each other better and create a friendlier atmosphere."
