BREVARD COLLEGE, FEBRUARY 26, 1951

Number 6

Chamber Of Commerce Meets At College

MISS MARTHA BISHOP was selected by popular vote as the Brevard college entry in the Carolina Junior Conference basketball tournament beauty contest. Miss Bishop was judged among beauties from other North and South Carolina junior colleges. Martha is one of the four semi-finalists.

Frost, Noted Author And Lecturer Will Present Program March 10

Robert Frost, dean of American poets and four-time Pulitzer prize winner, will appear on the campus March 10 to lecture to students, faculty, and visitors.

Strong local interest has been expressed for this program, and according to President Ehlhardt of the college, will grant as many of the requests for admission to Mr. Frost's lecture as it possibly can. Specific arrangements will be announced at a later date.

Mr. Frost was a professor of English at Amherst and has taught and lectured in colleges throughout the country although he never finished college himself. His time at present is divided between poetry, farming and less formal teaching.

Some of Frost's better known books are "North of Boston," "A Way Out," "New Hampshire," "The Lone Striker" and "A Boy's Will." TERRY WELL RECEIVED AT FIRST OF CONCERTS

Warren Lee Terry, familiar to North Carolinians as "Old Tom," of Paul Green's LOST COLONY, was well received here Monday evening, February 19, when he performed his GILBERT and SULLIVAN IN SONG AND STORY.

The capacity audience appeared extremely pleased with Terry's program of anecdotes, humorous remarks, and operatic selections from representative works of the Gilbert-Sullivan team.

Brevardians Crown Miss Bishop Queen

Choosing a girl to represent Brevard college in a pre-tournament contest held to select a reigning queen for the Carolina Junior conference basketball tournament was the occasion for a campus beauty contest here on February 12.

Marty Bishop, sophomore, from Tryon, N. C., was declared winner by vote of the student body.

The tournament queen was chosen last week at Shelby by the judging of photographs submitted by the schools in behalf of the various contestants. Chosen as Queen of the tournament was Miss Kay Helms, of Kernsville, who was sponsored by the Oak Ridge Military institute.

The Brevard college representative was invited to serve as an attendant in the court of the queen.

Miss Bishop has a distinguished record in Brevard campus activities. A member of the Mnemosynean society and of the commercial club, she has served through the present school year as associate managing editor of the Clarion. Additionally, she is secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Student union.

Chemistry Prizes Awarded By Leete

Lawson Bingham, freshman of Leicester, and David Starr, sophomore of Greensboro, were presented special awards in chapel on February 12 for distinguished performances in chemistry. Dr. J. F. Leete, head of the Brevard college chemistry department, presented each with a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics.

This national award, which is made possible by the Chemical Rubber Publishing Co., of Cleveland, is presented annually to a freshman in each college who has made the most outstanding progress in chemistry.

Because this award was not presented at Brevard college last year, two awards were given this year.

Student Council Cleans Rec Hall

On Tuesday night, February 20, members of the Student council gave the rec hall a going over. This consisted of cleaning the floor, washing windows, dyeing curtains, painting the ping-pong tables, and furnishing the rec room with waste cans and crates for empty bottles.

Progress Reported On Loyalty Drive; Jones Is Speaker

The Brevard college loyalty fund drive made the college a chief theme of John I. Anderson, George B. Ehlhardt, and Edwin L. Jones, speakers at the annual chamber of commerce banquet, held on the evening of February 22 in the college cafeteria.

Presented by J. O. Roland, president of the local organization, who presided at the banquet, John I. Anderson, drive committee chairman, read a partial list of contributions made to date. Promising for his organization extended community effort in behalf of the college, he showed that the present drive is going well. Mr. Anderson expressed gratification at the support that the Transylvania region already has given his committee.

President Thanks Region; Presents Philanthropist

President George B. Ehlhardt spoke his gratitude for the cordial relationship now enjoyed by the college administration with the greater Brevard community; and he voiced appreciation for the town's present material endorsement of Christian education as it is now being advanced in the college. "Although Brevard college is under the government of the Methodist church," he went on to explain, "we go beyond the boundaries of our denomination and serve this community and all those who dwell therein."

Mr. Ehlhardt introduced as the principal speaker of the evening the Charlotte philanthropist and lay religious leader, Edwin Lee Jones, who is president of the J. A. Jones Construction company and chairman of the board of trustees of Brevard college.

Reviews Freedom Crusade; Applauds Small College

Mr. Jones' principal theme centered in his recent experience as an American representative during the ceremonial ringing of the Freedom Bell in Berlin. The speaker emphasized the importance of this symbolic bell. To oppressed peoples everywhere it said "in no uncertain notes that there is still indeed hope for freedom."

Interested as a trustee in Mr. Anderson's accounting of community support for the college, Mr. Jones discussed at some length in his opening remarks "the mutuality of interests" of the town and the school. In practical terms he pointed out that each advertises the other. "Both Brevard and Brevard college should and will grow together," he said; "what
