

Depicting a few scenes of College hikers are the above shots. Then, of course, there are the study demons who do not find time to spend much time at such nature excursions.

Mrs. Bramlett Is Speaker To Schools

"The teacher of art should be careful to see that the work of every student is properly mounted and displayed," Mrs. A. L. Bramlett of the Brevard College Art department told the Transylvania Classroom Teachers meeting recently at Rosman.

Proper mounting encourages the weaker student by showing even the poorer work to good advantage. In illustrating this fact, the Brevard college artist showed the pleasing effects achieved by mounting randomly chosen color patterns made accidentally by her own students as they tested their color brushes on odd bits of paper.

Often, the teacher must solve the problem of supporting an art program on insufficient funds. For Transylvania teachers who might be in this situation Mrs. Bramlett listed a number of inexpensive projects.

In illustration the Brevard teacher displayed designs and pictures which she and her students had made by pasting into a sketched outline, cuttings from the light and dark printed portions of a newspaper.

Another study was a floral piece done by gluing to a suitable base appropriately shaped bits of paper cut from the highly colored advertising pages of a popular magazine.

The clever student, Mrs. Bramlett showed, can achieve truly artistic designs with equipment no more elaborate than glue and scraps of paper.

DRE'S Organize, Officers Chosen

The D. R. E., future director's of Religious Education, held its organizational meeting Wednesday, November 8, in the living room of West Hall, and officers were elected. Officers are Norma June Merritt, president; Dot Dillinger, vice president; and Jane Wilson, secretary-treasurer. The club will meet every Friday evening from 6:30 to 7:00.

Members of the D. R. E. will help organize M. Y. F. groups in small rural churches and work in cooperation with the ministerial students who have charges in this area. Participating in this program are: Norma June Merritt, Dot Wallace, Dot Dillinger, Jane Wilson, Gloria Starnes, Vivian Simmons, Ellen Faulkner, Carolyn Hamilton, and Helen Coltrane. Rev. C. E. Roy is faculty advisor.

Members who have accepted definite duties are Norma June Merritt, Ellen Faulkner and Carolyn Hamilton working with Earl Seckinger, pastor of the Horse Shoe Methodist church and Vivian Simmons and Gloria Starnes working with James Smith, pastor of Avery's Creek Methodist church. Norma June is also in charge of Wednesday evening vespers.

Half the population is trying to stamp out heart disease and the other half is going around saying, "drop dead."

Sacred Music Is Given Sunday By 51-Voice Chorus

The 51-voice choir of Brevard college, directed by Bruce A. Livengood, presented a program of sacred music in the James Addison Jones library Sunday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock.

This concert featured Handel's "Thanks Be To Thee," and "God is a Spirit" by Bennett.

Jerry Crawford, of Greensboro, was student soloist.

Among the local people in the choir are Mary Alice Holifield, Eugene King, Clara Jean Parrish, Dottie Gay Rockwood, Jewel Sentele, Ann Smith and Bonnie Hawkins.

The same program will be given Sunday, November 26, at Haywood Street Methodist church in Asheville. The concert will honor H. A. Dunham, for whom Dunham Hall was named. He is a member of the Haywood street church.

An all-sacred group of music, including Christmas selections, will be sung by the choir at Aberneth Methodist church in Asheville December 3.

Another local concert has been scheduled for Sunday, December 10, in James Addison Jones library at 4 p. m. A Christmas cantata, "And On Earth Peace," by Lily Strickland, will be offered. The composer, a resident of Hendersonville, has been invited to be guest of honor.

It's Good For Fallen Arches!:

Students At Brevard College Go On Hikes; Consider It Much Fun

"Let's go on a hike" is almost as familiar at Brevard college as "let's go to English," or "let's go to trig." Needless to say, Most Brevard students are more anxious to accept the invitation to go hiking than to accompany someone to class.

And so it goes on! Hiking, one of the major activities at Brevard, continues to thrive as a major fun. The scenic beauty "here about" seems to offer an attraction unexcelled by other activities. Nature in all her glory beckons to Bill and Joan Freshman and Jack and Hope Sophomore. It's unique pattern of fun that's hard to describe.

WHERE DO THEY GO?

Some 15 or 20 nature spots—all within a convenient radius of Dunham Hall — offer a stimulus to possessors of blue jeans and loafers who like to take a mountain stroll. Wonderful Pisgah National forest seems to attract many picnic parties. With Pink Beds as "national headquarters" for Brevard picnic excursions, mountaineers from Brevard cover the hills of Pisgah. At Pink Beds are located cooking shelters with fireplaces — a heaven for tired, cold hikers.

On the other hand (and in another direction), Transylvania music camp, summer music capital of the south, and home of the famous Brevard Music Festival, lures many groups of chaperoned hikers to enjoy the beauties it offers.

Looking Glass Falls mirrors the faces of many students as they wearily reach its source. The long plunge and fine spray of this falls make an unforgettable sight.

Then, again, for those who have been around the world three times and have seen most all the "common to us peasants" sites, there is the more-hidden group of places to trek to, such as Connestee Falls or White Pines with its picnic shelters.

Not to be forgotten is Davidson River with its cold current for bathers. Many groups of college fellows spend happy hours swimming in Davidson.

WHO GOES?

Another good question for the non-hiker would be "who goes?" "Every one but you, you stinker" would probably be the answer from a hiking enthusiast. Almost all the members of Brevard enjoy hiking no end. Hikers as usual paired off into boy-girl groups. An accepted standard number of hikers is 11: five couples and one
