

GLEE CLUB TOUR SLATED FOR DECEMBER 6-10

Forty Seven Voice Group To Sing In Schools, Churches

The forty-seven voice Brevard College Glee club will leave Saturday, December 6, for its annual Christmas tour.

The group will travel by bus directly to Asheboro for the night. The next morning, they will sing for two services at the Central Methodist Church there, after which they will proceed to Liberty for an evening program.

A performance at Lexington High School will be on the agenda for Monday morning, December 8, followed by an afternoon concert at Thomasville High School and an evening program at the First Methodist Church.

The Glee club will sing at Concord High School on Tuesday morning and at Albemarle High School that afternoon. They will have a service at Coburn Memorial Church in Salisbury that evening and will remain in Salisbury for the night.

On Wednesday morning, the group will give a program at West Mecklenburg High, followed in the afternoon by a concert at North Mecklenburg High School. After singing at the Davidson Methodist church that evening, the Glee club will start home, arriving back in Brevard around 1 o'clock Thursday morning.

The selections to be sung by the Glee club are "Fanfare", by Martin Shaw; songs from the "Ceremony of Carols", which are "Processional", "Wolcum Yole", "This Little Babe", and "Deo Gracias", by Benjamin Britten; "Lo, How A Rose", by Michael Praetorius; "As It Fell Upon a Night", by Katherine Davis; "Carol of the Wind", by Elmore and Reed; "How Far is It to Bethlehem", by Geoffrey Shaw; "Hark Now O Shepherds," by Morten J. Luvaas; "Lay Down Your Staffs", by Franz Wasner; "Sing We All Noel", by Curtis York; "What Child Is This", by English; and "Alleluia", by Randall Thompson.

BLT Production Given At College

The Brevard Little Theatre presented "At War with the Army", a three-act comedy, on November 21-22 in the Campus Center auditorium.

Included in the large cast was Gail Bonnell, a Brevard college sophomore. She portrayed the "Marilyn Monroe" of the play, as a theatre usherette who had all the boys "goo-goo eyed" over her.

Behind the scenes, Jackie Richards, also a Brevard sophomore, was handling her job as assistant director. She was responsible for seeing that all characters were in the proper place at the right time during the play.

Also, Mr. Alex McFadden, of the college English department, was in charge of the sound and lighting for the production. He was assisted by Phillip Schoonmaker and Tommy Gilbert.

The Brevard Civic orchestra also made its season debut by presenting a concert prior to the beginning of the play. The orchestra, now

College Students Guests At Banquet On Thanksgiving

The Brevard College student body was entertained at a Thanksgiving Banquet on Thursday evening, November 27. The meal was prepared by the cafeteria staff under the direction of Mrs. Buckner.

The Christian Council, co-ordinator of all religious activities, planned the program for the evening. Marion Swann is the chairman of the council.

President McLarty was the featured speaker for the banquet. He used an original painting to illustrate his remarks.

Many students have voiced the hope that this can become an annual event.

Concerts, Meetings, Exhibits, Elections Dominate Scene At Brevard College

Dinner Meeting

The Methodist men of the Asheville District met for a dinner meeting in the Brevard College cafeteria on Friday evening, November 21, at seven o'clock.

Dr. Fletcher Nelson of Morganton was the principal speaker. Others taking part on the program included President McLarty, who welcomed the guests on behalf of Brevard College, and the Reverend Courtney Ross, host pastor.

Madrigal Singers

The Brevard College Madrigal singers presented a program of Thanksgiving music to members of the Asheville Kiwanis club at their regular meeting on Friday, November 21.

Louisville Meeting Planned

The sixty-third annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be held in Louisville, Kentucky, December 1-4.

President McLarty and Dean Pennett will attend the sessions which are to be held in the Brown Hotel.

The program will include, besides the general sessions, the meetings of many of the affiliated groups of the association.

Paintings Displayed

Douglas Grant, of Asheville, North Carolina has several paintings on display in the Campus Center building.

Mr. Grant is a well known figure in and around Brevard. He is a member of the American Water Color Society. Mr. Grant has taught several art classes in Brevard, and his familiarity with this section is evident in his paintings, many of which depict scenes from the area around Brevard.

BSU Exhibit

For one week prior to the Thanksgiving week-end, an exhibit erected by the college BSU was shown in the window of the Campus Center building.

The exhibit was centered around a Thanksgiving motif, with the theme "Count your blessings, Name them one by one." Each article displayed in the arrangement depicted some phase of the American culture, such as our Bible, schools, churches, works of art, sports, clothing, music, and other objects.

Mr. Stevenson Speaks

Professor J. J. Stevenson, head of the history department, was the featured speaker for the chapel service on November 21.

He chose as the theme for his address, "Study." In his usual good humor, Mr. Stevenson chided the students over their failure to become acquainted with their closest neighbor, study. His words, however, were not without an encouraging note.

Dr. Leete

On November 19, Dr. J. F. Leete spoke to the students on his work in the Middle East. He interpreted trends there as he saw them and told of his impression of the various countries which he visited.

College Choir

The college choir presented a
