Lecturer Highlights Lyceum

Bowles To Be Speaker In BJC REW Activities

Religious Emphasis Week at Brevard College has always been a significant part of life on the campus. This year's observance, however, is unique in that it marks the first time this observance is supported by a memorial fund established for this specific purpose.

The late Dr. A. W. Plyler was a Methodist minister in the Western North Carolina Conference. He served as a charter member of the Board of Trustees of the college, showing great interest in the college's work and promises for growth in size and usefulness. Dr. Plyler and his twin brother, Dr. M. T. Plyler, became co-editors of the North Carolina Christian Advocate, and served in that capacity for many years. The church suffered a great loss when, in 1956, Dr. A. W. Plyler died at the age of 89.

Last year, Mrs. A. W. Plyler established a fund, the interest from which will each year bring an outstanding preacher to the campus. Dr. Charles P. Bowles, Minister of the West Market Street Methodist Church in Greensboro, long-time friend of Dr. and Mrs. Plyler, will be the first Plyler Religious Emphasis speaker.

COLLEGES TO VISIT CAMPUS

Brevard College's annual senior college day will be held in the Student Lounge on February 25 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The purpose of college day is to give Brevard College students a chance to talk to representatives from the senior colleges they might be interested in.

Representatives will be here from Salem, Guilford, Atlantic Christian, the University of North Carolina, —Turn to Page Three Internationally known counter spy, investigator of spectacular frauds, author and journalist, Dan T. Moore will be the attraction on the next lyceum program at Brevard college February 22. Mr. Moore will speak on the subject "Spy Warfare Today," what it means now in the world-wide "cold war." The lecture at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Building will be open to the public.

Dan Moore has had an almost legendary career in the "cloak and dagger" profession. During World War II he served as Executive Assistant to the Chief of X-2 Counter-Intelligence in Washington, and later as Chief Liaison Officer between X-2, OSS, FBI and State Department. He was then assigned to the Middle East, where from his office in Cairo, Egypt, he headed counter-intelligence operations. He travelled the countries and islands of this vast area in search of enemy agents. In his lectures he draws heavily on his own experiences in these dangerous assignments.

Before his war experiences, as Regional Administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission for Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, Mr. Moore headed the clean-up of securities and other frauds in that area. He jailed scores of racketeers, had his life threatened many times, and participated in many spectacular investigations and trials.

At present Mr. Moore is absorbed in a literary career in Cleveland Heights, Ohio. A gifted writer as well as a speaker, his articles and stories have appeared in The Satur- —Turn to Page Two

Phi Theta Kappa Taps Members In Chapel Ceremony

The local chapter of Phi Theta Kappa held its induction service in chapel on February 10. Phi Theta Kappa is an honorary organization for those students in junior colleges who are in the upper 10 per cent of the student body, and take at least 15 credit hours, 12 of which must be in the arts and sciences.

During the ceremony, Judy McManus read the Scripture; Joe Litaker set forth the ideals and purpose of the organization, and Betty Hornaday gave the history.

The old members, Max Walser, Roberta Siniard, Choo Kim, Elmer Norwood, Sherrill Michael, Dee Carden, Celia Hooper, Pat Pruitt, Joe Harris, Betty Hornaday, Judy McManus, and Joe Litaker tapped incoming members, and President Joe Litaker gave the pledge.

College Boys Aid Community At Uptown Fire

A call for volunteers brought about forty boys from Brevard College dormitories at 9 a.m. Sunday morning to fight a fire in the A&P store, called the worst fire Brevard has seen in years. The college boys worked shoulder to shoulder with members of the fire department, police force, and civilian volunteers to carry everything of value out of a radio repair shop and gas station adjoining the burning store. The firemen were unable to put the fire out, but managed to keep it confined to the A&P and prevented the neighboring stores and houses from burning.

WHC Appoints 4

Martha Fair, Patsy Green, Lynda Porter, and Anna Williamson have been chosen to fill the four vacancies left in the Women's House Council after the end of first semester.

Anna is the new sophomore hall proctor on the first floor of east wing of Jones Hall. The remaining three girls will act as freshman assistants on their respective floors for the remainder of the year.

Members of the Women's House Council had their annual steak dinner at Berry's Restaurant on February 9. The members of the organization are Celia Hooper, Virginia Doscher, Dee Carden, Aurelia Morgan, Sara Cox, Judy McManus, Anna Williamson, Mary Jo Warr, Donna Dotson, Lynda Porter, Helen Johnson, Marie Teele, Peggy Edmiston, Jeanne Morris, Carol Engelbirth, Martha Fair, Martha Adams, Janie Wilkinson, Betty Hornaday, and Patsy Green.

Susan Hunt Delphian Sweetheart

On Saturday night, February 13, 1960, Miss Susan Hunt, in a state of ecstasy, was crowned the Delphian Sweetheart for 1960. She was escorted by Mr. Wayne Edwards.

Her court consisted of Miss Peggy Edmiston escorted by Mr. Kent Dorsey; Miss Norma Smith escorted by Mr. Gerry Williams; Miss Patsy Greene escorted by Mr. Glover Coggins; and Miss Judy Grogan escorted by Mr. Art Campbell.
