The Alpha Beta Gamma held their induction service on February 8. The program was opened by the President, Bob Gladden, who spoke on "What Is Alpha Beta Gamma." Following the president's talk, Jim Wilson presented the plans for the year.

The roll was then called for the 19 new members by the secretary Martha Ann Fair. They were as follows: Phil Berrier, Vandaly Brown, Joe Cockerhan, Larry Garmon, Harry Golderer, and Patsy Green.

Gene Holland, Pat Morrissey, Gene McGaha, Mahmood Mohamen, Clyde Nagle, Barbara Pless, and James Sawhill.

Steve Shephard, Becky Sigmon, Charles Smith, Sandra Smith, H. M. Summey, and Lawrence Suggs.

After the new members signed their names to the register, the Vice President, Jack Wampler gave the pledge. The members were then welcomed into the fraternity.

Each year Alpha Beta Gamma presents a chemistry handbook to the person with the highest average in the chemistry department. Tom Barbee, who received the handbook last year, presented the book to Gene Holland.

College Day Will Be Held February 16

Representatives from twenty North and South Carolina senior colleges and universities will attend the College Day program in the Student Lounge at Brevard College on Thursday, February 16, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Arranged by Director of Admissions, W. Glenn Hardesty, the program is held each year for the benefit of Brevard College sophomores who plan to continue their formal education.

According to Mr. Hardesty, eighty five per cent of the students who graduate from Brevard transfer to four year colleges throughout the country. "Our curricula," said Mr. Hardesty, "are designed to meet transfer requirements. All required and recommended courses are accepted for credit by senior institutions. The visits of representatives to our campus indicate the welcome senior colleges extend our students."

Beth Peterson, Du Pont Home Economist, Will Speak To Girls Wednesday Night, In Dormitory Meeting

A talk on "The New American Look in Living," will be given at Brevard College on Wednesday, February 15th, at 8:00 o'clock by Miss Beth Peterson, home economist of the Du Pont company's extension division.

Miss Peterson, of Wilmington, Delaware, is an authority on chemical developments as they affect the home.

The program will be presented to Brevard College women and Du Pont women in the auditorium of the Campus Center building.

She will discuss and show some of the latest developments in clothing and home furnishings, including tips on care.

"There's a new look in living today which can best be described as a marriage of individual needs and modern technology," Miss Peterson says. "Because women wanted better things for modern living, they spurred industry to produce them. Women can take much of the credit for our high standard of living today."

This observation grew out of her years of association with Du Pont and with home economics and extension work. She is a graduate of Iowa State University where she specialized in textiles and clothing and home economics education. She also did postgraduate work in textiles and consumer economics there and at the University of Chicago.

She taught home economics and was a county home demonstration agent in Iowa. Following this work, she joined the staff of the Iowa State University Extension Service as specialist in textiles and clothing.

Miss Peterson joined the Du Pont Company in 1946 as home economist and since that time she has closely observed the development of new chemical products and has studied their place in the home.
