Fourth Annual Science Fair Given By ABG

A Science show was presented by the Alpha Beta Gamma Scholastic Fraternity in the Science Building, on April 14.

Exhibits of magic writing, pH, indicators, and titration, chemical gardens, electrolytes, electrolysis, an ammonia fountain, and colloidal solutions were presented by some of the chemistry students. Those participating were: Sandra Smith, Becky Sigmon, Patsy Green, Vandalyne Brown, Phil Berrier, H. M. Summey, Harry Golderer, and Jim Neill.

Also Lloyd McGowan, Jack Wampler, Steve Smith, Doyle Chambers, James Sawhill, Jim Heaney and Clyde Nagle.

The exhibit "Light and the Spectrum" was presented by Gene McGaha and Mahmood Motamen. Other exhibits consisted of Theory of Distillation, use of Distillation in Petroleum Refining, Glass Blowing, and Paper Chromatography.

Students participating in these exhibits were Fred Bryson, Tommy Buckner, Lawrence Suggs, Steve Shephard, Barbara Parks, Joe Cockerham, Jim Wilson, Ed Brewer, and Gene Holland.

Barbara Pless and Patricia Morrissey had a display of books.

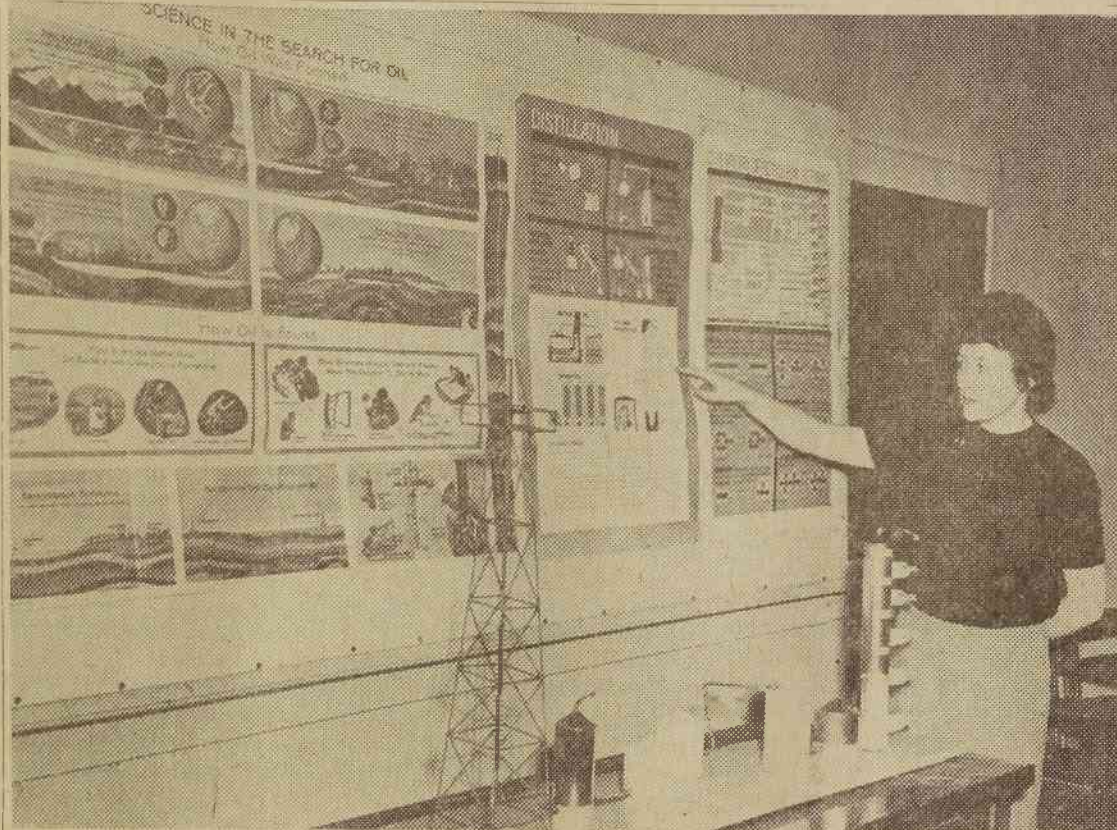

ABG faculty sponsor is Miss Nicholson.

Final Lyceum Will Be Held On April 27

Speaking on the subject "Johnny Reb and Billy Yank," Dr. Bell Irvin Wiley, Professor of History at Emory University, will conclude the lyceum series this year at Brevard College, Thursday, April 27.

Dr. Bell is author and editor of many books on the Civil War, including "The Life of Johnny Reb," "The Plain People in the Confederacy," "The Life of Billy Yank," "The Road to Appomattox," "They Who Fought Here." His articles have appeared in the American Historical Review, Journal of Southern Historical Review, Journal of Southern History, New York Times and the Saturday Review.

For outstanding achievement in the field of Civil War history, Dr. Bell received the Gold Medal Award, in April 1959, by the Washington, D. C. Civil War Round Table. In 1957 he was appointed to the Civil War Centennial Commission by President Eisenhower. He was a Guggenheim Fellow in 1957-58, and in 1941-42 he was a Julius Rosenwald Fellow. Last May he was appointed Chas. Howard Candler Distinguished Professor at Emory University.

Miss Bobbie Jean Nicholson, chemistry instructor and faculty adviser to Alpha Beta Gamma, is pictured with one of the exhibits which were shown at the recent science fair. The fair, the fourth for the college, featured exhibits from both the chemistry and physics departments. Approximately twenty-five students participated in the display.

Three Are In Running For Top Position

Nominees for the forthcoming student government election have been named by the Student Government Association. Those named were selected on the basis of scholarship with regard to the established point system.

To be elected, the candidate must have at least a C average, no F's, and not more than one D in all college work. Also, an officer may not accrue over twelve points under the point system.

Points for the various offices range from 10 each for the President of the Student Body, Editor of the Clarion, and Editor of the Pertelote, to 8 each for the Vice-President, Secretary, and Social Chairman of the Student Body, business managers and associate editors of the Clarion and Pertelote.

Thus far, the following people have been nominated for office:

President: Danny Bost, Charles Smith, and Craig Little.

Vice-President: Mary Ellen Henley and Phil Berrier.

Secretary: Jane Royster and Sally Maynard.

Social Chairman: Diane Brackett and Doris Lawson.

Editor of Pertelote: Barbara Oliver.

Editor of Clarion: John Goins. Business Manager of Pertelote: (not released).

Business Manager of Clarion: Juanita McKee and Carol Livingston.

Further nominations by the student body must be accompanied by a petition containing 10 per cent of the student body's signatures.

On April 21, all petitions must be turned in to some Student Council member.

On April 26, campaign speeches will be made. Active student participation is requested by Student Government President, Manuel Wortman.

Lois Frazier Is Candidate, BPW Office

Miss Lois Frazier, who was formerly the Head of the Business Department of Brevard College, has been nominated as North Carolina's candidate for national treasurer of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

From THE HEEL WOMAN, the magazine of the North Carolina Federation, come these statements:

"Look at her . . . Presiding so well during meetings . . . knowing so well and practicing so effectively the principles of parliamentary law . . . Now, look behind that scene, and we find her first becoming a
