

College Receives Large Grant From Foundation

President McLarty Announces New Building Program

The people of Brevard helped the college to receive a $100,000 Challenge Grant from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation. This grant was given with the stipulation that Brevard would have to raise $200,000. When the people of Brevard found that the college was still $5,000 short of its goal a good number of them sent in contributions to help Brevard reach the necessary figure.

The money was used to pay off the Science Building. This is an excellent example of the good will the people of Brevard feel for Brevard College.

President McLarty was very pleased that the townspeople had helped Brevard in this instance. He also issued the accompanying photograph and the following statement.

The photograph of the street and building layout together with a suggested schedule of planting was proposed by a Brevard College alumnus. Mr. Thomas Anderson, Class of 1958, presented a thesis to the Department of Landscaping Architecture at the University of Georgia in partial fulfillment of the requirement for the Bachelor of Science degree. This thesis contained, together with other photographs, this one. The thesis dealt with the arrangement and would enhance the looks of the campus. It is the hope of the administration that planting of an indigenous type will be used on the campus, thus allowing for native growth that can be procured from the Pisgah National Forest.

The new street layout and lighting are among the next projects to be undertaken in the Development Program. This plan calls for thirty mercury-vapor street lamps, with paved streets, —Turn to Page Four

Lyceum Program Given Today

Brevard College presents the Dance Drama company for the second Lyceum program of the current series Friday evening, February 2, at 8:15 o'clock in the College Center auditorium.

Miss Emily Frankel, the featured dancer and director of the company, has been internationally acclaimed. First for her unique qualities as a dancer, and second for her innovations as head of the company. The NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE calls her "little, lithe and utterly lovely"; the NEW YORK TIMES says she is "a far-sighted bold adventurer, whose ideas have greatly influenced the off-Broadway scene."

The company will perform a program in two parts at the Brevard College presentation.
