

May Day Festivities Begin May 5th At 3:00

JOYCE MABRY

Beginning at 3:00 P.M. Saturday, May 5, the Brevard College campus will be the scene of the year's biggest annual event, May Day. This year the theme of the day is to be "Carrousel", and promises to be colorful, fresh, and lively.

The Freshman Class, under the leadership of Miss Sherry Morris, Chairman of the planning committee, and Mrs. J. B. Bennett, advisor to the class, has put much enthusiastic and imaginative work into the preparations in order to make this year's May Day as unforgettable as possible.

The afternoon program will begin with the presentation of the 1962 May Queen and her court, who will reign over festive events of the day. This year's Queen is Miss Sally Miles from Evingston, Virginia. She will be escorted by Mr. Danny Bost of Kannapolis.

President Emmett K. McLarty will crown the queen and bestow upon her the official title, "Queen Sally". Miss Miles' Maid of Honor is a sophomore, Miss Doris Lawson of Winston-Salem. She is to be escorted by Mr. Danny Eubanks of Brevard.

There are eight other attendants on the court, four freshmen and four sophomores. The sophomore attendants are Miss Kitty Whitworth of Charlotte, to be escorted by Mr. Tommy Crates, also of Charlotte; Miss Betsy Wren of Saluda, to be escorted by Charles Smith of Greenville, South Carolina; Miss Linda Sheffield of Clyde, to be escorted by Mr. Garland Smith of Marion, S. C.; and Miss Kenlon Carlson of Ridgeland, New Jersey, to be escorted by Mr. Johnny Wittaker of Brevard.

The freshmen attendants are Miss Sandy Hill of Asheville, to be escorted by Mr. George Durham of Winston-Salem; Miss Sherry Patrick of Jacksonville, Florida, to be escorted by Mr. Richard Lane of Morganton; Miss Jeannie Keener of Lincoln, to be escorted by Mr. Jim Reep of Forest City; and Miss Ann Miller of North Wilkesboro, to be escorted by Mr. Russell Pearson, also of N. Wilkesboro.

Martha Cantrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Cantrell, will be the flower girl, and Preston Roberts, son of Dean and Mrs. E. E. Roberts, will be the official crownbearer.

This year the color scheme for the Queen and her court will be white. Miss Miles will wear a white satin ball gown with bell-shaped skirt and jewel-worked scooped neckline. Her court will wear white ball gowns of silk organza over taffeta. The gowns will have tulip bodices with spaghetti straps and bell-shaped skirts detailed in back. Wrist gloves, modified organza stoles, and "Southern Bell" hats will be worn in the afternoon but discarded for the evening dance.

Each attendant will carry cascade bouquets fashioned of deep pink carnations and English ivy. The Queen's bouquet will be white. All the male escorts will wear white coats and black tuxedo pants. The flower girl will wear a white dress fashioned on the order of the attendants and will carry a miniature bouquet, and the crownbearer will wear a white suit.

During the entertainment the Queen will sit under a canopy of rose and white stripes, and her court will sit on decorated stools around her. All the afternoon activities will be outside around the lily pond if the weather permits. To begin the entertainment the traditional May Pole Dance will be done by Mrs. Sader's freshmen girls' gym classes. They will wear pastel ballerina length gowns.

The May Pole dancers will be Jane Adams, Lynn Brewer, Harriet Carey, Jeannie Cleary, Virginia Cook, Carolyn Dotson, Ka-

Trustees Meet On Campus To Consider New Building Program

"Confetti I," By Eng. 16 Class, To Be Published On May 9th

Members of the creative writing course (English 16) will publish a small sampling of prose and poetry, written for the class, on Wednesday, May 9. The publication will be distributed without charge to students and faculty, the publication costs being underwritten by the college.

Entitled Confetti I, it is expected that if the project continues in successive years each new edition will be numbered. The book, which contains forty-eight pages, was designed at the college and printed on the college-owned Multitry machine.

Every member of the class has contributed work to the publication. Ronnie Alexander, in two poems, describes a miniature Collie dog and a stockyard scene, while Ann Greene seeks to reveal something of life's meaning in two additional poems.

Sue Ellen Gfroisick has contributed more poems than others (four altogether), the unifying theme being a dancer—

At eleven o'clock today a general meeting of the board of trustees will be held in the faculty lounge. A dinner meeting was held Thursday evening at six o'clock at the home of President McLarty.

Along with the usual business to be discussed at the meeting will be the new by-laws and charter of Brevard College Corporation. They will discuss the next phase of the building procedure, including: a new library and administration building, the feasibility of a new men's dormitory, the renovation of the student center into a music building, and the enlargement of the present library into a student center.

These plans are being made in order to accommodate one-third more students.

Hooper, Former Student, Added To B. C. Faculty

Miss Celia I. Hooper, from Canton, N. C., has been added to the faculty as instructor in English and as assistant to Mrs. Dellinger, Advisor to Women, for the 1962-63 session. Miss Hooper graduated from Brevard College, magna cum Laude, in 1960, and will graduate from Berea
