Brevard College Welcomes New Faculty Members

SGA-MSF Save A Child

Through the efforts of the Brevard College Student Government Association, the Methodist Student Fellowship and other student organizations, a nine-year-old Korean lad can eat again.

Last year, members of the Inner Society Council staged a unique program for the sponsorship of a young child in a foreign country. This was done through the "Save the Children Federation" and efforts of faculty members and students. "Shares were sold at 50 cents each and a sum total of $200 was donated for this purpose.

Yung Hwan Yoon is a fourth grade pupil of primary school. He is in good health and attends school regularly, six days a week. He has five sisters, ranging in age from six to twenty years.

The family is native of Seoul, Korea. The mother works for the family living by peddling minor daily articles in the market place. The father died of illness in May of this year. His death put the family in a desperate situation.

Now the family lives in a single rented room on the outskirts of Seoul. The main part of their family income comes from the wages the second elder sister makes working as an office girl for Korea Life Insurance Company. She obtained the position as a result of her school standing. She is attending night classes in the first grade of high school. They are both scholarship students. Otherwise, it would make a heavy burden on the family for there is no free schooling in Korea. Still, their meager income is small to meet the needs of living. Sponsorship not only promotes the welfare of the boy but encourages the whole family as well.

The "Save the Children Federation" requires a fee of $150 for each child sponsored. Since $200 were collected last year, there was a $50 surplus. This has been put into a "revolving

Brevard Little Theatre To Start Season With "Charley's Aunt"—Nov. 16

By JEANETTE AUSTIN

The Brevard Little Theatre welcomes members of the freshman and sophomore class as well as new and returning members of the faculty to the town of Brevard.

Mel Everingham, President, invites you to "join our enthusiastic group and to participate in any of the various phases of theatrical work in which you might be interested — acting, make-up, art, costumes, stage and hand props, lighting, and the building and setting up of stage sets. Through these means of self-expression and the developing of talents that are perhaps unknown to you, you can be of real help to our organization and, more important, become an integral part of the community in which you will be living for one or two years.

"We who live in Brevard consider the college a part of our town and the Brevard Little Theatre is especially interested in college students and their activities because of our pleasant association with you during the past five years in which we held our plays in the well-equipped Campus Center Auditorium.

Although these modern facilities will not be available to us this year, we congratulate the college on its growth and expansion which has necessarily curtailed the use of the auditorium for outside activities," Mr. Everingham continued.

BLT's first production will be "Charley's Aunt", a world-famous comedy by Brandon Thomas, which is guaranteed to bring tears of laughter. It will be presented November 16 and 17 in the American Legion Hall in Brevard which is within walking distance of the college. Leaving the college campus from Johnson Street, which originates directly in front of the college power plant, one has only to walk two blocks up the hill to the intersection of Jordan Street.

Try-outs for "Charley's Aunt" were held Monday evening and the casting committee is happy to announce that among those selected to take acting roles are Oscar Smith and Larry Davis.

Oscar, who was very active with BLT last year as a member of the back-stage crew in "Majority of One" and as the butler in "Watch on the Rhine", will play the part of Jack Chesney, an undergraduate at Oxford College, who laughs his way through life and who through his "drive" sets the pace of the play. Brassett, college manservant, will be played by Larry Davis.

The title role in "Charley's Aunt" is played by a man dressed in women's attire, complete with long dress, petticoats and a wig. This quick change of gender and costume is necessitated by the fact that the girl friends will not accept a dinner engagement with the college students without the chaperoneage of Charley's rich aunt from Brazil, whom they have been invited to meet.

Students Represent Eighteen States; Two Foreign Countries

On Brevard campus this year, the old question "Where are you from?" is frequently being answered, "Florida, Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania," or various other states, both Northern and Southern.

There are 242 full-time students from North Carolina, representing 50 of the state's counties. In comparison, 172 students are enrolled from 17 other states and the District of Columbia. The states represented include: Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

In addition, 4 Cuban students and 1 student from Borneo are enrolled, bringing the total enrollment to 419.

When asked why they chose Brevard College, out-of-state students most often answer that they had heard of the beautiful setting of the campus, the friendly community life, and the excellence of the faculty and administration.

Cross To Honor Dr. McLarty, Sr.

In a continuing program of campus planning and improvement, the construction of a new cross to replace the present one beside the lily pool at the East end of the main quadrangle has been announced by President Emmett K. McLarty, Jr. In expressing his appreciation for the gift to the college, President McLarty stated, "The religious character of the college needs continual visible expression."
