Trophy To Be Awarded

The Student Government Association in cooperation with President McLarty and Mr. Butterworth has agreed once again to support the "Trophy of the Month" campaign for good housekeeping. The trophy, again this year, will be awarded to the dormitory selected as the best-kept dorm; and monetary awards of $50 and $25 will be given to the dorm which receives the trophy the greatest number of times during the semester. Last year, the two awards were won by Jones Hall and Taylor Hall, respectively.

MSF Gains New Members

The Methodist Student Fellowship held its first meeting of the year on Sunday, September 15. The meeting was held at the Brevard Methodist Church and was preceded by a spaghetti supper given by the WSCS of the church.

Following the meal the meeting began as Mr. Nelson Adams led the group in singing hymns. A short devotional was then given by Jim Ruiz and Annette Hyatt. Marian Staley, president, gave a short talk on the activities of the Methodist Student Fellowship for the coming year.

This meeting proved to be a very successful period of food and fellowship for approximately 175 students and several members of the faculty.

Each Friday night the Methodist Student Fellowship will meet, in the faculty dining room, from 5:00 P.M. until 6:00 P.M., with the business meeting and program beginning around 5:40 P.M. Every Methodist student is invited and urged to come and participate in these weekly meetings.

The officers for this year's MSF are Marian Staley, president; Jim Ruiz, vice-president; Annette Hyatt, secretary-treasurer; and Dottie Faulkner, social chairman. Mr. Louis Miles is the faculty adviser.

Business Club Will Meet Soon

The Business Club of Brevard College invites all students interested in the field of business to join this organization and share in the experiences of learning about the problems and procedures of the business world.

The purpose of the club is to bridge the gap between the classroom and the working world. The first meeting will be held in early October.

Just why did he come to Brevard? "I like it." A North Carolinian—his home is in Charlotte—he likes the town and the country around it. He feels that the College itself has a good chance of continuing to offer a good program for music students.

As for his plans for this year at Brevard, Mr. Adams is "so mixed up with scheduling" that he hasn't had time to form any definite plans. He hopes, though, that there will be a great deal of expansion in the music department.

To continue his studies in music history, he hopes to spend time this year with Dr. Frank Baker at Duke University doing research for a dissertation on early Methodist hymnology. He will probably study there next summer.

As a teacher, Mr. Adams prefers the field of music history, but enjoys organ and choral conducting as well. He plays organ and piano primarily, and has written, but not yet published, several pieces for the organ, a string trio, and an anthem.

When asked if he would ever stop teaching, Mr. Adams laughed. "I decide that every night!" But really, although he had planned to go into church work and began teaching only as an ex-

BSU Picnic Planned For Tomorrow

The Baptist Student Union is planning a picnic Saturday, September 28, beginning at 2:30 P.M. The outing will be held at Cantrell's farm, and transportation will be provided. Also there will be rides for those students who would find it more convenient to go at 4:30 P.M.

Horseback riding, hiking, dancing, and various other activities are being planned. There is nothing that can compare to country air and scenery, and the food promises to be delicious. Everyone is invited to come, especially those of you who plan to join the BSU.

Support Our Advertisers

Since we students will be making our home in Brevard for the months to come, we will be trading with many of the local merchants. Some of these businessmen advertise in the Clarion. It is likely that you will prefer to trade with your school paper's advertisers.

The Clarion would like to say, on behalf of all the students, a special "thank you" to Patterson's of Brevard. The envelopes containing Arpege, English Leather, and a Brevard Emblem were opened with many "oh's" and "ah's" of appreciation.

tion, "the self-study, while it encourages an institution to examine its history and to determine its position in the educational world, is not a status study only; but is one which should make it possible for the institution to project its educational program and plan its growth within the framework of its purpose."

periment, he doubts now that he will ever leave the teaching profession.

There are many who hope that he will remain a teacher in Brevard's music department for years to come. If his hopes for expansion are realized, the College will have an even fuller music program. Brevard hopes that Mr. Adams will stay, now that he has returned.

Tests Results Show Competence

Test scores resulting from the battery of standardized tests given all entering students have now been compiled by Mr. C. E. Roy, instructor in psychology and religion and director of guidance and counseling.

"Last year's entering class and this year's entering class just about tie for honors for the highest average scores on basic ability (IQ) among all the College's entering classes," reports Mr. Roy. "Freshmen may feel confident, then, that they are able to do college work. But this report is not intended to mislead them into thinking they need not work."

"While our average is several points above the national freshmen standard," Mr. Roy continues, "it is one of the purposes of Brevard College to place a challenge before each individual student in terms of his or her basic competence. I advise—even urge—the setting of a good study schedule."

You Say You What?

Is that your trouble? Well, lift your head and smile, smile, smile! You'll show the world, you'll show them all! But, if at first you don't succeed, try, try a grin.
