Poll Reveals Quiet Dorm

Too much noise in Jones Hall? The students don't think so, as evidenced by this sampling of student opinions:

Sophomore: There is some noise, but not too much. There really isn't that much noise when you consider how many girls there are in the dorm.

Freshman: I don't think it's particularly noisy, especially not during closed study. Third floor (where I live) is admirably quiet.

Sophomore: It isn't too noisy. If everybody would make noise, they wouldn't notice the noise. Anyway, people who aren't making noise aren't paying any attention; they expect it.

Freshman: The noise isn't in the dorm, it's outside on the sidewalks. I think the sophomores should just be warned.

Sophomore: I have no complaints. It's a lot quieter this year than it was last year.

Everybody's settled down.

Freshman: The only thing that bothers me is the chairs screeching.

Sophomore: The noise (especially outside) is pretty bad sometimes, particularly on Sunday morning when you're trying to sleep.

Freshman: No, the noise hasn't bothered me — we're the noisy ones except during closed study, naturally.

Sophomore: It seems rather noisy to me. I think it should be brought to the attention of the sophomores that they are being noisy in the halls and when going to the Soda Shop, but I think a warning should serve.

Freshman: The noise in the dorm doesn't bother me, but the noise from the music building does. In fact, sometimes it's too quiet in the dorm.

Dancing Provides Light Entertainment

Listen my children and you shall hear of the foot-weary story of "Ashby Astaire." The afore mentioned personage is only one of the many great artists you can see performing every Tuesday and Thursday at 9:00 a. m. in the lobby of the Gym. Mr. Fisher, the leader of the pack, has high hopes of his twenty - seven climbers learning to appreciate Brevard College formal dances.

At the last performance, the famous dance team of Roberts and Corn demonstrated the correct method of tripping the light fantastic slowly. After this enlightning display of talents, the elite dance group received instructions of the rumba. One of the important features of this Latin American dance is the shifting of weights. This is not a muscle building process.

It is expected that nine or ten dances will be learned by the end of the semester and completion of the course.

Good luck all you social prospects. You may need it!

Honor Society Plans Activity

This year, Phi Theta Kappa intends on becoming more active as an organization. As a beginning, four major programs on education, church, business, and law have been planned. The first one will be held on September 27 at 7:30 p.m. Dean Harris, the speaker, will discuss the topic of education.

Future plans of the group also include a plaque to be presented to the hall with the highest academic average, a party honoring the students who make the Dean's List and Honor Roll at mid-semester and semester, and the sponsorship of Friday at Four.

John Brookshire, president of the organization, says that it is planned that officers will be sent to the National Convention this year. Though this, it is hoped that Phi Theta Kappa will become one of the most active groups on campus.
