AWARDS TO BE PRESENTED TO OUTSTANDING STUDENTS

As graduation approaches, thoughts turn to the past year's accomplishments. Diplomas and the awards of a successful year greet each sophomore who has gone "the extra mile" in assuring himself of a degree.

In addition, four awards are presented to outstanding sophomores: the Art Purchase Award, the Mary Frances Morton Citizenship Award, the Olin Scholarship, and the WOW (Woodmen of the World) history award.

The art award is one purchase award of $50 and three honorable mentions. The art work is bought and used by the College. However, a change was made last year, which qualifies both freshmen and sophomores. The art work of Mr. Tim Murray's students are judged for this award by the curator of the Asheville Art Museum.

The Mary Frances Morton Citizenship Award, given to the best citizen in the sophomore class, is a cash prize of $25. The student is chosen solely by the faculty on such merits as they deem important. This award was begun by Dr. L. Thomas Morton of Charlotte in memory of his infant daughter and later enlarged to include his son.

Started in 1958, the Olin Scholarship is an $800 award, given in two $400 installments to the person who shows the most chance of future success in the various fields of study. The money, donated by the Olin Mathieson Corporation of Pisgah Forest, is assigned by a faculty committee on Honors and Awards.

This money, which is sent directly to the Admissions Office of the recipient's senior college, is designed to make the financial burden of college a little smaller. Qualifications include a 2.0 average, good character, leadership, indication of future success in college, and an evidence of financial need.

Award is given to a student who shows a great interest in and aptitude for American history, even though he may not necessarily have the highest grades. Chosen by the history teachers, the recipient receive a plaque from the sponsoring organization citing the accomplishment.

The awards will be announced at commencement exercises the afternoon of May 12.

Brevard Loses Seven Instructors

At the end of the 1967 - 68 academic year, diverse circumstances and opportunities will bring a change for some members of the present Brevard College faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Tauscher of the Division of Languages plan to visit India. They plan to spend some time with Mr. Tauscher's parents who live there. Impressions of India in the forms of writing, pictures and recordings is the planned result of a year's stay in India.

Mrs. Barbara Daye will leave Brevard to accompany her husband, Mr. Jim Daye, who has accepted a coaching position elsewhere.

Mrs. Kathryn Bohan will teach during the summer school sessions, but will not be back for the 1968 - 69 academic year.

Miss Willoughby Jarrell has received a fellowship to study for her doctorate at Emory University during the coming year.

Dr. Chorinjeth Rajagopalan has accepted a position with the Biology Department of the Luzerne County Community College in Wilkes - Barre, Pennsylvania, for the coming year.

Miss Jacquelyn Taylor drama instructor, is getting married and will leave Brevard to accompany her husband.

A new position awaits Dr. Harris after June 1. He has been named as Supervisor of Pre-Service Teacher Education of the State Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh.

PERTELOTE Is Released To Students

On Monday night, April 29, at a special assembly, Debbie Cortner presented the 1967-68 Pertelote to the student body.

The yearbook, besides compiling memories of the past year, carries out the theme of how one's perspective on life may have been broadened by this. The cover consists of the Brevard College seal in gold on a background of olive green.

MARSHALS

The marshals of Brevard College, an honor group on campus, are the six freshmen students with the highest grades for the year.

The freshmen marshals are Donys Kaye Holtzclaw, chief, from Brevard; Patricia Frances Arrowood, Gastonia; William Harvey Broome, Gastonia; Larry Eugene Ledford, Bryson City; Sylvia Annette Monteith, Brevard; and Gary Neal Trotter, Brevard.

It may be pointed out that three of the six marshals are day students from the Brevard area.

The marshals' duties begin with Commencement Exercises of their freshman year and extend throughout their sophomore year.

The first official duty of the marshals is to lead in the faculty and graduating class at commencement. They also aid in the lining up of graduates and other chores preceding the graduation ceremony.

During the sophomore year, these students are asked to usher at the lyceum programs and other special events. They also act as representatives of the college as guides for visiting students.

The ratio of boys to girls in this group varies. In 1965, there were five boys and one girl; in 1966, six girls; in 1967, three girls and three boys; and in 1968, three girls and three boys.

Musicians Will Perform For Graduation

Saturday night the massed music ensembles of Brevard College will present a concert for the families of the graduates and in honor of these graduates. The combined talents of the concert band, glee club, madrigal singers and choir promises an inspiring program.

Sunday morning the B.C. music department will do its part presenting the music for the commencement services which will be held in Boshamer Gymnasium.

That afternoon the band and various choral groups will again be called upon to provide music for the final ceremonies.

More active this year than any other since its organization the band includes 7 music majors and 9 non-majors. With this final performances the band will graduate the following sophomores: Cecilia Henry, Linda Espey, Dave Tincher, Scarlett Estridge, Martha Colongier, Beverly Foster, Jerry Page, Charlie Vernon, Rick Chappell, Peggy Killian, Tommy Thompson, Bill Faucette, Suzy Jinette, and Linda Livengood.

Also always the band will include its usual contingent of faculty members including Miss Moser, Mr. and Mrs. Whatley, and Miss Jarrell.
