

Sandburg's World Presented In Chapel

"The World of Carl Sandburg" was warmly received by Brevard College students in chapel Wednesday night. The group, touring without Mrs. Helen Bragdon who was in the hospital, displayed a stunning exhibition of dramatic reading of the world famous poems.

Filling in for the absent Mrs. Bragdon was Mrs. Rhuemma C. Miller, a member of the Brevard College faculty.

Other members of the group that presented the performance were Thomas Molyneaux, Susan Hurst, Thomas Merrit, and Robroy Farquhar.

Carl Sandburg, one of the best known American poets, published something like a thousand poems. Some of these, notably "Chicago," "Fog," and "Grass," would have to be mentioned in any list of the most widely read poems ever written in the United States. Sandburg was also famous as a humorist and a collector and writer of jokes and songs.

Sandburg was a native of Flat Rock, N. C., the site at which the touring group got its start. He would often sit at home in this simple, little town and he enjoyed the simple things in life. Thus, the touring group made use of the most simple props and was judged by the student body as a simple great success.

The group has traveled across not only North Carolina, but also the eastern United States during the last six years. It has been termed a great success everywhere.

BC Students Gain Voice

Further steps were taken on Monday, December 2, to allow student participation in formulating policies of the College, it was announced by the Presidential Council. Two committees to develop standards for social behavior and to determine policies for attendance and penalties were organized and their chairmen elected.

The committees resulted from a statement of student concerns presented by the SGA to the Presidential Council several weeks earlier.

"It was the intention of the Presidential Council to take seriously student suggestions for improving the life of the college," E. Wannamaker Hardin, Jr., chairman of the Presidential Council said. "It is our hope that the formation of these committees is a step forward."

In response to the student statement of concerns, the Presidential Council suggested the formation of the committees, with two students and two faculty members appointed to each committee by the SGA and an equal number of students and faculty named by the Presidential Council.

SGA appointees to the committee on social behavior are David Holcombe and Richard Wilson representing the faculty and Bill Rankin and Sally English as student representatives. The Presidential Council named Miss Gail Anderson and Mrs. Doris Potts from the faculty, and Ken Eaton and Bonnie Brewbaker from the student body.

The SGA named Victor Duggins and John Setzer from the faculty, and Jeff Dancy and John Lum from the student body to the committee on attendance and penalties. The Presidential Council appointed Nelson F. Adams and Mrs. Celia Tauscher, from the faculty, and Miss Dony's Kaye Holtzclaw and Miss Jean Whicker from the student body.

David Holcombe was elected chairman of the committee on social behavior and John Setzer, chairman of the attendance and penalties committee.

In their charge to the committees, the Presidential Council, in a written statement, said that the standards formulated by these committees will go to the faculty and student body for separate votes. A majority in both bodies will be necessary before implementation of the new codes.

In giving the committees responsibility for drawing up standards of behavior, the Presidential Council said further, "The committees shall solicit information and advice from all segments of the campus community before writing the final report," and suggested that insofar as possible all committee meetings should be open to the public with adequate notice given.

In the event that either students or faculty or both, fail to ratify the work of the committees, the matter will go back to the committee until a compromise acceptable to both groups is developed.

The deadline imposed upon the committees by the Presidential Council is March 1, 1969. "Setting aside recesses and final examination period, the committees will have about seven weeks to prepare their report," Mr. Hardin said. "We believe that they should work with deliberate speed to accomplish their purpose."

Christmas Is Coming!

★ ★ ★ Tree Lighting Today

The Christmas Season will officially begin this afternoon at 4:45. The initial event, the Tree Lighting Ceremony, will be held in front of the Dunham Fine Arts Building.

The College Brass Band will play, the Madrigal Singers will perform. Those attending will join in singing familiar Christmas Carols, and the immortal Christmas Story from Saint Luke's Gospel will be read.

Everyone is invited to attend!

Dance Is Saturday

"Oh, Christmas Tree," will be the theme of the annual Christmas Dance that will be held tomorrow night in Dunham Auditorium. The theme will be carried out with a Christmas tree, bonfire, sleigh, and mural. There will be candy canes hanging from the ceiling to add to the Christmas atmosphere.

The beauty court, which will be selected by the Euterps and Clios, will be presented at the dance and the queen will be crowned.

"The Vortrags" will play for the dance. The group is from Walterboro, S. C. They play Rock'n Roll, Rhythm and Blues.

Refreshments will be served.

Chapel Notice

All students are urged to be in attendance at chapel no later than the prescribed time, usually 7:00 p. m. Tardiness on the part of students hampers the beginning of the program and must be halted. Members of the Student Government Association will close the doors to the Dunham Fine Arts Center at the prescribed time. If any student is tardy, he or she will be counted as absent from chapel.

Students are also reminded of the chapel dress regulations and must abide by them. Members of S.G.A. at the entrances will not allow those students to enter chapel who are not properly dressed.

— ATTENTION —

The Student of the Week is selected by the staff members of the CLARION each week and is featured in the edition the next week. Several weeks ago, the CLARION printed a request that any student wishing to nominate a student for Student of the Week to please submit the name to the CLARION office before Tuesday at 2:00 p.

m. of each week.

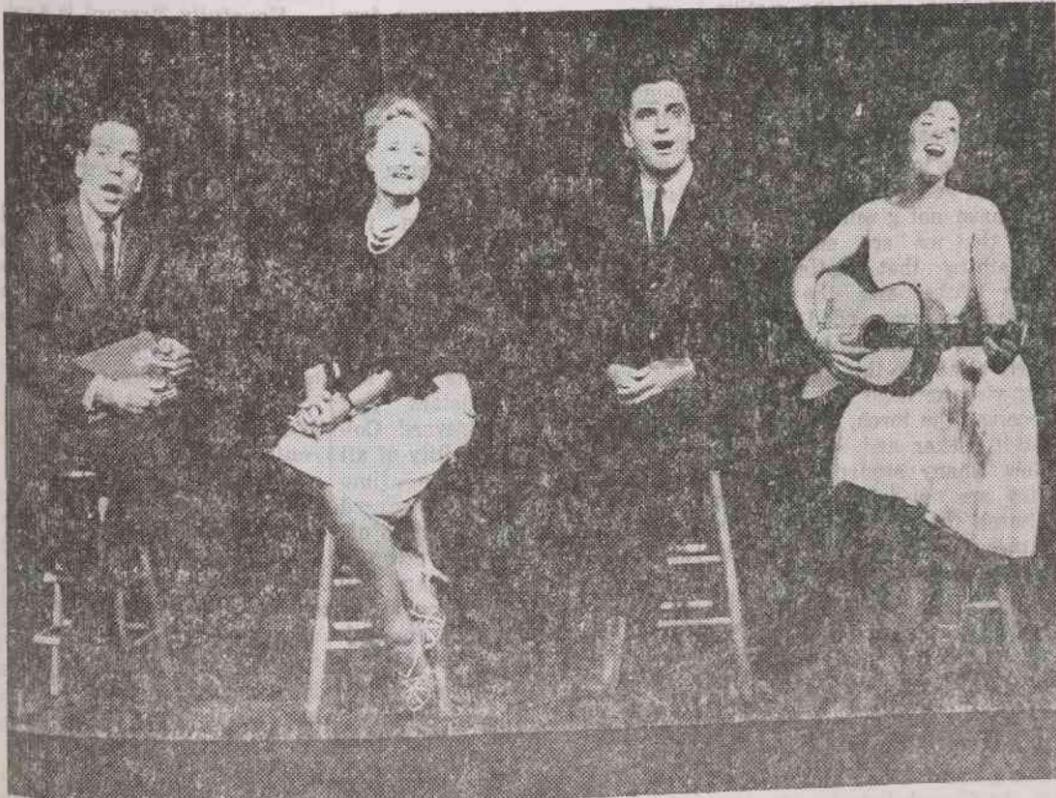

The CLARION wishes to reiterate and state that if you have any nominations for Student of the Week please deposit them in the CLARION door slot before the deadline of each week.

Your cooperation in this matter is appreciated.

Contest Is Postponed

GLAMOUR Magazine's Top Ten College Girls in America Contest has been postponed until second semester on the Brevard Campus. Due to exams, the CLARION will not conduct its search for the "campus queen" until late January.

This extra time will give those interested longer to prepare their theme on a phase of activities in which they are interested in compliance with the contest rules.
