Brevard To Take Part In National Earth Day, April 22

By Mark Todd

On April 22, Brevard College will participate in the nationwide Earth Day observance designed to educate and generate interest in the problem of environmental pollution. Headed at Brevard College by students Mike Barfield and Mickey Smith, co-chairmen for the project, activities are being planned to include a talk at the required 10:00 assembly by a Water Pollution expert from the University of Georgia.

Also scheduled is a talk by an Olin Corporation official on pollution, as well as a film and slides on the subject by Charles Taylor, the county representative of the state of North Carolina. The day will conclude with a tree planting, symbolizing the value of trees in combating pollution of the air.

Co-chairman Barfield and Smith emphasize the vital importance of the increasingly tion and are banking on the prominent anti-pollution program across the nation and world and are primarily concerned with the program on the local scale. They have held two meetings on campus to date, and number about 50 students as active participants.

They hope to become a formal, permanent organization next year and their long range planning tentatively includes the collection of DDT in the Brevard area and the formation of a petition for the North Carolina state legislature urging action toward the adoption of anti-pollution laws for industry, which they believe are the only solutions in the battle against pollution. They already have been officially recognized by the Brevard College administra-support of the student body in their various functions.

The Brevard organization is affiliated with SCOPE, the Student Council on Pollution and Environment, which is based in Richmond, Virginia. The rapidly growing program for campus participation began last January at the University of Michigan, and has spread rapidly past the planning stage.

The anti-pollution program is vital, and Earth Day is a good step in the right direction. Let's hope it's in time.

A MUSICAL CLASSIC

Masquers Will Present "Brigadoon" In Dunham

The Brevard College Masquers will present Lerner and Loewe's popular musical classic "Brigadoon" Friday and Saturday, April 17th and 18th, in the auditorium of the Dunham Music Center.

The production will be directed by Mrs. Rhuemma Miller, with music direction and dance arrangements by Samuel Cope. Harvey Miller and Joan Moser will serve as choral director and conductor respectively.

The musical is a joint project of the theater arts, music and art departments. Set decoration is under the supervision of Tim Murray and Bob Poe.

Set in Scotland, the production concerns the experiences of two young New Yorkers lost on a misty glen in Scotland. As the two exhausted men reflect on what they have forsaken in the United States for their present predicament, a lift in the Highland veil reveals to them the awakening village of Brigadoon, a village which comes into being for only one day in each century.

Show tunes include: "Almost Like Being in Love," "The Heather on the Hill," "There But for You Go I," "Come to Me, Bend to Me," and "My Mother's Wedding Day."

Curtain time each evening is 8:15 p. m. Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students. Brevard College students will have to obtain their tickets in advance even though they will be admitted free.

Bob Hill Will Lead Informal Sing-Along

On April 25, at 8:30 p. m. in Dunham Auditorium, Bob Hill will hold an informal sing-along. It will be a cultural program to make up for Dr. Scroggin, which was canceled in February. It will be informal so bring blankets to sit on.

Bob Hill is a 28 year old singer who gave up the teaching profession to pursue a musical career.

Bob has worked almost every type of engagement from private parties to night clubs to TV Benefits Shows. His travels have taken him to spots such as New Orleans, Atlanta, Charleston, and even to La Vegas.

He is a sincere, intense young entertainer whose ballad side is bound to come through. His repertoire ranges all the way from show tunes to popular to "new" folks Bob plays a soft-warm style of guitar, accenting his very expressive voice.

Among his other talents, Bob

NOTICE:

Spring soccer workouts consist of basic fundamentals, play situations, inter - squad games, and four soccer matches with other schools. Emphasis will be on skills, not conditioning. The workouts will be placed at times consistent to the majority of academic schedules, usually lasting one hour in duration. Games will be held on Thursday and Saturdays.

All students are welcome to come out, especially freshmen who did not participate last fall.

BOB HILL

is known locally for his own compositions and one song, "Hey, Babe," has been recorded by the Eastwinds and is available in most record stores throughout the nation on the JEB label, a subsidiary of Columbia Records.

FOLK AND ROCK SINGER

Recording Artist Here On April 22

ED KILBORNE

Performing and recording artist, Ed Kilbourne, will be appearing in our community at Dunham Auditorium, 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 22.

Ed's ability as a singer and guitarist is matched by a unique capacity for communication. For him, music is a frontier, a medium of search and discovery. His "own thing" is contemporary folk and rock ballads blended with both humorous and disturbing commentary.

Ed has performed in nearly every state, traveling well over 250,000 miles in the last five years. Along with this schedule of concert tours, he has managed a recording agency, releasing four albums of his own and producing records for several other groups.

Ed has finished his college and graduate work and travels as a minister-at-large of the United Methodist Church. He is an ordained minister of the North Alabama Conference but makes his home in Atlanta, Georgia, to facilitate easier travel over the nation.

Italian Minister To Speak At Methodist Church

The Reverend Emanuel San-Church on Saturday, April 18, ti will speak at First Methodist 1970, at 7:30 P. M. about Casa

Materna, the Home for orphaned children in Naples, Italy.

Library Has New Recordings

An exciting series of recordings has been added to the Library Recording Collection. The TREASURY OF 100 MODERN AMERICAN POETS READING THEIR POEMS is produced by Spoken Arts. It consists of 18 recordings reproducing voices of poets such as Edgar Lee Masters and James Weldon Johnson, born at the turn of the century or before, as well as Robert Pack and John Hollander, who are as modern as tomorrow. The selection of poems is mostly those of the authors and is a fascinating array.

Rev. Santi is the chaplain and co-editor of Casa Materna. He is touring the United States to bring the news of the Home that has sheltered and educated more than 10,000 children since its founding 65 years ago by his father, the Reverend Riccardo Santi.

Emanuel Santi did his undergraduate work at the University of Naples and its Conservatory of Music. He went to the United States as a very young and promising violinist. His long stay in America led him to become an American citizen. He furthered his education in the fields of psychology and religion receiving doctors' degrees from Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University. He is a member of the Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa. Dr. Santi held various pastorates in New York State serving parishes in New York, Yonkers and White Plains, and is a Member of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church.
