College Participates In N.C. Heart Fund Month

by Greg Bare

Next month has been designated as Heart Fund Month by the North Carolina Heart Association, and once again the Brevard College community has been invited to participate in the drive against America's No. 1 killer, heart disease.

Last year the faculty, staff and students combined forces to contribute approximately $350 to help fight this dreaded disease. This year The Student Government Association, under the direction of Mrs. Munro, chairman of the Heart Association for Brevard College, will sponsor the heart fund drive.

To help raise money for the drive, each dorm along with day students will compete to raise money. A money thermometer will be placed in the cafeteria to show each dorm's contributions.

Mrs. Munro said, "The goal of this year is to raise $800 dollars, which can easily be reached if each student contributes one dollar to the cause."

Brevard Hosts PTK Regional

by Judy Early

Brevard's local Phi Theta Kappa chapter, Delta Pi, will host the annual regional convention this year. The convention will be meeting in the Holiday Inn West in Asheville, NC on the weekend of Feb. 8-10. Each year the chapter elects a president chapter who will host the convention the following year. Consequently, Brevard's Delta Pi will be the host.

Around a hundred students from various junior colleges in the Carolinas will be present to engage in the activities. Special planning has been underway since last year through the following: the executive committee; special sub-committees; the sponsors, Mr. McDowell and Mr. Stulting; and the regional co-advisor, Mrs. Sally Beard. The highlights include a prepared speech by Dr. Fred Baker who is with the Department of Agriculture and organized the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama into a region for PTK (Phi Theta Kappa). Other events focus on getting acquainted such as movie shorts, simulation games and a banquet Saturday evening.

Several awards will be presented at the regional convention including a Travel Award, Most Distinguished Chapter Award, Most Improved Chapter Award, Best Use of Honor Topic Award, Alpha Alpha Iota Yearbook Award and Phi Lambda Most Distinguished Member Award. Members of the PTK are preparing for these honors; for example, Scott Singletary is head of the committee to work on the yearbook for this contest.

Also, Delta Pi will be running for regional vice president this year using the lingo, "step out on the right foot with Delta Pi." Simultaneously this position of southern vice president is being sought by Debbie Moseman. Kitty Brandon heads her campaign with posters, finger puppets and memos. Mrs. Beard believes "there is nothing like a Carolinas convention." Not only has PTK been planning for the regional convention but they are also preparing for the national convention which will be held in Washington, D.C. this year from March 20-22. The club members plan to travel by bus to the nation's capital.

This continuously busy organization has had several other successful projects in the past such as feeding 32,000 hungry persons in Bangladesh by collecting used stamps. And by the way Misae Tanaka says they are still collecting. The club president, Donna Harriger, "would like to thank the student body on behalf of PTK for their participation in the used stamp collection and encourage them to continue their support." Also Mr. Hall, director of physical operations, commemorated PTK for the fine Christmas party they gave the maintenance, housekeeping and cafeteria staffs. The club is put to a test to see if it can continue its fine job.

Clarion Literary Supplement To Premiere February 19

the Supplement will "provide a link between different divisions and departments on campus." The first issue is slated to include work from the art department, music school and the humanities.

Students wishing to contribute essays, short stories, poetry, art work or photographs to the Supplementary should make submissions to Clarion Literary Supplement, Box 123, Brevard College Post Office.

Later this month the Clarion will feature the first issue of the Clarion Literary Supplement, an 8-page addition to the regular college newspaper. It will feature a variety of student work, including essays, poetry, short stories, photographs and art work.

The Clarion Literary Supplement will supersede the Chiaroscuro, or former end-of-the-year college literary publication, which had limited success in generating interest among students.

According to Sarah Barnhill, former faculty advisor to the Chiaroscuro and a submissions editor for the Supplement, "A regularly published literary magazine should be far more successful in sustaining student interest."

The Supplement is headed by Mark Walters, a member of the English faculty. As its first editor, he believes that a regular literary publication will motivate students "by showing them that publication of their work may be only weeks away." He also hopes
