

BC Welcomes New Faculty

Several new faculty members have been added to the staff of Brevard College.

Joining the Division of Math and Science as associate professor of biology is Dr. William C. Alexander. A native of Wilmington, Alexander received his bachelor degree in biology from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and his master's degree in biology from Appalachian State University. He received his doctorate in zoology from Clemson University. Alexander has been assistant professor of biology at Georgia Southern and was also assistant professor of biology at the University of South Carolina. He has been a recipient of several National Wildlife Federation fellowships and grants, a fellowship from the South Carolina Wildlife and Marine Resource Department, a fellowship from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and a faculty research grant from Georgia Southern College. His teaching interests include behavioral ecology, animal behavior, and ornithology.

Dr. Alexander is married to the former Christine M. Deasy. They are the parents of Deborah, 7, Troy, 4, and Richard, 1.

The media specialist and instructor in percussion for the Division of Fine Arts will be Joseph W. Jackson. Jackson received his bachelor of arts in music education from the University of Georgia where he studied percussion under Dr. Thomas W. McCutchen. Recognitions during his undergraduate work included performing as a winner in the UGA Concerto Competition of 1982 and winning the state and region MTNA Percussion Division Competition as well as placing second runner-up in the national competition in 1983. Jackson also received his Master of Music degree in percussion performance from the University of Georgia. He has done extensive recording work under Douglas Moore for the School of Music of UGA and for Southmark Recordings of Atlanta.

Jackson and his wife, Christy, have an 18-month-old daughter, Lorinda.

Steve Kelly joins the Brevard music faculty as Instructor in Music. He will conduct the Concert Band and the Stage Band. Mr. Kelly, a native of Greensboro, NC, received his Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Before coming to Brevard he was Director of Bands at Northside Junior and Senior High Schools in Roanoke, Va. An accomplished low brass performer, Mr. Kelly has performed with the Greensboro and Charlotte Symphony Orchestras, and as a soloist with high school bands and recitals. He is the former conductor of the North State Silver Cornets British Brass Band and was graduate assistant to the Director of Bands at UNC-G. In addition to his teaching, judging, and clinician activities, Mr. Kelly will present a research paper to the North Carolina Music Educators Conference in November 1984.

Mr. Kelly is married to the former Kristin Olsen. A sports enthusiast, he enjoys football, basketball, swimming, and tennis.

Academic regalia makes Convocation at the Methodist Church an impressive and inspirational ceremony for both student and faculty.

Dr. Charles Teague Named Chaplain

Editor's Note: Dr. Teague joined the Brevard community this summer as part of the summer school faculty.

"It seems that I'm now re-living my student years in reverse - my next move, I guess, will be to Asheville High."

But Brevard College's new Chaplain and Professor of Religion, the Rev. Dr. Charles Teague, smiled when he spoke. Glad to be back at Brevard eighteen years after graduating in 1966, he looks forward to staying a long while.

Dr. Teague attended High Point College after Brevard, graduating in 1968 with a B.A. in Religion and Philosophy. He earned a Master of Divinity degree at Emory University in 1971.

After serving as minister at Avery's Creek United Methodist Church in Asheville for one year, Dr. Teague was invited to return to High Point as Chaplain of that United Methodist college.

"I realized that year how much I enjoyed academic life, particularly in small, close-knit colleges like High Point and Brevard," he said. "Classroom teaching is very satisfying to me."

After several years at High Point, Dr. Teague began to juggle a full teaching load and further graduate work at Emory. In 1982 the University awarded him the program.

Two Resident Directors have also been appointed. Steve Kelly is Resident Director for the New Complex. At Brevard he will be director of bands, including both the concert band and the stage band.

Returning to Brevard, where he was previously a student, is Doctor of Ministry degree.

A year later, Brevard College's Chaplain and Professor of Religion, Dr. C. Edward Roy, decided to take an early retirement, and he immediately thought of his long-time friend and former student.

"It's an honor for me to be following Dr. Roy; his influence on me has extended from my student days to the present," Dr. Teague said. "He has a concern for everyone, and he has strong academic integrity. It is hard to imagine Brevard College without him."

Dr. Teague, his wife Daune, and his nine-year-old daughter Julie, are living on campus this year while plans are being drawn for a new home in Glen Cannon.

While a student at Brevard, Dr. Teague was president of Green Dorm and captain of the Brevard College golf team. He was elected "Mr. Sophomore" by his graduating class.

"Brevard College meant a lot to me when I was a student here," Dr. Teague continued, "and it is still very attractive to me now as a place to live and work. I love the personal attention students can rightfully expect here, the community spirit, and -- like all Western Carolinians who move away to the flatlands for awhile -- the mountains. It's great to be back."

Santiago Moya. Santiago and his wife, Wendy, will serve as Resident Directors of Ross Hall. For the last year Santiago and Wendy have served as house parents at the Florida Sheriffs' Association's Boys' Ranch. Santiago will be assisting Coach Scarborough with the soccer team. Both Santiago and Wendy will be registered students.

Emphasis On Guidance/Counseling

New Tutors Join Staff

Four new Resident Tutors join the Brevard College community with the commencement of the 1984-85 academic year, and their combined skills represent an expanded emphasis upon guidance and counseling. The new Resident Tutor for West Beam is Nancy C. Williams, a graduate of Mars Hill College where she earned the B.S. degree in psychology; she is also a graduate of Western Carolina University where she earned the M.A. degree in guidance and counseling. In response to a recommendation from the Student Development Committee in the spring of 1984, Nancy has been appointed career counselor. As such, she will administer career inventories, administer SIGI, the college's computer-based career guidance program, and teach courses in psychology and career counseling. Nancy's office will be in the newly-created counseling center on the second floor of the Sims Student Union.

At Mars Hill Nancy was the recipient of Mars Hill's most prestigious scholarship; she was vice-president of the Student Government Association (her husband, Derwin, was president); she was the director of "Gateway," the freshman orientation program; she served on the Student Activities Committee; and she was Chief Justice of the Student Government Association. At the same time, she organized an outreach program using students to tutor students in the secondary schools, which resulted in her being recognized for service to the people of Madison County. As an expression of her interest in civic responsibility, Nancy has agreed to serve as sponsor of Circle K at Brevard.

Robert R. Hutchinson (Bob) joins the Brevard College community as Resident Tutor for East Beam. Bob graduated from the University of North Carolina in Asheville, and he earned the M.A. in guidance and counseling from Western Carolina University. Bob is an honor student of the Medical Field Service School; prior to returning to school to complete his master's degree, he was a psychiatric social worker with the U.S. Army. Bob is not new to Brevard; during the summer of 1984, he completed his internship requirement in student development here.

Bob's office is located on the second floor of the Sims Student Union. In addition to his responsibilities as Resident Tutor, Bob will serve as Director of Student Activities and Intramurals.

The new Resident Tutor for Upper Jones is Elizabeth M. Hauk (Betty). Betty earned the B.S. degree in psychology from the University of Montevallo; she received the M.S. degree in guidance and counseling from East Texas State College where she served simultaneously as Head Resident of a major residence hall. As an undergraduate, Betty was a member of Psi Chi Mu, the psychology honorary society, and of Circle K.

In addition to her responsibilities as Resident Tutor, Betty will serve as Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs, with primary responsibility for housing and for programs of student development within the residence halls. Her office is located in Beam Administration Building.

David Rinker joins the Brevard College community as Resident Tutor for Green Hall. He received the B.S. degree in Business Administration from James Madison University. For the last seven years, David has been teaching business and computer science and coaching championship teams in cross-country and track at Blacksburg High School in Blacksburg, Va., where he coached two Brevard College students, Jeff Jenrette and Charles Hinkle. Besides serving as Resident Tutor for Green, David will coach the women's cross-country and track teams, and he will serve as an assistant to Coach Witek for the men's cross-country and track programs.

These new Resident Tutors join returning staff members Laura Campbell and Steve Wilson. Laura, Resident Tutor in Jones Dorm, will also be teaching psychology courses, directing the newly created counseling center, and supervising the Resident Assistants. Though he already serves as Resident Tutor for Taylor Hall, Steve's additional responsibility will be directing the College's outdoor education
