

Addressing an open journalism class at Brevard College on Oct. 3, Time Warner's J. Richard Munro tells aspiring reporters, "Write! Write! Write! Because you're always going to have to write." (Clarion photo by Jock Lauterer)

"Write! Write! Write!"

by Tina Adams
Clarion Reporter

The journalism profession is a highly competitive field. The best way to success is to build a resume by gaining as much experience as possible, said J. Richard Munro.

Munro spoke to an open journalism class for Brevard College students on Wednesday, October 3. He was on campus to deliver the keynote address of a Community Convocation on Literacy later that day.

Munro, chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors for Time Warner Inc., has seen success. In his 34-year career with Time, he has both seen and experienced success. "Determine as quickly as you can whether you really are a writer," he advised journalism students, adding, "Write! Write! Write! -- because you're always going to have to write."

According to Munro, teamwork, ambition, aggression, desire, and the willingness to work hard are some of the skills needed to achieve one's goals.

It is also necessary in a major corporation to determine the culture of the company, Munro advised. Make sure the individual matches the environment. In other words, "know thyself."

Training and apprenticeships are very important in order to reach success. "Training ground is a way in" says Munro. One such job is to serve as a researcher, an aide to the main writer. Whatever the main writer/reporter needs, the researcher will do -- from looking up background information to running errands.

Not only did he answer the questions of journalism students, but Munro also offered many tips for success.

According to experts such as Munro, talent plays a big role in a person's success. Yet, so does fate, luck and networking.

To succeed in the world of journalism, Munro said, one must have guts, desire and determination as well as talent.

Parking changes announced

by Doug Lloyd
Clarion Reporter

The confusion is over! Campus Security announces the following changes in the Brevard College parking regulations.

In the parking lot between Myers Dining Hall and Moore Math-Science building, all white-lined spaces facing the cafeteria up to the first campus entrance on French Broad street are now designated for student parking. The yellow lined spaces facing the Math-

Science building, and in the adjacent Beam Administration lot are still reserved for faculty, staff, and administration.

In the Green and Taylor parking area, the back row of spaces facing the grassy area toward North Broad Street are designated for student parking. The other spaces remain reserved for day students, faculty/staff, and visitors to Dunham Music Center.

In the President's private parking lot four yellow lined parking spaces are reserved for presidential guests only.

EAG plans trip Nov. 10

by Noah Milner
Clarion Reporter

"People think that people who attend the Environmental Awareness Group are biology and ecology majors. This is for everyone, because we all live on this planet together," said Dr. Jeffery Llewellyn.

Dr. Llewellyn began the second meeting of the EAG this year by saying that people are changing the environment faster than nature can adapt to it.

Already, living things are starting to diminish, such as trees and amphibians. Eventually, if nothing is done about our world, people too will die. However, it's not too late to correct the world's problems, everyone can make a difference," he said.

Last year, the EAG began with only six people. This year it has begun with approximately 40 members. Llewellyn encourages everyone to come and be part of the group. There is no need to sign up. All that needs to be done is to show up.

Meetings will be held on the first and third Monday of each month at 7:00 p.m. in the Coltrane Commons Conference room. This month, meetings will be Nov. 5 and 19. Tonight's meeting features black-and-white slides from the Appalachians by BC author/photographer Jock Lauterer.

Llewellyn has planned a trip on November 10. He plans to take anyone up to the Parkway where he will take students to Richland-Balsam, Devil's Courthouse and Graveyard Fields. In the spring, he plans to have trail and river cleaning projects.

The Rock Climbing Club has worked on trail maintenance such as putting in water breaks and removing fallen trees. According to Llewellyn, BC maintenance has said they will build recycling boxes for recyclable objects.

Clarion Student of the Month: Kellie Tagtmeyer

by Burney Mack
Clarion Reporter

"I want to do everything I can for everybody around me."

-- Kellie Tagtmeyer

"Kellie is an awesome president of PTK," says Faculty Advisor Rhuemma Miller of PTK President Kellie Tagtmeyer. "Furthermore, she is dependable, a great person with whom to work, and she handles everything she does with finesse."

The 1989 Seneca, S.C. High School graduate decided to come to Brevard for many reasons but, she says, "The Brevard experience has really changed me by making me more outgoing and more confident of myself."

The Seneca native enjoys going home to visit her younger sister and her black Labrador retriever, Skipper. "When I go home Skipper jumps all over me and licks me to death," says Kelly. "I love dogs."

Kelly also admires her father. "My father has been the most influential person in my life," she says, "because he's the one person I could count on and he helped me work out a lot of my problems... he supports me in everything I do."

This year Kellie serves as president of PTK (Phi Theta Kappa). She is also a member of social board, SGA president of the new Complex, a student marshal, a student ambassador, and she was named to the Who's Who list this fall.

Her hobbies include playing the flute, and waterskiing. In addition, as vice president of 1989 Seneca High School, she likes to keep in touch with her former classmates.

Student of the Month Kellie Tagtmeyer (Clarion photo by Rachel Moore)

She says, "If I could change anything in the world right now I would change what's going on in the Middle East because I have some friends there and I would get them home where they're safe."

After Brevard, Kellie will go to Clemson and major in Business. "I want to be an art administrator for artists, singers, and opera singers by being their manager. I will go to Furman to take a few courses in this area of work."

Kellie leaves this thought, "To the girls in the Complex-I love them all and will never forget them."