*My heart exploded
Into a thousand fragments.
I could feel
The white-hot ashes
Seeping into my stomach.
And I expelled them
With one, single retch.*

CD Review

Melody Oddkid
Staff Writer

Upon flipping through my new CD's from CD Headquarters, I found two newer stand-outs: Joan Osborne's "Relish", and Deep Blue Something's "Home"

Joan Osborne's debut album has the potential to become a classic. While Osborne's music style is similar to Sheryl Crow's, she belongs in a class of her own. Each song has a different flavor to it, something that makes it stand out from the rest, yet without all of the songs, the album wouldn't be complete. This CD rates a 9 on the Oddkid Scale. Highlights include: "Man In The Long Black Coat", "Pensacola", "One of Us", "Dracula Moon".

Deep Blue Something's premiere effort is good as well. This group has made a wonderful debut album. Their songs are full of energy and vivacity, and this CD is destined to become a best-seller. Oddkid rating: 8. Highlights include: "Breakfast At Tiffany's", "A Water Prayer", "I Can Wait", "The Kandinsky Prince".

If you've listened to these CD's or if there are any others that you'd like to see reviewed, you can e-mail feedback to "oddkid@lightnin.brevard.edu".

Hiking the Forest Trail

Angie Clark
Art Editor

If you're in the mood for a little of the forest this weekend, try out the North Slope Trail, located at Davidson River Campground on the left, right before the ranger station.

The trail is a fairly easy one with only slight inclines. On the trail is a Historic Graveyard. Also there are several other trails that connect to this one.

Located in the same area is the Art Loeb trail. Anyone feeling a little more adventurous should check this one out. If you have the time to hike this one, it will take you all the way up to the parkway.

For more information on hiking trails or even bike trails, stop by the ranger station and pick up a guide. There's more to the forest than meets the eye.
