

OPINION

Let's Eat!!!

Jordan Street Cafe

-by TYLER HARBOUR, editor-in-chief-

The editors of the Clarion were treated to a dinner at Jordan Street. The following is one of the editors' opinions.

If you are looking for excellent food, superb service, and a smooth jazz band then the Jordan Street Café is the place for you to be.

I'm a frequenter of this tiny, yet upscale restaurant but I have to admit that if you plan to make this restaurant your choice of the evening then bring a large billfold and an empty stomach because you'll need them both to survive the experience.

Meals usually range from $14 to up around $26 being the most expensive. And the appetizers don't get any cheaper with the range being from $6 to $10 apiece.

So, if you want to impress that special guy, girl, or just have a drink with some of your friends, but you don't mind spending some of your hard-earned money then go up to Jordan Street. The food and fun never seems to end!

The Sub Pub

-by JESSICA WILLIAMS, editor-

The editors of the Clarion frequent Sub Pub for various meals of the day. This is a strong staff recommendation to eat there.

Since 1987, the Sub Pub has always been a great restaurant for lunch or an early dinner. Located just across the street from the College, this little place offers a variety of tempting food including subs, salads, and soups. Their specialty is undeniably one of more than a dozen hot oven subs. These range from the filling meatball sub to the light vegetarian sub. The Sub Pub has three sizes so diners can have as much or as little as they like. They offer a variety of salads, soups including chili, and nachos. My personal recommendation is the hot Rueben sub and their excellent sweet tea. There are tables by the creek for the coming warm spring days, and take out is great for those on the run. The Sub Pub is open Monday through Saturday from 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. You can reach them at 884-SUBS.

-Editors after a satisfying meal at Sub Pub. From left to right; Dustin Free, Ty Harbour, and Jessica Williams. Photo by Jill English.-

Thoughts on Terrorism

-compiled by CLARION STAFF-

How has your life changed since September 11th?

"I have a new found respect for how fragile society is."- Drew Walker

"It hasn't really affected me in any way at all."- Joe Hunt

"Since September 11th, I have put more faith in our country and in God. I value my life a little more now."- Kasey Eldridge

"I never knew that somebody hated America enough to take 5,000 lives."- Chris Becker

"I'm getting my gun and joining the Army. Go Cocks."- Pickett Wall

"I don't have the same sense of security that I used to have before all this happened."- Jeffrey Storey-Pitts

From the Editor: Remarks on Valentine's Day

-by TYLER HARBOUR, editor-in-chief-

Like the flushing of a toilet, Valentine's Day has, once again, come and gone. And it seems that every student that I have spoken with has come to loathe this special little day.

Now what's up with that?

Valentine's Day is supposed to be the day when you show that special someone how much you care about them. Valentine's Day is the symbol of love, harmony, and peace.

Valentine's Day also represents spending endless amounts of money just to get him or her to crack a smile. And if you're single the day consists of moping around praying for class to end so you can find a substitute for your misery. Or you can go through the painful memories of thinking about your ex and either look at the pictures of the two of you, or better yet, contemplate for a few hours is you should call them and see how they are doing.

Whichever the case may be, it's a lose-lose situation. So let me give you some advice for the next year so the heartache won't be so bad. If you have a girlfriend then try something different besides roses and chocolate. If you have a boyfriend then try something besides the heart-shaped boxers and the homemade "I love you" card.

And for the singles out there, my only advice to you is to start stocking up now!

