He says....She says...

What should a guy do/not do on a date...

She Says:

Before you take her out, find out what she is expecting on this date. It is the 21st century, and some women don't like to have the door held for them, or they like to pick up their part of the check. Have a general idea about what kind of person she is. That way the date will be pleasant and not have too many awkward moments.

I am going to write this from the point of view of how I would like to be treated on a date. First of all a guy should be courteous, don't expect to get laid that night. Find out where she would like to go or surprise her with her favorite place. Open doors for your date! Open the car door and the door to the restaurant or movie theater or wherever you decide to take her. If you want to make a good impression, bring her a single rose or some sort of flowers. Trust me boys this works.

Offer to pay! As I said earlier, some girls won't want you to do this, but at least offer. If they say no then you saved a couple of bucks; if they say yes, well, then cough it up.

Don't talk about yourself all the time. Try and split the talk between the two of you; also ask her questions. If you seem interested in her she'll respond better to you and in return will ask you questions about yourself. Listen to her. Don't just ask her something then blank out. A girl can tell when their date isn't listening to them. And we like to ask you to repeat the last thing we just said to test you if we think you weren't listening.

If you take her to a place that has dancing, dance with her. First ask her if you may have this dance because some girls don't like to dance. If you cannot dance or you're not willing to dance then steer clear of the dancing places. When the date is finished, take her home. Walk her to her door and say what a great time you had, at which time you then either ask her out for another night, or say "Can I call you?" If you didn't have a good time, then don't make any plans for the future. Ask her if you can kiss her good night; don't assume that she wants to be kissed. If she says no, don't take offense; if she says yes, don't push it.

Calling her. Don't wait a week to call her, but don't call her that night. Girls are impatient when they know they will be receiving a phone call. So call her the next night or the night after, but don't wait to long.
