

SIGN OF THE TIMES

Expanding your palate by trying new things is vital to the college experience. Luckily for you, Ingles now offers a conveniently packaged and economically priced delicacy in the freezer aisle, ready to satisfy any late night hunger pangs.

American Hero ingles

This week's American Hero goes to a group of people that Brevard College students encounter every time they try to get some food on weekends- the Ingles Kids. We know that this is a small town, but surely there must be more constructive things to do on a Friday than to sit on a tailgate in a parking lot, spit dip onto each other's shoes, and re-enact the film "Dazed and Confused." For being brazen enough to look the possibility of having an adventurous and fulfilled youth in the eye and say, "Bump that, I want to drink Nattie Light in the back of a pickup and yell at everybody that goes by," we salute you, Ingles Kids. Here's to you and the best years of your life.

BREVARD COLLEGE CULTURE GRID

	Chase Lance	Brooke Seaman	Shane Galloway	Sam Winn
What do you think of Alex Rodriguez?	Idiot. I can't stand him.	He's my boy because the Yankees are my team.	He should be executed. Go Sox!	He screwed up but he's doing the right thing now
Best movie you've seen this year?	Saw V	Seven Pounds	Paul Blart Mall Cop	Iron Man
Favorite meal in Myers Dining Hall?	Nothing	Chicken patties with tomato soup	Crap, that's a tough one.	Fried flounder and sweet potato fries
Favorite Olsen twin?	The heavier one	Don't care about either	Mary Kate, of course	The opposite one of the one with the eating disorder
If you could be any superhero, who would it be?	The Joker- he's a superhero to me! C'mon!	Phoenix from X-Men because she can convert to pure energy	Coach Jones	Xena Warrior Princess