

Art Review: Biotikos

by Anne Bolos
Staff Writer

"Biotikos" by Ruth Lyons and Diana Arvanites opening reception occurred September 4th at Spiers Gallery. The works are courtesy of Center of the Earth Gallery, Charlotte, NC, owned by Ruth Lyons. Ms. Ruth Lyons artwork is on display within Spiers Gallery; however, she was unable to be present as there was also an open reception that occurred the same night at her gallery in Charlotte, NC.

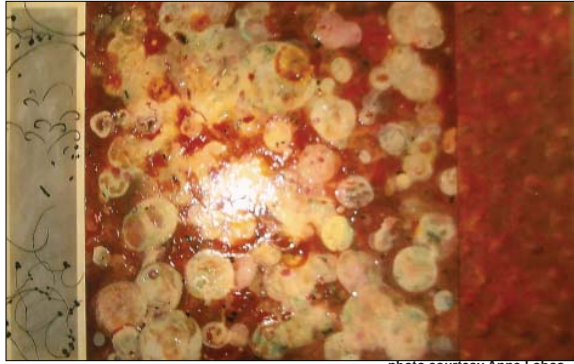

Diana Arvanites has been painting "my whole life" and maintains a studio in Charlotte, NC. She received her MFA from the University of Massachusetts and is currently represented by Center of the Earth Gallery. Her inspirations come from "mapping, the sciences, and various construction of my panels." She loves to work modular in which she can have her artwork "always in flux." She also uses re-claimed items, such as plexi-glass in her works of art. She builds her panels from wood then formats the body of works. It takes approximately 5 months for her to complete a grouping of the interchangeable art she creates. She beautifully blends drawing, painting and sculpting within her works of art.

A visiting student from Brevard High School, Hanna Pomphrey, attended the reception and stated, "I think it's one of my favorite shows I've seen so far!" Hanna has been assisting with Gallery openings at Brevard College for over three years. If you weren't there opening night, not to worry, you can still see the artwork on display in Spiers Gallery located within the Sims Art Department building until October 2nd from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday!
