

Horoscopes

by the Clarion Astrologizer

Aries- Barking dogs seldom bite. Unfortunately for you, your neighbor's dog is the exception.

Lucky Color- White teeth

Taurus- Don't feel bad. No one else wants to see Taylor Swift receive any accolades either.

Lucky color- VMA Award

Gemini- Circumstances will arise this week which will necessitate logic and rationalization which will force you to disregard any and all information that came from superstitious sources.

Lucky color- Opaque

Cancer- Sean Hannity

Lucky color-Black/White

Leo- Your obsequiousness will serve you well.

Lucky color- Webster's dictionary

Virgo- While you will intend the remark to be a nonserious statement, it will lead you to the succession of people whom you DO have to blow in order to get a drink around here.

Lucky color- White

Libra- The current positioning of celestial bodies suggest that the world will begin to cool and odd colorful changes will occur in your surrounding environment.

Lucky color- Red, yellow, orange

Scorpio- In a complete misunderstanding of the term "Grand Mal Seizure," your expectations of sympathy regarding your attempt to seize control of the Asheville Mall will not come

Lucky color- Pirate Flag

Sagittarius- As Saturn finishes its new flying car prototype, the stars estimation of Saturn's position in the night sky and its affects on your daily life may actually be relevant.

Lucky Color- Inhospitable atmospheric gases

Capricorn- Beware El Chupacabra

Lucky Color- Blood-sucker red

Aquarius- Statistics show that people who have more birthdays than other people tend to live the longest

Lucky Color- Birthday cake

Pisces- A mistake in last week's horoscope cost you an opportunity at lifelong happiness, love, and success. The stars apologize, but they just weren't all there that week.

Lucky Color- Blush

American Hero

Usually, this space is reserved for the Clarion editorial staff to poke fun at people whose actions are un-American, however, this week we'd like to give out an award to someone who exemplifies the type of character that should be awarded in today's society. When you have senators cat-calling the president, talk show hosts bringing race into political issues where race is most certainly not a factor and tennis players threatening the lives of line judges, this week was ripe with people who were in the running to be an 'American Hero.' However, at the VMA's one incident stood out. During the presentation for best Female Music Video, Kanye West took the stage and protested Taylor Swift's win over Beyoncé (who would later win Music Video of the Year), effectively stealing the limelight away from the young country singer. West's actions were not applauded by a mollified crowd and he was removed from the show. However, later on in the show, when Beyoncé received her award for Best Music Video, she passed on giving a speech and instead called Swift to the stage and let her finish her acceptance speech uninterrupted. For committing an unselfish act, showing humility, and for having a level of civility that seems to be missing in many parts of today's society, we salute you, Beyoncé.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

When you hear about people sowing their wild seeds and reaping the benefits of a good harvest, I doubt this is what they had in mind.