

Horoscopes

Retrieved from missing lines off of the stele which holds Ham-murabi's code

Aries- Your brush with the law this week will lead you to be the number one video on YouTube after you reenact the 'Don't tase me bro' video.

Lucky color- Al Sharpton's hair

Taurus- Don't let any man tell you what to do. That is the dog's job.

Lucky Color-

Gemini- Thank God you are not a ginger.

Lucky color- Pasty and red

Cancer- After starting to hang out with Carrot Top, you will have much more success with people of the opposite sex. Not thanks to Carrot Top's celebrity but thanks to the fact that no matter who you are you will look attractive standing next to him.

Lucky color- Bozo's wig or Carrot Top's hair?

Leo- Begin drafting a rational non-sexual reason for why you ordered rubber sheets, because you will need it once your parents look at your credit card statement

Lucky color- God's shoeshine

Virgo- Convenient parking is way back. Way Back. Convenient.

Lucky color- Orange Julius

Libra- Just because the National Enquirer will print your article about the secret coke and heroin fueled lives of the Supreme Court justices doesn't make it a reputable news source.

Lucky color- Shivering looking blue

Scorpio- You will have the brilliant idea of exploring an alternate universe for your next novel in which Germany lost World War II. You will revel in the brilliance of the idea until you realize that Germany did, in fact lose the war.

Lucky color- Cold Sunlight

Sagittarius- Make fun of Paris Hilton. Its never been done before.

Lucky color- Trailer Trash

Capricorn- While watching the movie 2012, you will suddenly have a revelation that once Hollywood gets hold of an idea it immediately becomes bullshit and irrelevant.

Lucky color- Lava

Aquarius- You will finally comprehend irony when an earthquake demolishes your home in Jackson, WY while you listen to Modest Mouse.

Lucky color- Teton White caps

Pisces- Put your best foot forward this week. Of course deciding which foot is the best will become easier this week following a chainsaw accident

Lucky Color- Phantom limb

American Hero

Drinking and killing things. Two of the most celebrated American pastimes. What red-blooded American doesn't enjoy doing these things? Now imagine if you could combine the two without worrying about one interfering with the other. Unfortunately, the old shiny beer cans could alert your presence to the deer, elk, fox, or human that you are hunting. The failure of old beer cans to be conspicuous in the woods has led many americans into an unnecessary moral dilemma: drink beer or hunt? Thanks to Anheuser-Busch Brewing company's utilization of the camouflage beer can we no longer have to make this decision. Thanks to this week's American hero, we can now combine these two great American pastimes without one inhibiting the other. Now if we could just continue to be able to see/shoot straight, we could be successful at both at the same time. (Editor's Note: We at The Clarion do not condone or suggest using alcohol while hunting. That's what meth is for.) So next time you plan on trying to combine the two most American of hobbies, remember to drink Busch. Just make sure that you finish the beer before it has time to blend in with its surroundings.