Women's Basketball 2010

The Blue game for Saturday Jan. 30, 2010 was rescheduled for the following Monday because of the snow storm. On Feb. 1 the lady tornadoes lead off for the basketball team and took the lions by storm with their first ever, in the history of Brevard College, SAC win. Congratulations Ladies!!!! Millie lead at the line with 90%, the team was 77%. She and Sam lead the team with 8 rebounds each, while the team had a great advantage over the Lions with 19 boards total for the game which lead to the final score 87-72. Asheley Watkins suffered a back injury 8 minutes into the game and was carried out on a stretcher, but she is well now, released from the doctor, and back practicing with her team.

Sesquipedalian Literary Society's Five Dollar Word of the Week

Counter-cozen [kown-ter-koh-zen] verb, obscure

Definition

To cozen, or to cheat in return.

Cozen

To cheat, defraud by deceit, cheat out of, to deceive, dupe, beguile, impose upon, to beguile or cheat into, up, etc.; to induce by deception to do a thing

To while away (time).

Etymology

From counter + cozen

Uncertain derivation

Cozen possibly derived from the Italian cozzonare, described to mean 'to play the horse-breaker or courser, also, to play the craftie knave.'

Usage

I love watching movies like The Italian Job and Ocean's Eleven because in addition to shenanigans and heists, the plot inevitably requires that the thieves countercozen someone by plot's end!
