

Students plan to dance for thirteen hours

Dance Marathon is an on campus service project Saturday, Feb. 12 starting at 8 p.m. and will continue until Sunday at 9 a.m. You might be asking yourself, what could we possibly do for 13 hours?

We began planning back in August when many of you were still settling in to the new semester. It started as just an event with the Institute of Women in Leadership, but eventually teamed up with the Center for Multi-Cultural and Service Initiatives and Student Involvement.

Dance Marathon is not just dancing; it's a night of chaos that includes different style dance lessons, capture the flag, speed dating, inflatables, karaoke, and so much more. We know that doing the same activity is boring, which is why we have a night jam-packed to include things that everyone will like.

The evening's events will even be filmed and put on The Style Network on the new television program that is filmed right here in Brevard, at the Wellspring Academy. The Students at Wellspring Academy are training for this event as part of their new healthy, active lifestyle. Come meet these amazing teenagers, learn from their stories, and help motivate them to stay on track.

To make sure that the energy is high and everything is fun, we have put together a team of "awesomeness": Meagan Crowson, Jarred Fisher, Hughes McGlone, Katherine Parnell, Lindsay Shaeffer, Karin Strickland, and Nina Willis. Team members have all been supported, mentored, and motivated by Michelle Harvey, Megan Walters, and Jessica Blanford.

Since registration has passed and we don't want you to miss out, we will allow Wild Card Dancers to come in to the dance.

A Wild Card Dancer:

- Someone who can't stay the whole night
- Will pay $5 to enter
- Can enter at any point after 11 p.m.
- Can stay as long as they want or leave when they want (but once you arrive, you won't want to leave!)
- Can dance, enter contests and games, and munch on food
- Can cheer on their friends who win random raffle drawings, including the grand prize during the Closing Ceremony because Wild Card Dancers aren't eligible for these
- Can purchase a Dance Marathon shirt for $10, while supplies last

BC Business Club hosts '80s dance party

BC students danced the night away at the '80s costume dance party on Saturday.

It was held in the Reserve Dining Room in Myers cafeteria, and was hosted by our own business club. Admission was a mere $1, but it was well worth the four quarters.

It was a good time not only because of the number of students that were there, but because "Students like to dress up," said junior volleyball player Sydney Yeomans. This opportunity is greatly appreciated by the students because there aren't many opportunities to dress up.

"There were students dancing all throughout the night," Yeomans said. It was an opportunity for any student of any background to come out and have a good time with students from other backgrounds. Hopefully more opportunities for good times will present themselves throughout the semester
