

Clarion cartoonist bids farewell

I can't believe the time has already come when it is time for me to leave Brevard College and working as a cartoonist for the Clarion. It feels like only yesterday when I submitted my first comic to the Clarion back in February 2008, and now I have submitted over 80 comics to the Clarion. This is my final issue being in the Clarion before I graduate at the end of this semester, so I have created a 2-page farewell special that looks back at an assortment of comics I have submitted during my 3 years as a cartoonist for The Clarion, including some about my most memorable moments during my 4-and-a-half years at Brevard College. I hope anyone who has read my comics enjoyed them, and I know a few fans who will be sorry not to see my cartoons appear in the paper anymore. It has been a great experience working for The Clarion with an awesome staff, as well as being one of the longest running staff members to continuously contribute to the paper. I hope I will somehow continue my passion for cartooning in the future, and I hope someone will succeed me as a cartoonist for The Clarion.
