

The Outreach Program

Plenty of people are struggling with coming out. They need to see and hear someone talk positively about being gay. If you remember what that loneliness was like, you may feel like helping others to get out of it. A lot of heterosexist bigots may just be waiting for someone to challenge their confusion with some plain facts. If you sometimes want to shut up a queer joke, you might consider that the Outreach program is an effective way to do it.

Outreachers are not professional orators. They are regular gays, willing to share, to answer questions from interested audiences. Every gay person, after all, is an expert about being gay.

If you have an hour every couple of weeks for speaking, and half a Saturday free every three or four months for training, we welcome you. Even if you don't want to speak, we need your help.

Come meet other Outreachers from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Sat., Nov. 19, in the Carolina Union. Bring some food for a covered-dish lunch we're having. We plan to work on various kinds of presentations: planning, discussing, writing and rehearsing. Come, meet us and work with us.

The CGA Steering Committee

Much of the direction of CGA comes from the interests and energy of its members; that direction is focused and maintained by the CGA steering committee, which tries to manage follow-through on projects and issues when necessary, and to keep track of ongoing activities. The committee is composed of the group's officers, task force heads and interested members-at-large. It meets between the regular monthly CGA meetings. Meetings are open to the public.
