

Spring Break Edition: Who do You Think You're Foolin'?

By Kelly T. Williams
kelwms@email.unc.edu

Spring break is rapidly approaching and no matter where you choose to spend your break this year, always remember you are not just representing yourself but UNC as well. K-Balla is concerned, so here are a few tips to ensure an embarrassment-free break:

First of all, the Student Recreation Center does not just open a week before spring break. You know that you should have been trying to get that body tight way before March 10th. And just last week you were devouring that Harris Teeter birthday cake and taking advantage of BW3's $0.25 wings. Now you are stuck. You are forced to rock that grandma one-piece bathing suit with that lil' skirt attached.

And ladies we know that you have to get your wig tight in case you run into Jay-Z on South Beach. But before you dive into the hotel pool fresh off a burgundy rinse and Dudley perm...Hold fast and watch yourself! The chlorinated water may not be your friend and it is extremely embarrassing to be back-strokin' in red water! And it's not just the pool, that will hurt your feelings.

Before you take a dip into the ocean, make sure your weave is tight or you might see Flipper swimming away with that $26.00 track.

Since we are on the subject of wet hair, some of us love this natural look, the Wet-N-Go hairstyle. Even though many of us love the style, not everyone can achieve it. Everyone's hair does not quite curl. If you need the personal assistance of activator, or perhaps Curl -N- Go, then let it go. It is not for you: Who exactly are you foolin'?

Yes and fellas while you are chillin' on the beach or walking along the boardwalk, we all know how tempting it is to throw on that muscle shirt. If wind can seep through your muscle shirt because of your lack thereof, then we have a problem. Do you really think you're foolin' us?

The same rules that apply for females, also apply for males, if your body isn't tight, don't wear it. You're better off wearing that Enyce turtleneck than chillin' on South Beach with that baggy muscle shirt.

Fellas it doesn't take take much to look real sleek on the break. Just throw on a baseball cap, hot tee (i.e., Sean John, RockAWear) with the chain around the neck, some jeans or shorts with the fresh kicks (sneakers or tims, no Durangos please...).

Voila! You are set! You are chillin' in the cut looking like a classic hot boy.

See, overall, spring break is a time for chillin' with your peeps, relaxing and having fun in the sun. I just want to make sure that you get the most out of that week-long trip, so handle your business and represent UNC to the fullest.

Don't try to fool anyone, don't try to perpetrate, be yourself and keep it tight.