

ON THE YARD

How would your college experience be different if you attended a historically black university?

- 1 "There would be a bigger, better support base within faculty and student organizations at a black school." -Greg McCoy, sophomore, New Bern, N.C.
- 2 "The diploma wouldn't carry as much weight with employers if I went to a HBCU and I wouldn't get any work done. I would look at it as a social opportunity." - Gznee Jones, senior, Pennsauken, N.J.
- 3 "The school would have less funding and possibly inadequate resources. But I think my personal college experience would be better." -Ralph Mensah, junior, Asheville, N.C.
- 4 "I wouldn't be as aware as I am now about the discrepancy between blacks and whites in society." - Chessa Huff, sophomore, Charlotte, N.C.
- 5 "I think it would be different but not necessarily better, but more fulfilling in terms of learning about black culture." -Warren Watts, junior, Arcadia, N.C.
