On Saturday, February 23, the Lady Bulldogs lost a heartbreaker to Winston-Salem State, a nine point loss. Coach Littlefield said that the team played very well except for foul trouble, which hurt the team along with bad officiating. Even though the team lost Saturday, they did not come home empty handed; they won a second place trophy. The top player for the tournament was Linda Cody, who was All Tournament

Player with a total of 40 points, for the three games played. Brenda Greer and Greta Setzer both scored 24 points on Saturday.

The Lady Bulldogs finished first place in the Division III of the NAIA

Women Intercollegiate Basketball. They finished the regular season with a 15-3 mark, with 2 of those losses coming at the hands of Division II power Lenoir-Rhyne. The third loss was to Winston-Salem State, the spoiler of the tournament.

Greta Setzer, a sophomore from Belmont, N.C. led the Lady Bulldogs scoring with a 16.9 average. There were four other top players who did exceptionally well in scoring: Pam Helton, a senior wing, with 16.1 points, Susan Bolt, a freshman center, with 13.4 points, Brenda Greer, a freshman point, with 11.7 points, and Linda Cody, a senior post, with 10.8 points. Susan Bolt also leads the team in rebounding, pulling down 9.8 per contest.

As a team the Lady Buldogs scored an average of 85.3 points per game and averaged better than 41 rebounds per game.

Coach Littlefield feels that this was the best season in three years, in which they were ranked number one. Even though there will be two seniors leaving, Coach Littlefield is very optimistic about next season.

The Sports Department and the Pilot Staff want to express their sincere congratulations for a performance well done and wishes all of the Lady Bulldogs an even better season next year.

Cafeteria Services

Food, Facts And Figures

The college dining services are contracted through an outside food service. For the past nineteen years, we at Gardner-Webb have used the services of ARA from Atlanta, Georgia. The ARA Food Service is a large company that serves many areas. ARA has its own meat center in Greensboro, N.C. This is not a private label; it is a distribution center for Armour, Oscar Meyer, Rudy's Farm, IBP (Iowa Beef Processing), Swift, and many other first class meat producers.

The dining service we have at Gardner-Webb purchases its meat through the ARA Meat Center in Greensboro which handles only top class meats. Groceries and other food supplies are purchased from PYA-Goodnight Brothers in Charlotte which also handles top quality food. The cleaning supplies used by the cafeteria come from Economic Lab and the linen is serviced by National Linen Service of Asheville. All of these companies contribute in our dining service at GWC in Grade A condition.

Mr. Keith Carson, manager of our dining service and employee of ARA, makes the purchases, employs the full-time regular employees for ARA, and sees that the students have the opportunity to choose a well-balanced meal with variety. The menus are chosen to suit the needs of 800 different individuals from different regions. These individuals have a choice of two entree items plus the mini-deli at lunch, and two entree items at dinner. This is a total of 28 entree items each week. The menu begins a new cycle after each three week period. Some of these items are deliberately underseasoned, since it is impossible to extract spices. However, these spices are placed at the convenience of the student.

Preparing a well-balanced meal with variety for 800 individuals three times a day is a job that requires skill, and knowledge of what the average person would like as well as how he likes it prepared. This operation is very much like the task our mothers face when they have to buy food and then prepare it. Usually our mothers try to please everyone by staying in the middle of the road. Mr. Carson is doing the same thing, but on a much larger scale.

Mr. Carson has had eleven years of dining service experience, including seven years with ARA. He did his studies at the Culinary Institute of America and received a management degree from ARA's management school. While working with ARA, Mr. Carson has worked at Bethel College in Tennessee, Davidson College at Davidson, N.C., and is now at Gardner-Webb.

Representative of ARA, Mr. Carson's operation is inspected regularly by he Cleveland County Health Department, ARA, and the G-W administration. The administration has set high standards in the quality control. It is continuously observing food quality, food presentation, menu variety, sanitation standards, as well as the attitudes and cooperation of the Food Service employees. These observations are made periodically to evaluate the merit of continuing services of ARA and other food services of the past as well as the future. Discussions are held by the administrative personnel with the food service contractor as often as needed to inform the contractor of desired improvements, evaluate efficiency of serving the G-W students, and to discuss concerns expressed by students as to possible modifications of service.

Mr. Barry Hartis, business manager and treasurer of GWC, is also the administrator of the cafeteria. As administrator of the dining service, Mr. Hartis has the responsibility of maintaining the food service operation and reporting to Dr. Craven Williams, GWC President. Mr. Hartis also handles the money that is paid out to the various departments that help in operating the cafeteria directly and indirectly. One of the direct expenses for the school year 1977-78 was the purchase of two new vertical tray conveyors. There are

Oval Jaynes Resigns

Oval Jaynes, head football coach at Gardner-Webb College since 1975, has resigned to take an assistant offensive coaching position at the University of Wyoming, according to Athletic Director Eddie Holbrook.

Holbrook added, "I personally appreciate the job Oval has done. The record that our football team has enjoyed the past three years indicates the foundation upon which the program has been constructed. Oval's professional goal is to become a head coach at an NCAA Division I school and he feels that he can best reach that goal by making the move to the University of Wyoming. We wish he and Prit the best of luck and again appreciate the commitment that they have made to Gardner-Webb."

Jaynes was named head coach at the Boiling Springs school in January, 1975 to rebuild a program that had been playing a senior college schedule for only five seasons.

In 1976, the team was 1 - 7 and set five offensive records. In 1976, the team was 5 - 5 on the year and set or tied fifty-five team and individual records. The team finished 10th in the nation in total offense averaging 416 yards per game.

In 1977, the Bulldogs finished with a 7 - 4 record and ranked 18th in the NAIA. The team, ranked in the top 15 all season in rushing offense, ended the year tenth with 256.7 yards per game. Twenty-two records, team and individual, were set or tied.

1977 was the year that saw Gardner-Webb's first NAIA First Team All American in Johnny Walker, the NAIA's leading rusher with 1360 yards.

Jaynes came to Gardner-Webb from the University of South Carolina where he served as an assistant under Paul Dietzel for two years. Prior to that, he also served as an assistant coach at Wake Forest University and the Citadel.

Jaynes resignation became effective February 24.
