VOL. III, NO. 18 14

ST. ANDREWS PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE, LAURINBURG, N. C.

MARCH 26, 1964

Peden Chosen Director Students Trek Of Religious Activities

Selection of the Rev. W. Creighton Peden to become the first Director Religious Activities has been announced by President Ansley C.

Now serving as interim minister for John Calvin Presbyterian hurch in Salisbury, the Rev. Mr. Peden will begin his work at t, Andrews on July 1.

SA Peace Corps

The St. Andrews Student Peace Corps was organized in 1962 furnish volunteer services for the aid of needy people in the community.

The following students are in charge of the various projects: Jim Burby, Molly North, Walter Barefoot, Wesley Luhn, and Jaynelle Goodnight.

If you are interested in helping please get in touch with one of these people.

He will direct the chapel program, guide various religious groups on campus, and serve as college counselor for personal and religious problems of stu-

Having finished his residence work for the Ph. D. degree at St. Andrews University in Scotland, the Rev. Mr. Peden is currently completing his thesis. He earned the bachelor of divinity and masters degrees at the University of Chicago.

A 1957 graduate of Davidson College, he was vice-president of the National Student YMCA during his collegiate career and president of the Southern Area Student Y. He also served for three years on the United Student Christian Council of Ameri-

During 1960-61 the Rev. Mr. Peden worked at Florida Presbyterian College under a program sponsored by the University of Chicago. He served as chaplain and taught in the religion and philosophy and the western civilization programs.

To New York

Using New York CMy as their campus, 34 business students at St. Andrews will take a closeup look at marketing in a weeklong seminar beginning Friday, March 27.

Merchandising exotic Japanese goods, the uses of gold bullion, floor operations of the stock exchange, and advertising agency functions are included in the curriculum, with teaching done by on-the-spot experts.

Arranged by Gentry W. Wade, associate professor of economics and business administration, the seminar is designed to reinforce college studies with authentic lessons from business life.

First stop on Friday afternoon will be a tour of the National Broadcasting Company's television facilities, ending with a discussion of television's place in marketing of goods and Teiji Tamaru, president of Takashimaya, Inc., will be host to the young men and women from St. Andrews on Saturday morning. He plans to give an inside glimpse into operations of his "Japanese store on Fifth Avenue."

The group of 26 men and eight women will attend Easter services at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church and take part in the annual Easter parade.

Chase Manhattan Bank is providing four vice-presidents and an assistant treasurer for the Monday morning faculty. Topics for the day include: the role of the bank in the financial community, the marketing concept, and career opportunities in bank-

The gold vault of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York will give the students a rare opportunity to see a considerable amount of the precious metal. Officers of the bank will lead a lecturediscussion on the role of the Federal Reserve System in our economy and the work of the Open Market Committee.

Sales and factoring operations as well as product planning will be covered on Tuesday morning by Whitefoord S. Mayes, Jr., president of Morgan-Jones, Inc. Advertising agency services to business will be studied at Batten, Barton, Durstine, & Osborn with Ken Greene as host.

Wednesday, April 1, will be "securities day" for the group. A visit to the New York Stock Exchange will be guided by Allen O. Felix, manager of school and college relations, and end with a discussion of the exchange func-

In the afternoon a specialist on the staff of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith will explain the operations of a stock

Final stop on the seminar list will come at the Graduate School of Retailing, New York University, with Dean Charles M. Edwards, Jr., as host and guide.

Sandra McLees Is CEA Vice-President

Sandra McLees, a junior from Anderson, S.C., was elected vicepresident of the Student North Carolina Education Association last Saturday at the 80th annual

Folmsbee Gets Summer Grant

Grant Folmsbee, professor of psychology and college counselor, has been awarded a summer fellowship for an Institute in Contemporary Psychology supported by the National Science Foundation. The six-week institute is limited to 40 teachers of psychology from liberal arts colleges. It will be conducted at Beloit College in Wisconsin during July and August, with visiting lecturers from Carleton College and from Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Chicago, and Oregon uniconvention of the North Carolina Education Association in Raleigh. Sandra, who is majoring in history and social studies, won over Pamela Johnson from University of North Carolina.

Sandra was nominated by Sybil Thomas, past president of the St. Andrews Chapter of SNCEA, at a luncheon Friday at the Sir Walter Hotel. Wanda Graham, historian of the SA SNCEA, spoke on Sandra's behalf at the lunch-

All candidates were allowed to present their platform and qualifications at that time.

At the business session Saturday morning at the NCEA Center the candidates were each given a question relevant to the NEA, NCEA, or education in general. The questions were answered orally before the assembly and were designed to enable the assembly to judge the candidates on clarity of thought and ex-

N. C. Volunteers

The North Carolina Volunteers are seeking help from 100 qualified students to aid them in a crusade against poverty in North

This volunteer group was organized by Governor Terry Sanford and other state leaders with funds supplied by the Ford, Mary Reynolds Babcock, and Z. Smith Reynolds Foundations. With these funds the N.C. Volunteers are providing 100 summer internships for the summer of 1964. Each participant will be given room, board, and $250 for 11 weeks during the summer beginning June 10. College dormitories in the community or resident families will provide living accommodations.

There will be a training program in June designed to instruct the volunteers in all facets of their work on the local level and in techniques of community education and organization.

The North Carolina Volunteers hope that this summer's program will serve as the beginning of a large-scale volunteer effort throughout the state. Each volunteer should be trained to exercise leadership in promoting and running similar projects on their campus and home communities during the 1964-65 academic year. This year's volunteers may have an opportunity for a full-time paid internship in one of these community projects during subsequent years. They would be called upon to assist in the recruitment and training of a larger volunteer force for the summer of 1965.

Volunteers will be asked to conduct tutorial programs, to run day care centers, to assist with lessening poverty-stricken

Application blanks can be obtained at the Lance office in the Student Center.

Authority Lectures On American Music

On Tuesday, March 24, Peter Yates spoke on the subject, "How to Become Posterity." Interspersed with tapes of American, European, and Oriental music to the present time.

Mr. Yates is currently on his way to the Salzburg Seminar Austria, where he will be ecturing on the American study of music. While on his way to Austria, Mr. Yates will visit Cornell University and Harpur College.

Having contributed to a musical magazine monthly for more than 23 years, he will have a new book,

"An Amateur at the Keyboard," published this fall by Pantheon

Originally from Los Angeles, Mr. Yates has lectured at universities and at contempory art festivals all over the nation. In his home town, he and his wife, pianist Frances Mullen, started a series of chamber music concerts called "Evenings on the Roof." These programs have been supervised for 15 years under this rule: "These programs are for the pleasure of the performers and will be played regardless of audience."

