Directing Class To Give One Act Plays

The Directing Class under the supervision of professor Arthur McDonald is presenting a series of one act plays in cooperation with the Highland Players which will bring to a close the productions of the 64-65 season. The performances will be at 8:00 P. M. on May 6-8 in the Lab Theatre of the L. A. building. Tickets will be on sale only at the door.

Each member of the class is directing a play in compliance with the requirements of the course. The first of these plays, "The Last Word," was presented in chapel on April 22 and 23 by Howard Cobbs. Only one other director Saax Bradbury, has a project out side the four plays grouped for the "One Act" presentation. Saax will be working with the Laurel Hill High School group which will present its play later in the month.

"A Very Cold Night," by Winne under the direction of Bill Abrams will begin the production. This play is a modern expression of the reactions of the two thieves, played by Bob Bercau and Jack Marion, which were crucified with Christ. Gail Carlson's direction of "The Stronger" has a cast of two; Lillian Phillips and Lynne Pou. The subject is infidelity. Next, "Murder the Women's Hope" is an expressionistic play dealing with the conflict between the male and female in the modern world. The cast includes Robert Murphy and Susan Vryland under the direction of Richard McCord. And last but not least is Glen Arnette's interpretation of "Passion, Poison and Petrification." Kay McClanahan, Mark Stell, Marshall Krug, Deb Franklin, Sherry Baldwin, John Young, a comparatively large cast for a one act properly convey the chaos that makes this farce truly enjoyable.

Assisting in these productions are Charles Anders, lighting; Helen Gregory, Costumes; Margaret MacFarlane, properties.

Dr. Smith To Join Faculty

LAURINBURG, N.C. - Dr. Alvin H. Smith, now a professor of psychology at Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, will join the faculty of St. Andrews Presbyterian College this fall in the same capacity.

Dr. Smith's appointment to the division of education and psychology was announced today by Dean Robert F. Davidson of St. Andrews.

For some years Dr. Smith was director of the Presbyterian Guidance Center at Hampden-Sydney. He later became a full time member of the teaching faculty.

The new St. Andrews professor graduated from the University of Missouri with a major in psychology, and then earned his masters and doctoral degrees there in education and psychology.

Students To Receive Modern Language Tests

Approximately four hundred students were involved in the Modern Language Association Cooperative Test on Thursday, April 29. Beginning students in French, German, and Spanish took the elementary level of the test, and the intermediate and advanced students took the more advanced level of the test. This recently devised test is divided into two parts: listening and writing.

The test was given for two purposes: first, to help evaluate the language program at St. Andrews and second, to help the college determine how valuable this test might be as a placement test for incoming freshmen.

Zelma George Lectures At St. Andrews May 3rd

W. Stringfellow To Lecture On Church

Mr. William Stringfellow, an internationally and nationally known lecturer, will be on the St. Andrews campus May 11 and 12. Mr. Stringfellow is an Episcopal layman who presently practices law in New York. He graduated from Bates College, Harvard Law School, and the London School of Economics. He has lived and practiced law for several years in East Harlem. Currently he is connected with a law firm which devotes the largest part of its time to civil rights cases. He is in the Faith and Order Commission of the World Council of Churches.

Mr. Stringfellow has had many books published, among them "A Public and Private Faith," "My People is the Enemy," and "Free in Obedience."

During the week the Mr. Stringfellow is on campus, there will be no chapel. He will meet with students on May 11 at 7:00 in the LAA, on May 12 at 10:00 A. M. in the LAA and at 7:00 P. M. that evening in the Student Center. The two 7:00 meetings will be followed by a coffee hour. The topic for his talks will be "The Church and the Social Revolution."

Scotland County M.H.A. To Hold Banquet

The Scotland County Mental Health Association will hold a banquet in the main dining room of the Student Center on Wednesday, May 5, 1965. Those attending will gather in the small lounge upstairs at 7 p.m.

Students of St. Andrews who eat regularly in the college cafeteria may attend the banquet for half price, that is, $1. Tickets may be secured from Miss Morris in the Student Affairs Office.

Dr. Nicholas Stratus, of the Department of Mental Health of the State of North Carolina, will be the principal speaker. Other outstanding people in the field of mental health will participate in the program briefly.

Psychology and Sociology students should be interested, especially any who are considering careers, for there is a great shortage of personnel in the whole area of mental health and new community approaches are rapidly developing in the field. All students are cordially urged to attend. (release prepared by Prof. Louis LaMotte)

Dr. Zelma George, a distinguished sociologist, humanitarian, actress-singer, and recognized authority on Negro music, will be on the campus of St. Andrews on May 3 at 8 p.m. as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer. While here Dr. George will give an illustrated lecture, including several selections, on "Understanding the Negro Spiritual," and a convocation address on "The Negro: Problems, Goals, Methods." In two informal or class meetings with students and faculty she will discuss "Africa: Myth and Reality" and "Change and Conflict Around the World."

Dr. George is a specialist in interpersonal, intergroup and international relations, and has a long record of service on the community, national and international levels. Her father was minister of the Pilgrim Baptist Church in Chicago, which at the time of his death was the largest Protestant Church in the United States. She is the oldest of six children, all of whom are distinguished in their respective fields. Her husband is Clayborne George, attorney and president of the Civil Service Commission in Cleveland. Dr. George did not marry until all of her sisters and brothers finished college.

Born in Texas, Dr. George graduated from the high school in Topeka, Kansas, attended the Chicago Business College, received a Ph.D. in Sociology at the University of Chicago and did graduate work there in social service administration. She received a M.A. in Personnel Administration at New York University, and did work towards a doctorate at the University of Southern California. Her doctorate in Sociology (Intercultural Relations) was received from New York University, her dissertation being "A Guide to Negro Music." She is a graduate in voice from the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, and studied pipe organ at Northwestern. At Western Reserve University she took special courses in radio and television techniques.

The appointment of Dr. George to the U.S. Delegation to the XV General Assembly of the United Nations in 1960, where she represented the United States on the Economic and Financial Committee, was preceded by other services to the government. In 1958 Mr. Eisenhower appointed her to the President's Committee to Plan the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth. In 1959 she participated as a lecturer in the conference sponsored by the People-to-People Music Committee on the Role of Music in International Relations. This followed closely on her six-month lecture tour around the world for the State Department to Japan, Hong Kong, Federation of Malaya, Thailand, Laos, the Philippines, Taiwan, Finland, Italy, France, Spain, Portugal, and six weeks in Ghana.

In 1955, Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson appointed her to a three-year term on the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in Services. Secretary McElroy asked her to serve an additional year.

Upon invitation of Vice-President Nixon, Dr. George participated in the Minority Youth Training-Incentives Conference and in the Conference on the Community's Responsibility for the Development of Minority Potential.

Dr. George has been a teacher at Western Reserve School of Education, a Research Fellow for the Rockefeller Foundation, was founder and executive director of the Avalon Community Center in Los Angeles, Dean of Women and a teacher at Tennessee State University in Nashville, a case worker in Evanston and Juvenile Court Probation Officer in Chicago.
