Beason Presents Film, Reflects on Berrigans

The Program

Tom Beason, an SA graduate connected with the defense in the Berrigan conspiracy trial of Harrisburg, Pa., was here on campus Tuesday to show the film "The Holy Outlaw," and give background information on the proceedings.

The film, "The Holy Outlaw," deals with the justification of the actions of Dan Berrigan, a Jesuit priest who was convicted of the destruction of draft files with homemade napalm; and later charged with conspiracy to blow up heating systems in Washington, D. C., and the planned kidnapping of Presidential aid Henry Kissinger. The actions of Berrigan, as shown in the film, were based on his convictions regarding these questions: Should the value of draft files be placed higher than the value of human lives lost in Vietnam, and should one passively submit to an unjust legal system?

Halfway through the showing of the film Tom Beason reflected on his own personal dealings with the trial, and answered questions from the audience on Dan Berrigan and his brother Phil, who was also indicted and cited as one of the leaders of the conspiracy. Mr. Beason stressed the irregularities of the pre-trial proceedings -- the serving of subpoenas to defendants by FBI agents rather than US marshals; the use of a John Doe subpoena which permits questioning to go beyond the boundaries of charges made; the dismissal of charges against Dan Berrigan who was cited as a leader of the conspiracy by no less than the director of the FBI -- J. Edgar Hoover; the keeping in solitary confinement of Phil Berrigan until his brother -- who had gone underground to prevent imprisonment -- surrendered; the refusal of the government to divulge whether their line of questioning would be based on information obtained by illegal use of wiretapping

The Response

Now you've seen "The Holy Outlaw;" you've read about the Berrigan case; you've had a chance to meet, and talk, with Tom Beason. Now ACT.

One possible line of action is the Crafts Workshop this Saturday, Sept. 14th. The goals of the workshop are threefold:

First, to raise money, through a local sale of crafted articles, for the Berrigan Defense Fund;

Second, to awaken Laurinburg to the particulars of the Berrigan case;

And third, to teach those interested exciting new crafts.

Please note that of top priority is fund raising. We ask, therefore, that in the weeks following the workshop, participants donate a few examples of their handiwork to be sold in Laurinburg. All contributions are, of course, completely voluntary. Details of the sale will be announced shortly.

Final adjustments in the workshop schedule are now completed and the individual craft members should be receiving notices through the mail announcing time, place, and needed materials. Generally, all crafts will get under way at 10:00 in the Science Lab; the second shift of candle-makers will convene at 2:00.

The workshop is open to all members of the St. Andrews Community. So come on over to the Lab, Saturday at 10:00 -- and bring a friend. For further information contact Suzie Moyers (ext 324) or Jill Robinson (ext 258)

Season tickets for the Highland Players' 1971-72 season will go on sale Monday here.

Prices for the tickets, which will be good for five plays and any experimental productions during the year are $3 for students and $4.50 for anyone else.

Tickets may be purchased from any members of the Highland Players or from the Theatre Office, Room 115.

Open Dorms, Deficit, Budget Are Senate Topics

Action in the Interdormitory Senate meeting Monday night took the form of continuing debate on open dorm policy in relation to the current concern of the Student Life committee, and discussion and approval of the Student Association budget for 1971-72.

Last week a committee was formed to draft a recommendation to the residence directors concerning the granting of permission for open suites. The proposal was presented to the Senate, and when it became known that only one dorm had been having any "hassle" it was decided that the proposal be filed for future reference. Eddie Smith, president of Orange Hall, suggested that

DR. ROSCOE BROWN

Piedmont Starts With Dr. Brown

"The Social Revolution in Sports" will be the topic of Dr. Roscoe C. Brown, Jr. who will speak at St. Andrews Presbyterian College on Thursday, Sept. 23. Dr. Brown, professor of physical education at New York University, will be on the campus as the first Piedmont University Center Visiting Scholar for the new school year. His lecture, open to the public, will be given at 2:30 p.m. in the Physical Education Center.

Earlier in the day, at 11:30 a.m., Dr. Brown will meet informally for discussion with students and faculty. As part of his lecture tour sponsored by the Piedmont University Center, Dr. Brown will earlier in the week speak at Elon College.

At NYU since 1951 and full professor since 1960, Dr. Brown, is a graduate of Springfield College with M. Ed. and Ph. D. from NYU. He co-hosts "Black Lettres," a television series of WCBS-TV, now in its second year. He co-authored "The Negro Almanac" and three other books in education and physical education. At NYU he has served as president of the AAUP chapter and is a co-director of Project Apex, NYU's program for disadvantaged youth. Dr. Brown also serves as director of the New Institute of Afro-American Affairs, established at NYU in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

dorm officers get together with residence directors to decide what would constitute "misuse" of the open suite privilege for that individual dorm.

Ken Watkins, President of the Student Association, explained to the group the current action by the Student Life committee. The committee had been given a mandate from the faculty to check into the situation of open dorms, and the new Student Life committee, with its new faculty members Dr. Donald Barnes and Dr. Bill Morgan, is acting on the mandate as ordered. The proposal that dorms be open from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday and Sunday, and from 8 to 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday was submitted by Dr. Barnes only as an opening "trial balloon." Dave Beale, president of Mecklenburg Hall, and Dean Decker proposed that both Dr. Hart, President of the College, and the whole Student Life committee have a joint meeting with the student Senate to discuss the issue.

Jay Bender, Treasurer of the Student Association, presented the budget for the Senate's consideration. He explained that although Dr. Hart and Dr. Davis, the college business manager, had appropriated an increase of $200 for the Student Association over last year. The budget had yet to reflect an $1800 deficit which must be assessed from the various organizations, and paid this year. Jay said that he had tried to make sure most organizations got the money they thought they would need, and then announced that he would not sign any requisitions that would put groups "in the red." It was noted that money for refrigerator rentals received by the Cabinet would be applied towards the deficit. Questions raised about the budget concerned 1) the great difference in the amount of money spent by the Mens' and Womens' Recreation Associations; 2) the increase allotted the Peace Corps; and 3) the amount allotted Farrago. Several Senate members objected to the purchase of trophies for intramural sports. Laurie Ewart, director of the Peace Corps, described the need for transportation and costs of their 14 ongoing projects. Randy von Unworth, president of Winston-Salem Hall, spoke of Farrago's increased outlay for scheduled entertainers. The budget was unanimously approved.

The following is the budget submitted by Student Association treasurer Jay Bender and approved by the Senate Monday night.
