Basketball Team Looks Sharp In Scrimmage

"We're doing a whole lot better than last year," Coach Whiteley said as he discussed his team's recent scrimmages. When asked if the team was going to run more this year, the S. A. mentor hedged, saying only, "We'll play an offense according to our competitors. We'll use a fast pace against teams we think we can run against, and when we need to slow it down, perhaps we can." He mentioned that both will probably be used during the season.

A good indication of the team's progress so far lies ir the scoring balance against Richmond Technical Institute, Monday. On past occasions, all five men on the court have not been involved on offense for various reasons. In a more wide open attack, everyone should be able to handle the ball and consistantly work for two on a trip down the court. Team consistency holds the key to any good team's sucdess with everyone working together and doing their jobs

Whitely states, "If I can get much the same production from Cliff Summers that I did against RTI (8 pts. and 11 rebounds) I will be satisfied. He will enable Bonds and Andrews to concentrate on the stong points of their games." The 6'6" freshman has shown an ability to keep the ball alive on the boards, especially on the offensive end.

"Bonds is more experienced now and this will help him greatly." The junior from Williamston appears to be a more confident shooter over last year. He is taking the ball to the hoop well in the early

S.A.'s guards will have to make things happen this season. These responsibilities go to senior Joe Roberts and sophomore Greg Smith. They represent much of the speed and defense the Knights possess. Roberts, last year's tourney MVP will be the point guard and run the offense. Smith's tough defense may give many star back courters Philbeck and John Laughlin are available at guard.

headaches in '74-'75. "Smith and forward Larry McDaniel are playing well right now," assessed the Coach.

"Brent Bystrucki, Pelon and Benny Cot, all freshmen, can help us off the bench." Transfer Danny recovering from back and leg problems, will spell Roberts at the point.

"Our offense is coming along well but we need more work on the defense. Defense will be stressed in the coming weeks' practice. We shot real well against RTI." This can be attributed in part to creating turnovers and getting good shots. Speed and defense will continue to remain keys to success, along with con-

Intramurals

Intramural soccer began last week with Winston-Salem picking up two wins dumping defending champ New Meck 3-2 and Orange 4-0. New Meck stopped Kings Mountain 2-1 and Orange throttled Kings Mountain 1-0.

Women's handball results find Jane Miller and Mo Newton in one women's bracket semifinal. Jan Howe and Pam Miller received first round byes.

Prem Thoonkapbalin (New Meck) advanced into the second round of men's racquetball beating Bill Burress (Orange) and Curt Sawyer (Kings Mountain). Firstround winners were Nat Rackett, Mackey Asbury, Phil Bradley, Bill Howard, Joe Roberts, Tom Ross, Fred Leo. Mekonnen Kossa, Charlie Dailey, Terry Hagar, Joe Harvin, Randy Von Unwerth, Lee Robinson, Cliff Carey, Mark Victor, Gray Fox, Mike Jones, Jay Xanthos, Dick Chaiken, Ray Andrews, Skip Carson, Dick Prust, and William Alexander.

BY KIM PHILLIPS Wild Corner

Bill Burruss presents a different side of S.A. athletics. He has served as head manager for the soccer team in the last three years. Bill, however, does not want credit for his efforts. He just considers himself a helper. But anyone who has to keep up with the scorebook, motel arrangements, in the Kinne era and, most important, the equipment, is more than a Burruss became close to several of the Blue Ridge prepsters who travelled down here with him. They and other players united into one big, happy family. Bill participated in football and track at Blue Ridge, but soccer was in the winter and "I wanted to devote that time to other interests"-art, his major here, and writing.

He felt he had to "adjust" to the Quillen scheme this year as much as the players. "He had a different system of handling uniforms, etc. and we had some equipment problems this year (lost balls)." Burruss believes he puts in twice as much time as players in his role as manager.

He likes the game very much and thinks it is one of the stronger campus activities. Bill's biggest thrills come from the satisfaction of winning.

"Quillen has to go out and recruit this year. His success in this area will a determine his progress as a coach. We've got to give him a chance and respect his ideas." The manager said a change probably was in order because "at times we worked Coach Kinne's offense too much."

"The team played as well as expected but some of our opponents have come a long way." He mentioned Belmont Abbey and UNC-W. Burruss voiced the majority position when he said that Kinne's ouster killed team morale. "I do believe the seniors tried hard to maintain team morale."

Bill dealt much credit to his freshman assistant, Kathy Bell, for her fine job this year. "She did very well and worked hard." He realizes that manager's post will be in good hands next year.

Although he admits the job is a lot of work, Bill would like to work as manager for two more years. "I've enjoyed it and I just wish more people would try to be a manager. Some are scared because other jobs are thrown at them."-Kim Phillips.

Charles Morgan

(continued from page 1)

declared, "the person almost has to have two heads, grow hair all over, and bay at the full moon."

Concluding his talk with the observation that "the system will work if you give it a chance and be ever on guard against those who would seek its failure," Morgan moved directly into a question-andanswer session with the audience in which he called the energy crisis "contrived" and railed at length against America's vast corporate interests, which he called "the greatest threat to our liberties sting of his barbed wit, Morgan spotted his address with scorching character studies of most of America's oublic officials, such as former Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski ("you remember Leon, he ran the plea-bargain supermarket up there in Washington"), Senator Sam Ervin ("the Senator and I agree on the first eight amendments to the Constitution, but he hasn't read beyond there yet"), rejected Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell ("nowadays he's down in the basement of the courthouse in Tallahassee, Florida, refereeing bankruptcy cases"), and the vastly different fates met by Richard Nixon and his aides) "it's like the Godfather getting off scotfree and his chauffeur getting twenty years").

Reaction to Morgan's speech tended to split along ideological lines. Those identifying themselves as conservatives tended to disagree with many of his pronouncements, with liberal listeners finding themselves in substantial agreement with him. All agreed, however, that he was certainly one of the most outspoken people to speak at St. Andrews in a long time, and as such got the Festival off to a thought-provoking start.

BUTLER BICYCLE SHOP

We have standard Three Speed, Five Speed, and Ten Speed Bicycles.

Sales and Service 120 Cronley Street Phone 276-9816

Sparing no one from the black writers that his poem simply represented another restatement of the facts. However, Mr. Samuels did strike the nerves of those who had never thought about the stituations he presented. His many. The special woman whom he writes about comes through as a really beautiful

John Carr, the last poet to read, revealed through his final poem, personal as it, was, stuck in the minds of

(Continued from Page 2) poetry was centered around poetry his interest in the Civil the Black experience in War. The humor in his poetry America. His first poem dealt was centered around this fact. with a subject that has been The quality of the humor surtouched upon by so many passed the quality of his

Southern Poets

This poetry reading really gave people a chance to listen to what Southern Voices had to say. Entertaining would be the word to describe my overall reaction to the reading. However, it tends to make one appreciate the program we have here at St. Andrews. The readings here have proven to be more stimulating.

what you want is what we got.

洲的海岸的河流。

H.M.R. Scoop Sleeveless

Be current in McGregor's H.M.R. Scoop Sleeveless. Lots of shirt shows through the handsome scoop collar of this 100% virgin acrylic sleeveless sweater with inverted ribs. It's guaranteed to update all of your Fall outfits.

COLLEGE GULF

person.

Across From South Entrance to Campus Free Car Wash With Fill-up. Mechanic on Duty Drive Safely!