Six's Circus

Mondays and Wednesdays from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. Mark Six recreates Fred Allen's old "Allen's Alley" with a late night effort in madness. In between the tunes, you will have the chance to meet Mark and a number of his friends:

- His nephew Scottie: an addled, neurotic ten year old eternally looking for trouble and the restroom;
  - T. Spiro Mondale: our fearful station manager, who sounds like Foghorn B. Leghorn, worries over the bills, and yells more than even Six;
  - Uncle Lee the Pervert: has a bathtub filled with spaghetti and a trapeze over it;
  - Rodney Ditchbank: Our D.J. (Disk Janitor) who never cleans up the station and works days in our local insane asylum;
  - WSAP's Walrus Chorus: barks and claps much like SA's Student Government;
  - Ernie Mott: our 43 year old Australian exchange student;;
  - The BBC Music Room, with hosts Perth Devlin and Brian Eno from London;
- and other assorted characters and misfits.

And A Contest

Mark & Co. are also running a contest: What To Do With Nancy Sinatra? Hear "Boots" and all your other favorites by Nancy. Send your suggestions to Box 640 or call up Mark on his show. Winners gets two albums. Contest ends March 5.

First Hearing

Monday night WQDR in Raleigh was running on at some length about an album they were going to run that night. UNINTERRUPTED, they crowed. FIRST AIRING, they said. You'd have thought it was the greatest thing since sliced bread, but for the fact that WSAP listeners heard it in September, 1977.
