

Coach Robert L. Vaughn

Post Game Notes

Coach Williams almost cleaned the bench. This is the first time that the "Pirates" have won their opening game in the last four years.

A word from Coach Staggers of Voorhees: "You have a wonderful and balanced team. State surprised me, and I believe that she will surprise many other teams. Good Luck!"

Take it as you may—Lee Booth is a swell guy on and off the field. His arm pumped the passes that paved the way for victory.

"Dynamite" Taylor really exploded in the Voorhees game. Do you know that he is quite modest?

Extra—Atlas Davis tackled two men almost simultaneously after missing a pass. Davis tackled the interceptor who lateraled to a teammate. Still on the ground, Davis reached out, and down came the second man. Good work I say!

A Tribute to Captain Trotter

Who is "Tubby" Trotter? He is the dashing young man of the gridiron for S.T.C., and he plays more defensive ball than offensive. Trotter hails from Petersburg, Virginia. During World War II, he served with the Navy. Trotter attended Virginia Union in 1947, but later transferred to S. T.C. Since he has been here, Trotter has handled himself as a gentleman on the field and off the field. He is a living monument to all of those who are Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors.

While on the gridiron, Trotter is very agile and vicious. He stands five feet, seven inches, and weighs 175 pounds. For a small man, he possesses the power of many men.

"Tubby" Trotter, your services have been valuable, and if you were to graduate to-day or to-morrow, the old "Pirate" School would always remember you as a faithful contender.

To Find . . .

To find some height that I may reach—that is my goal,

To find some place in destiny that I may hold.

Sometimes I find, but cannot hold, a peace immeasurable;

Sometimes I'm weak, but cannot fall Why?

My goal I do not know—I must forever try.

A lending hand I cannot heed because I know

To find this goal, I must forever be One who in darkest night can always see

The slightest hill, the slightest ditch—or fall

Below the reach of any human call. Sometimes I wonder if it's worth the pain to find,

But then I think that when I do, it will be mine.

—Nellie R. Drew, '51.

SPORTS NOTES

In a game back in the nineties, a coach sent his reserve quarterback into the game. His last words to the player were "Run, pass, and kick". With this in mind, the quarterback entered the game, passed for thirty yards, and ran the pigskin down to the two. On the very next play, he got back into punt formation and booted the ball out of the park. Do you get it? (No discretion).

"I am deeply pleased with the spirit of the team and of the students. I shall do my best to make this a glorious season."

—Coach Housen.

One day a Virginia football coach was selecting material for a scrimmage. All posts were filled except one—offensive fullback. Finally, he asked for a volunteer. An energetic freshman spoke up and said "Which one coach—left or right."

"Cheezo" Enoch is playing his last season for "De Ole Alma Mater." Good luck, kid!

Fashion Review

Black Comes Back

Without ever really departing from black, fashion designers go back, with the follow-up being gray, particularly the classic gray flannel. All designers agree that nothing else will do except black as the basic accessories. Yes—shoes, hat and handbag—all black.

Rough-'n Ready Tweed Goes Formal

Designers have changed the rough-'n-ready tweed into a soft-'n-ready dress up affair. The casual sport style suit has made its entrance as a dress-up attire and is considered every bit as correct as a corsage at a formal.

Among the fall fashion color for 50-51 are tweeds with reddish and purple shades accented with black accessories. For jewelry, with tweed, no pearl or rhinestone set is too flashy.

Trends

Featuring the shorter jacket with the slim skirt, the full style accentuates the high collars half enclosing a small capped head with the straightness of the narrow skirt taken in the form of pleats or breaking into a gentle flare.

The pretty, turned-back cuff and long, crushed, shiny capeskin gloves are still the most sought after, while fur and velvet trimming featuring the fur buttons is returning to coats.

Skirt lengths seem to have settled at 14½ to 15 inches from the floor.

Charm and Poise are just as important as the wardrobe.

SPORTS NOTES

Did you know that Sammy Baugh of the "Redskins" wears number thirty-three, and that his age was one year more?

Look for Ollie Matson of the San Francisco College to make the hair of many people stand up. Matson is a Negro.

Atlas "Spud" Davis weighs 150 pounds, and Coach Williams is using him as a fullback. Usually a fullback is overgrown, weighs heavily, possesses big muscular legs, etc. "Spud" has neither, but he does have the will power, endurance, balance and speed to carry him on. The latter is what present day coaches stress.

Do you know that:

1. Elizabeth City State lost its first basketball game to Huntington 77-0?

2. Professor Powe can shoot a basketball? Watch him in action this year.

3. President Williams was a star athlete.

4. "Slick" Booth made the All-Pacific basketball team in 1948-49 while in the service.

REV. RUDD SPEAKS AT FIRST ASSEMBLY

On Wednesday morning, September 13, the College held its first formal Assembly. The speaker for the occasion was the Reverend M. S. Rudd of the Mount Lebanon A.M.E. Zion Church of Elizabeth City.

In addressing the students, Reverend Rudd used as a subject: "For Ye Have Not Passed This Way Before". A timely and significant question: Do we know ourselves? highlighted the speech. In answer, the

CHATTER Round the Campus

Well, kiddos, we're all back, both old and new, and since you like chatter, here it is!

Football boys are bold and brave, but on our team this year are two bashful beaux. During the game on September 30, the little one gained a foot for us, and the big one let four boys emerge uninjured after tackling them.

Every football player can't be greeted after a victorious game by a better half—huh? Mr. _____.

A certain captain of a certain team has had quite a number of misfortunes this year. First, he lost his great admirer, then his son. Maybe Husk can afford to give him an admirer, and let us hope the new coach will take the son's place.

Two Freshman boys are seen making a bee-line for Symera Hall quite regularly. Could they be visiting young ladies who both have parts of royal names?

He's up to it again. Not only does he play quarter-back, but he plays a new Freshman every quarter. So cheering Captain, Bewore!

The effect of the Korean War has been felt on the campus—Drawing conclusions from "Tommie's face" when "Bones" received greetings from his "Uncle."

Maybe the temperature in Bias Hall preserves "Snow" better than that in Symera. Whatta you say Miss _____?

Women are surely like the weather. Can you imagine one who would stop admiring a great sax player to notice a new car? Maybe "Lou Lefty" can give you some info.

There's one guy on the campus who isn't a chameleon. He's still taking the same route to Symera Hall with the same girl. He won an award for being an all-around student, and this fair maiden won his heart.

It's an ill wind that never changes. A certain Sophomore who occupied a Boreal football player Saturday night proved this to be true. Strange things are really happening! Eh?

Many couples take to Lover's Lane, but recently the students seem to be finding the Canteen a good substitute. Is it because they do not have enough love to keep them warm?

The moving hand "having writ moves on" and will be back next month to lure you to Chatter 'Round the Campus. Be seeing ya.

speaker urged the audience to continue to study themselves, and not to find fault with others. He further admonished them to face the struggle for control of themselves and learn to make decisions that show strength. Reverend Rudd concluded his speech with emphasis on the fact that everyone is born for a purpose, that the world ahead, which is unknown, is sometimes cruel and sometimes kind; therefore man needs God.
