

T. C. NEEDS SCHOOL SPIRIT

School spirit, which is a significant constituent of an ideal college student body, seems to be lacking at the Winston-Salem Teachers College. Among the students, there appears to be a lack of interest in the student government as well as a lack of interest in other activities offered by the college.

The students at Teachers College show what they can do once a year, and that is during the Miss T. C. Campaign. For this grand event, numerous preparations are made by both the junior and senior classes; consequently, the students of both classes excel and put their ideas to work during the three days of campaigning. Why doesn't this type of spirit prevail during the entire year among the student body?

How interested are you as a student in the student government? It appears as though students are not interested. Included in your fees at the beginning of the year is a fee of one dollar. Not one student has been interested enough to inquire as to the programs the student government has planned for the use of this fee.

Not only has the student government received no inquiries, but it has not received any complaints or suggestions from the student body. Could it be that the students are not thinking or that they see no room for improvement on the Winston-Salem Teachers College Campus?

The student body not only shows disinterest in the student government but also shows disinterest in the football team. There was no school spirit shown at the football games this season. What has happened to the "good ole T. C. spirit"?

—Editor

PAGE ONE SOCIETY

In order to stimulate an interest among the students in worthy events on the campus and to inform them of coming events as well as an opportunity to express themselves, the members of the T. C. News Argus Staff and the members of the Page One Society have worked diligently to make the first edition of the Argus a success.

The Page One Society, which is made up of members of the staff, is responsible for the publishing of the News Argus.

The purpose of the Newspaper is for the students to voice their opinions as well as to be informed of news of other campus activities.

Students interested in giving stories of any news pertaining to campus activities may visit the new office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Please make your articles brief, but to the point.

In addition to publishing the "News Argus," the members of the staff may publish any other periodicals which students may wish to present.

The members of the "News Argus" would like to thank all students who sent in articles, editorials, and names for the school paper.

Inspiring Personality

How often do we find a woman of high attainments, of eminent scholarship and wise decision, a woman who can act quickly, generously and, almost invariably, rightly? How often do we find in one woman such a high degree of courageous leadership, such mobile, yet adroit, skill in planning affairs? Her "ivory tower" was one that was filled with the joys of living.

A brief acquaintance left on me the impression of her broad scholarship, her penetrating mind, her high integrity and her wonderful sense of humor. Long friendship deepened the original imprint.

There was no particle of banality in Miss Elva V. James, who served as a teacher, advisor, and friend to everyone at Teachers College for 19 years. She kept her spirit and her intellect swept wind-clean. No rubbish was to be found in the spacious reaches of her mind and personality.

Certainly the realization of a school paper on The Winston-Salem Teachers College campus must have been one of the fondest dreams of this devoted woman, for she sought every avenue to allow students to grow in their ability to express themselves adequately and to instruct others in this skill. This first issue of The News Argus would be incomplete without this memorial tribute.

One always had the feeling that Miss James' clear-cut appraisal of a situation had been arrived at only after a thorough investigation of all facts.

She encouraged able people to do more than they otherwise would have done. Though she did not seek popular acclaim, everyone admired her rich and colorful character and respected her decisions.

She gave generously of her great strength to the cause of education, to morale building, and to the welfare of young people as well as adults. She felt the importance of her task and performed it without thought of self. We shall miss the clarity and decisiveness of her thinking, the warmth, and understanding of her friendly, beautiful spirit; and we are richer for having known and worked with her.

—James R. Jarrell

How We Can Make Various Changes

The Winston-Salem Teachers College is in the midst of a great change. This change involves everyone and everything connected with this renowned institution.

As an illustration of this change, one may take note of the faculty. The faculty is constantly changing and being improved to meet the needs of the future. We are acquiring more qualified individuals with higher degrees and various backgrounds.

Another illustration of this change involves the administration. On November 11, 1962 our present president was officially inaugurated as the third president of this famous seat of learning.

The buildings and grounds show more evidence of this change. Along with the new girls dormitory, there has been a great change in the administration building so far as office space is concerned.

Along with these changes the student body must change also. We, the students of the Winston-Salem Teachers College, will have to wake up and put our shoulders to the wheel of progress. We must become more aware of our responsibilities in this secular space age. We must seek the truth in the things of the world. We must raise our standards. We must commit ourselves to some particular and worthwhile goal, and then work toward the accomplishment of that goal.

We, the students, must realize that if we tarry too long we will become stagnant. We must realize that if we are to keep in step with the change we must become a more informal, aggressive, sincere, and dedicated student body.

Therefore, I challenge the students to keep abreast with the ever changing times. I challenge the student body to become more informed and more dedicated to the cause.

Larry Womble
President of Student Government

Letter to The Editor

In this the Seventieth Year of our college, we are now experiencing an "Era of Change."

Along with this new era, expansions in our curriculum have been most pronounced.

These changes are taking place gradually under the capable supervision of our president, Dr. Kenneth Raynor Williams.

The noble effort on the part of you will widen the scope for the development of a sound well-rounded educational program for the present students and the future students.

We the students salute you, Dr. Williams, and may your office be fruitful and rewarding.

Kirby Thompson
James McNeil

"Are Athletes Stupid"?

Twenty-one of the 32 freshman athletes scored above the school norm. Ray Matthewson, James Miller, Clarence McGhee, and Nathan Teague were among the very few who scored above 700 on this test. Matthewson's score was well above 900.

Administrative "Who's Who"

The following students were appointed by the Administrative Council to serve on the following committees with faculty members for the school year 1962-63.

Administrative Council, Larry Womble and Haywood Wilson; Curriculum Committee, Frank Kimbrough and Jane Banner; Admission, Retention, Academic Standards Committee, Gwendolyn Bailey and Jacqueline Pierce; Library Committee, Claudia Warren and Clifford Grady; Athletic Committee, Thomas Green and Roland Penn.

Publication Committee, Decie Gunn and James Jarrell; Lyceum and Social Committee, Yvonne Price and Reather Clinkscales; Commencement Committee, Dollye Kendall and Nathaniel Tollison; Homecoming Committee, Polly Wilkins and Andrew Clinton; Discipline Committee, Rosa Tribble and Thomas Douglas; Committee on Fraternity and Sorority, Patricia Wall and John Duncan; Health Committee, Carlena Hampton and Mary Boykins; Traffic Committee, Donald Benson and George Floyd.

The News Argus

STAFF

Editor-in-Chief	Claudia Warren
Managing Editor	James E. Mack
News Editor	Mary Roseboro
Feature Editors	Onita Baker, Decie Gunn
Sports Editor	Charlie Brown
Fashion Editor	Yvonne Price
Co-Office Managers	Vida Baily, Doris White
Art Editor	Porter O'Brien Dodd
Advertisements	Ray Matthewson, John Hunter, Alexander Beaty, Vivian McAuley
Circulation	Macon Knox, Hubert Hargett, William Blount, Ezekiel Patten
Typists	Jacqueline McCorkle, Mary Sullivan, LaVerne Edmonds, Emily McIlwain, Fay Cannon, Carlena Hampton, Patricia Wall, Caronelle Caston
Make-Up	Barbara Parks
Reporters	Willie Grier, Alyce Boyd, Frank Edmonds, Gladys Rice, Ernestine Tate, Virgil Glenn, Robert Ray, Joan Cundiff, James Jarrell, Lillian Brown, Pollie Wilkins, John Tobias, Doris Smith, Pauline Gatson, Rosa Tribble

The News Argus is published periodically by the Page One Society as the student newspaper of the Winston-Salem Teachers College in Winston-Salem, N. C.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

The toughest part of politics is to satisfy the voter without giving him what he wants. —Don Bennett

A Man's Life is dyed the color of his imagination. —Marcus Aurelius

One ought every day to hear a little music, read a good poem, see a fine picture and, if possible, speak a few reasonable words. —Goethe

Some things have to be believed to be seen. —Ralph Hodgson

Common Sense is instinct. Enough of it is genius. —George Bernard Shaw