

Coach Gaines Reveals Basketball Plans For Coming Year

Coach C. E. Gaines greeted 30 eager cagers to try out for the 1962-63 edition of the Rams basketball team. Included in these were 10 members from last year's team and 20 optimistic freshmen.

Returning are Richard Glover, 6-5 junior sharpshooter, Willie Curry, 6-1 shooter; Teddy Blunt, the marvelous floor general; Ted Ratchford, 6-7 rebounding star; Barney Hood; and Lutheran Wiley. Richard "Mickey" Smith is back to give the Rams added strength.

Although the Rams lost the services of ace rebounders, All-American George Foree, and all-C.I.A.A. Tournament Louis Parker, there are freshmen "stringbeans" to take up the slack.

Gaines recruited several outstanding high school prospects over the summer. Some of these freshmen prospects are:

Gilbert Smith, a 6-5 "jumping jack" from Philadelphia, Pa.; 6-3 Thomas Cunningham from Charlotte, N. C.; Arthur Rucks, 6-5 shooting ace of New York City; and Bruce Jackson, a 6-2 lad who can jump with the big boys. Other fine prospects are William Hussey, Welden Taborn, and Charlie Simmons.

For the first time in Rams history, Coach Gaines has scheduled regular season games with predominantly white colleges.

On December 21 and 22, the Rams will travel to Indiana to play Ball State College, and Indiana State College in basketball games.

The Rams will also travel to Greensboro, N.C. December 9 and 10 to participate in a pre-season tournament. A. and T., Virginia State and Maryland State, along with the Rams are scheduled to revive the feud of last season's semifinal round of the C.I.A.A. Tournament when they meet.

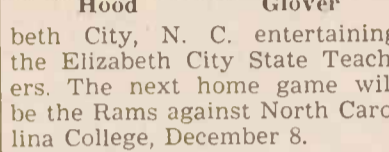

The Rams remaining schedule is given below. They will open the season November 30 at Eliza-

OUTLOOK ON THE TRACK TEAM

The track team is now practicing under the supervision of Coach George Walker and Capt. Harry Lewis. The team practices five days a week, weather permitting. The gym is used during the basketball season which is also the track season (indoor). Needless to say, this makes Coach Walker long and yearn for the day when we will have our new field house and will no longer be confronted with the space problems.

Indoor track season begins in January. Track meets are held in Pennsylvania and New York. These meets are invitational, and the team must have a very good chance of winning before an invitation is extended to them. If the team is invited, they are given financial assistance toward their traveling expenses by the person extending the invitation. Champions of previous years are invited usually to participate. Men who have outstanding time in their events in the early meets are also usually invited.

In our situation here at W. S. T. C., we must have men who can receive travel expenses by being good enough to warrant an invitation from the different promoters. The athletic budget will not permit the team to travel that far ordinarily without financial assistance from outside sources.

The events that comprise an indoor track meet are dash, high hurdles and low hurdles, 880 or 1,000 yards, mile relay, and broad jump.

The outstanding men for these events are:

Dash—Andrew Curry, Glandis Pittman, Emmitt Robinson, Nathan Teague, and Kenneth Washington.

High and Low Hurdles—Lamont Fletcher, Harry Lewis, Frank Kimbrough and Kenneth Sheppard.

Broad jump — Andrew Curry and Nathan Teague.

880-1,000 yards—Horace Webb. Mile Relay—John Beatty, Lamont Fletcher, Harry Lewis and Horace Webb.

Frank Bowens, an outstanding track man for four years, will not be eligible to compete in regular track meets. Frank may elect to compete unattached in the national meets.

There are a number of young men trying out for the team who have yet to prove themselves. Coach Walker feels that they should show promise. Our team will be strengthened tremendously.

The members chose Harry Lewis, a senior from Coatsville, Pa., as captain and Kenneth Sheppard, a junior from Philadelphia, Pa., as co-captain.

touchdown in the closing moments of the second period, climaxing a 74-yard march. This game was the highlight of the Bulls' homecoming festivities.

Coach Conrad Looks To '63 Prospects

Coach T. R. Conrad, the Ram's football coach, can look to the future with optimism. Conrad has several freshmen gridders who should develop into fine footballers next season. The outlook is great.

Leading the parade of freshmen talent is James Millner, a 6-1, 176 pound quarterback. Millner has a great passing arm as exhibited in the A. & T. and Fayetteville State games this season. He has completed 16 of 56 passes for 265 yards and 5 touchdowns in two games this season. Great things are expected of this kid. Roy Hicks is another freshman quarterback who can run, throw, and kick. He completed the only pass he attempted this season for 60 yards. Hicks does all of the Rams punting.

Winston Mapp, ace pass catching end, will bring smiles to the face of Conrad with his pass catching ability. Mapp has caught 17 passes for 7 touchdowns and 362 yards this season. He ranks third in passes caught this season in the C.I.A.A.

Clarence McGhee, a bruising 215 pound guard, has started most of the games this season. A bone-crushing tackler and fierce blocker, Coach Conrad expects McGhee to be one of T. C.'s greatest.

Other freshman standouts are backs Donald Johnson, Napoleon Hudson, William Taylor, Bennie Parker, and Charles Shuford, end Freddie Heath and guards Lee Thomas and Marvin Burgin.

The Rams have a nucleus for an outstanding team next season, providing these fellows live up to expectations.

BULLS BEAT RAMS

The J. C. Smith Bulls of Charlotte capitalized on four interceptions to defeat the Rams 26-8 in Memorial Stadium, Charlotte, N. C.

The Bulls scored early in the second period when a Rams' pass was picked off and carried into the end zone by the Bulls. The Bulls' second touchdown was set up by an interception which was carried deep into the Rams' territory. In the second half the Bulls scored twice again on interceptions.

The Rams scored their only

Cleo Hill Plays Pro Ball

Cleo Hill, graduate and better known former star basketball player of our Ram team, has recently signed a contract with the Philadelphia Tapers of the American Basketball League. Cleo, thought by many to have been the greatest to leave Teachers College, played with the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball League.

Upon entering the NBA last season, there was speculation that he would be one of the super stars of that league in the near future. Unfortunately, this never came true, because of the complaints made about his (Cleo's) shooting and out-scoring the more established players on the Hawks team. This discontention led to the firing of Paul Seymour, the coach of the team. After this, Cleo began a long sit, that lasted until the end of the season. This length of time without action saw his average diminish from double figures to a very low four points per game.

At the beginning of this season Cleo was released by the Hawks and was immediately picked up by the Tapers of the ABL.

There are many students at T. C. who follow Cleo's pro basketball career and wish him a successful return to the "round ball sport." The patented hook, deadly jump, high arching set shot, and the lightning drives towards the basket will be shot again and sunk by our Cleo Hill.

VIEWING THE TEACHING FIELD

by Decie Gunn

On November 5, 1962, most of the student teachers returned to the campus of the Winston-Salem Teachers College to begin their evaluation of student teaching for the first nine weeks of the school year 1962-1963.

This Evaluation Week, held November 5th-9th, climaxed the experiences of the student teachers which began on August 29, 1962, when thirty-four students returned to the campus of the Winston-Salem Teachers College to begin their student teaching for the first nine weeks of the school year 1962-1963.

Miss Butler and her student teachers had group discussions on the functions, purposes and techniques of evaluation at the first session of Evaluation Week. Each student was given a chance to tell of his experiences in his particular school.

On November 6th, Mr. Lewis gave some highlights on how to secure a teaching position.

At the third session of Evaluation Week, which was held on November 7th, Mr. J. D. Ashley, principal of the 14th Street School, was the speaker. He gave the student teachers some highlights on the traits a teacher must have in any school situation. The second part of this session was devoted to "Show and Tell" demonstrations by the majority of the student teachers.

Mrs. Gray and her student teachers were in charge of the fourth session. The first portion of this session was devoted to an informal discussion led by Mrs. Gray. The topic discussed was "The Professionalities of a Teacher."

The second part of the session included skits which were presented by the student teachers under Mrs. Gray. All of the skits were centered around the codes of ethics for a teacher.

On November 9th, the final session of Evaluation Week was held. Mrs. Brown and her student teachers were in charge. The topic for this session was "Excellencies and Errors in Teaching." Mrs. Brown opened with a general discussion on this topic after which the student teachers demonstrated the incorrect and correct methods of teaching social studies, arithmetic and Language Arts.

At this time, the students met their supervisors and were assigned to schools. They also had a briefing and orientation period and were registered for the first semester. Teaching kits containing student teaching materials were given to each student. The students then had conferences with their college supervisors.

On Tuesday, September 4th, many of the student teachers signed in and had the first opportunity of meeting the students. All of them were able to observe and participate in "opening of school" for the school year 1962-63.
