

CONGRATULATIONS, SENIORS

Congratulations to the graduating class of 1963. In spite of many complications which accompany the attainment of a college education, you have been able to cope with the various situations. As a result, success has come your way. Such success is indicative of one who has great initiative, and is in keeping with the motto "you can get anywhere you want to go if you face it and take steps."

Your class has exhibited much co-operation in that you have captured many outstanding victories. You are to be commended for having three "Miss T. C.'s" in a single graduating class; namely, Miss Mary Elizabeth Wilkins, Miss Rosa Tribble, and Miss Gail Angeline Caesar.

Good luck to you as you depart from Winston-Salem State College. Strive to better the present world situation, for you are now becoming leaders of today, not tomorrow.

—Editor

YEARBOOK FEE IN TUITION?

Frustration, headaches, and tension develop as a result of preparing to publish an annual. The primary reason for this seemingly lies in a lack of co-operation of the students. What is the reason for this?

During the time that pictures are taken for the yearbook, many students are financially unable to co-operate. Inasmuch as a yearbook project is one that includes the entire student body, why not include a yearbook fee in tuition?

If the administration were to consider including such a fee in tuition, financial problems which presently confront the yearbook staff would not exist. A series of varying deadline dates for payments would be eliminated.

The number of class pictures that are found in our yearbook are not representative of the enrollment of our student body. Indeed this needs to be corrected.

Surely, the above suggestion would solve this problem.

Compulsory Chapel

On every college campus, regardless of size, location, or general interest, compulsory chapel should be included as part of the educational process. Many students have come by this attitude of compulsory chapel prematurely without realizing the advantages and benefits that are acquired from this facet of the college program. Compulsory chapel includes in its scope the religious, social, cultural, and academic aspects of the students' life.

First, chapel programs would have an effect on the social life of the student in that assembly programs bring the college family together at the same time for one particular interest. This will create within the student a feeling of belonging, thus contributing to his social development.

Second, well planned chapel programs can enrich the students' academic life through movies, lectures and other forms of communication to supplement and motivate classroom experiences.

Third, chapel programs make a vast contribution to the total cultural aspect of the students' life; through lyceum programs the students are exposed to the fine arts of the superior artists in American contemporary music, art, drama and literature.

Fourth, religious programs serve to strengthen the students' attitude toward religion and shape their moral character in a changing society.

Well rounded students take advantage of all the opportunities that the college provides for them. They are fully aware of the fact that education encounters more than academic achievement, they realize that the social, cultural and religious aspects of life must develop in proportion.

STUDENTS APPROVE NAME CHANGE

A poll taken on Winston-Salem State College indicated that approximately seventy-five per cent of the students favored a name change; fifteen per cent opposed; and ten per cent were neutral. The students were asked to express their opinion concerning a bill introduced into the North Carolina General Assembly on February 15, which proposed that the name "State College" be substituted for "Teachers College" in the name of the Winston-Salem Teachers College. The bill was passed on May 10, 1963.

The students who were in favor of this change felt that it is a progressive step forward, and that a new name will attract a greater variety of students. The enlarging of the college's services, and the establishment of departments not directly related to the teaching profession were the top reason for their approving of this change.

There was, however, a small percentage who opposed this change. Their reasons varied from "not any reason" to "I just do not like the idea." Some reasons such as the difficulty of changing the words in the school song, altering yells and scraping the thousands of insignias from the cars bearing the name of "dear old T. C."

This is the third change since the school was founded on September 28, 1892. It was first founded as the Slater Industrial and State Normal School. In 1925 the General Assembly of North Carolina, recognizing the school's leadership in the field of training elementary school teachers, granted the school a new charter, extending its curriculum to four years above high school and changed its name to the Winston-Salem Teachers College.

—Phyllis Martin

Just For Fun

One student sitting in Vesper made this remark to another. "Now I lay me down to sleep. The speaker is long; his subject is deep. If he should finish before I wake. Give me a hunch for goodness sake!"

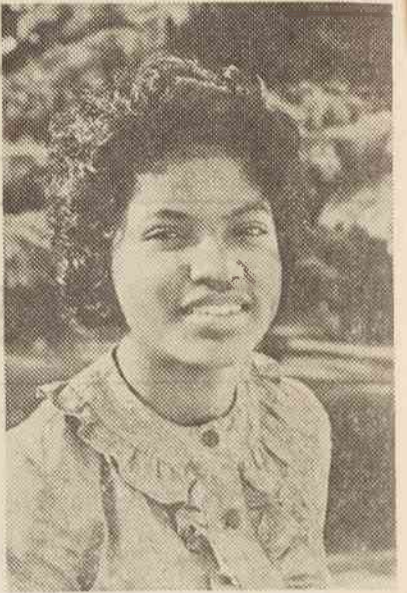

"I need a holiday," said the cashier. "I'm not looking my best."

"Nonsense," said the boss.

"No, it isn't nonsense; the men are beginning to count their change."

MISS ARCHIE IS LADY OF THE YEAR

"Having been chosen as Lady of the Year has been an extraordinary experience for me, and a tremendous experience to my family for such an honorable award to be given to a member of my immediate family," said Miss Carolyn Archie, a sophomore at Winston-Salem State College.

CAROLYN ARCHIE

... outstanding sophomore ...

Miss Archie was chosen for this award by votes from the student body at Winston-Salem State College. This award is presented annually by the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority. In order for one to achieve such an award, one must have certain qualities, such as good moral standings, leadership, ability, character, and have good personality traits. These are only a few of the traits that Miss Archie possesses.

"From childhood, I have always wanted to be a nurse because of my interest in helping other people; therefore, I chose nursing as a career," said Miss Archie.

"Being a nursing student, many exciting things happen. But the most exciting event that occurred in my life was during my sophomore year at Winston-Salem State College, when I received my cap," said Miss Archie.

At Winston-Salem State College, Miss Archie is affiliated with the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority and the Nursing Students Organization.

—Donnie Watkins

Who Is A Lady?

Now that spring is here the young ladies are becoming more active, and much advice is being given on how to act like a lady to the young women of this college. It is hoped that all will read this article and judge themselves accordingly.

A lady is one who tries to scatter a little happiness wherever she goes. She knows that a good-natured tolerance, a kindly and courteous attitude toward everyone, and a spirit of genuine good fellowship will go a long way toward making life in the home, school, office, city or county, more pleasant and agreeable. She is one who is honest and sincere; she has a sense of true value in people and a friendly, courteous attitude toward everyone. She does nothing that will hurt anyone's feelings; says nothing that will cause anyone pain.

A lady is gentle, considerate and thoughtful; she governs her action with regard for others. Attitude toward her friends is a real expression of the beauty that dwells within her. A lady does not chew gum or smoke in public nor does she talk in a rude or boisterous manner. She knows that a well-bred person never attracts attention to herself. In other words, she thinks more of others than herself. She helps the bashful overcome their faults, she cheers the down-hearted. You will never find her churlish or loquacious; she has the ability to be pleasing at all times. Once a friend, always a friend — this is a lady.

—Decie Gunn

Self-Evaluation Improves One

For of what account are truth, and love, when life itself has ceased to seem desirable? I also say strive hard for success and happiness. Expect nothing but the best and most of all, look for nothing but the best. Remember always that you and only you are responsible for perfect behavior. You are only what you make yourself, and what you think you can be, you are. Always be kind to everyone.

Fight for a higher education, the finer things in life, justice, liberty and nothing under being equal. Follow these patterns, and I know that you will find that success and happiness lie just around the bend.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1963-64

"Even though we had a late start, most of our plans were accomplished," said Miss Brenda Sutton, president of the Freshman Class.

The Freshman Class of the Winston-Salem State College was a bit late in selecting their class officers. The class officers were elected after the first semester grades were issued. In order to be eligible for an office, the student had to possess a 2.0 average.

The other class officers are: Eva Bryant, vice president; Sandra Jones, secretary; Judy Carson, assistant secretary; Levonia Nowlin, treasurer; Brenda Sutton, Gladys Rice, and Winston Webber, Student Council Representatives, and Robert March, parliamentarian.

The class motto is "An opportunity well taken is the only weapon of advantage."

The idea of retaining the same officers of the Freshman Class who will be sophomores next year is in order. If this idea stands, Miss Sutton has the following plans: To create an interest in the student to attend class meetings regularly so as to function more effectively, and to be distinguished as an outstanding sophomore class by excelling in all areas.

The advisor of the freshman class is Miss Ann Stewart.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS—(Left to right) Brenda Sutton, Gladys Rice, Levonia Nowlin, Sandra Jones and Eva Bryant.

The News Argus

STAFF

Editor-in-Chief	Claudia Warren
Acting Editor	Mary Roseboro
Assistant Editor	Yolander Miller
Managing Editor	Onita Baker
Feature Editor	Decie Gunn
Sports Editors	John Tobias, Joan Cundiff
Fashion Editor	Yvonne Price
Cartoonist	Porter O'Brien Dadd
Advertisements	Ray Matthewson, John Hunter, Alexander Beaty, Vivian McAuley
Circulation	Macon Knox, Hubert Hargett, William Blount, Ezekiel Patten
Typists	Jacqueline McCorkle, Jeanette Richardson
Reporters	Joyce Henderson, Geraldine Pete, Willie Simmons, Mary Ramseur, Phyllis Martin, Joan Tyler, Alvina Woodard, Phyllis Hill, Pollie Wilkins, Donnie Watkins, Thomas Douglas, James McNeal, Francis Price

The News Argus is published periodically by the Page One Society as the student newspaper of the Winston-Salem State College in Winston-Salem, N. C.