

Radio Station Has Multi-Talented Director

By Carolyn Baker

The man behind WSNC-FM is Mr. Clarence Thomas. An honors graduate from Hampton Institute, Mr. Thomas is the Mass Communications Coordinator, and the Radio Staff General Manager. Mr.

Thomas also teaches Mass Communications, Speech, and is currently planning an academic program in Mass Communications.

When asked about the future of WSNC, Mr. Thomas feels that "the sky is the limit once hours, programs, and staff are increased." Mr. Thomas would like to see more professional people working with the students and WSNC. "If the General Manager was a professional person, there would be much potential, time, and money invested in WSNC," he says.

Another project Mr. Thomas works on is the television lab. The television lab helps to train Mass Communication students in television, production, and studio work. Mr. Thomas says that he would like to see the television lab hooked to Cable television.

Mr. Thomas graduated from Hampton Institute, as a Mass Communication major. He received his masters in Broadcast Communication from the University of Syracuse. He is also a member of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.
