Are you sure you know about wills?

For instance, did you know that . . .

- A person must be 21 before making a valid will?
  - No one can see your will once it is admitted to probate?
  - A husband and wife share equal rights to each others estates?
- All of the above statements are FALSE in the state of North Carolina!

Age requirements, access to probate records, and how a husband and wife share in their estates are all specifically spelled out under North Carolina law. These misconceptions and many others can be explained by one of our Development Professionals. Just fill out the coupon below to obtain information. Of course, there is no obligation to you.
