

G. Tripp named "Advisor of Year"

Gilbert A. Tripp, Jr., associate professor of science, has been named Chowan's "Advisor of the Year" for the 1992-93 academic session. The announcement was made by Mrs. Austine Evans, director of academic advisement, during the faculty/staff workshop at the beginning of the fall term.

Gilbert Tripp
"... goes extra mile to help students."

Tripp, as well as all other full-time faculty members, serve as an academic advisor to a group of students to help them achieve success in their chosen fields of study. Tripp was nominated for the honor by his group of advisees and the final selection was made by an anonymous committee.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Evans said that Tripp had "gone the extra mile in his efforts to help students." She read one quotation written by a student on the nomination form which stated "as a friend, counselor, parent and teacher, he has helped me more than any other person at this college."

Another student wrote "he was our friend as well as our advisor."

Tripp, who joined the faculty in 1967, received his bachelor's degree from Campbell University and his master's from East Carolina University.

He has completed additional graduate study at Converse College, North Carolina State University, and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The "Advisor of the Year" award was established in 1990. The two first recipients were Mrs. Dorothy A. Wallace, assistant professor of business, and Dr. G. Kenneth Wolfskill, professor of English.
