

Five inducted into prestigious Order of Lux et Veritas

Faculty, staff members cited for service milestone

Twenty-five members of the Chowan College faculty and staff, including five new inductees into the prestigious Order of Lux et Veritas, were recognized for their years of service at the annual Christmas dinner earlier this month.

The awards were presented by Dr. Jerry F. Jackson, president, and Mrs. Elaine Myers, chair of the Board of Trustees.

Inducted into the Order of Lux et Veritas in recognition of 25 years of continuous service to the college, were Mrs. Pricilla Branch, Dr. Andrea Eason, Mrs. Evelyn Porter, Mrs. Linda E. Tripp, and Mrs. Daisy Vaughan.

Each new inductee was presented a gold watch bearing the seal of the college, a lapel pin, and a certificate of membership. They are also afforded special privileges of membership and their names are engraved on a plaque which is displayed in McDowell Columns.

Michael Allen, vice president for business affairs, inducted Mrs. Branch and Mrs. Vaughan, both food service employees, as well as Mrs. Porter, a member of the housekeeping staff.

Dr. Andrea Eason, director of academic computing and a member of the Department of Business, was inducted by Mrs. Dorothy Wallace, chairperson of the department.

Mrs. Tripp, director of counseling, was inducted by G. Bruce Moore, vice president for student development.

Other members of the faculty and staff completing years of service of five-year blocks were presented lapel pins and a check totaling $5.00 for each year of their service.

Warren G. Sexton, associate professor of social science, received a standing ovation when he was recognized for 35 years of continuous service to the college. Sexton joined the faculty in 1959 and served for many years as chairman of the Department of Social Science.

Those completing thirty years of service were Janet Collins, assistant professor of health and physical education; Peggy Hare, secretary to the director of personnel; and Dr. B. Franklin Lowe, Jr., vice president for academic affairs.

Aldeen Gatewood, manager of the college bookstore, and Daniel Surface, associate professor of health and physical education, were honored for twenty years of service.

Those recognized for ten years of service were: W. C. Bryant, Jr., Dr. Joyce Elliott, Dr. Carl Garrott, Hilda L. Gatling, Bettie W. Ricks, Ronald M. Sumner and John Bernard Vaughan.

Five year faculty and staff members were: Kevin L. Clary, Dr. Kenneth M. Craig, Jr., Jenny T. Eakin, Alan L. Goldberg, Rebecca D. Mann, and Carole Nicholson.

Dr. Jackson also received a lapel pin and check upon the completion of his fifth year as president of the institution.

Presentations made during annual Christmas dinner
for faculty and staff

Inducted into the prestigious Order of Lux et Veritas in recognition of a quarter of century service were Mrs. Linda Tripp, left, and Dr. Andrea Eason.

Three staff members joining the Order of Lux et Veritas were Mrs. Daisy Vaughan, left, and Mrs. Pricilla Branch. Mrs. Evelyn Porter was not present for photo.

Dr. Jackson congratulates Warren Sexton upon the completion of 35 years of continuous service. Sexton, associate professor of social science, was chairman of the social science department for a number of years.

Completing three decades of service were Mrs. Peggy Hare (left), Dr. B. Franklin Lowe, and Mrs. Janet Collins.

Aldeen Gatewood, left, and Dan Surface were recognized for twenty years of service to the college.

Six members of the faculty and staff received recognition on their fifth anniversary. Left to right are Dr. Kenneth Craig, Dr. Jerry Jackson, Carole Nicholson, Rebecca Mann, Kevin Clary, and Sissy Eakin.

Joining the Chowan family in 1984 were, left to right, W. C. Bryant, Dr. Joyce Elliott, Hilda Gatling and Bettie W. Ricks.