

Faculty and Staff Focus

Dr. Hagus Taylor, chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy, was the author for the January Sunday School commentaries in the Biblical Recorder.

Two articles by Dr. Kenneth Craig, assistant professor of religion, entitled "The Book of Jonah" and "The Book of Banuch and the Letter to Jeremiah," appeared in the current issue of Mercer Commentary on the Bible.

Dr. Carl Garrett, professor of language and literature, authored an article which was published by the Center for Applied Linguistics of Washington, D. C.

Doug Eubank, associate professor of art, has accepted an invitation to serve as a member of the jury for the National Scholastic Arts Awards Program for the eastern North Carolina District.

Tom Brennan, assistant professor and chairman of the Department of Printing Production and Imaging Technology, has been invited to chair the North Carolina Graphic Communications Advisory Committee and to serve on the North Carolina Trade and Industrial Education Curriculum teams.

James Garrison, vice president for athletic administration, attended the January meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) in San Diego, California.

Mrs. Yvonne F. Warren, RN, has been named Director of the Wellness Center.

William B. Sowell, director of printing production and service enterprises, has been selected for inclusion in the 1994 edition of "Who's Who Among Academic Teachers."

Dr. Gladys DeJesus, associate professor of business, has been granted a one-semester leave of absence and is teaching this semester at the InterAmerican University in Arecibo, Puerto Rico.

Tyler delivers address

Ted Tyler, a candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, was the featured speaker for business students and faculty entitled "When is Enough, Enough? Too Much Government?"

Tyler commended on seven key areas which included balanced budgets, the capital gains tax, term limitations, crime control, health care, the military and gun control.

Following his presentation in Marks Hall auditorium and sponsored by the Department of Business' Mu Zeta Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, Tyler responded to questions from the audience.

Three printing production and imaging technology majors proudly display their Gutenberg award certificates and medallions. Left to right are: Judy Ivey of Edenton, Anita Gaskins of New Bern, and Dennis Dunlow of Colerain.

Twelve printing majors win prestigious Gutenberg Awards in national contest

Twelve students majoring in printing production and imaging technology have received international awards in the annual Gutenberg Awards Student Graphic Arts Contest held in Wisconsin/Stout in December.

The national contest is sponsored by the International Graphic Arts Education Association and the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen.

Dennis Dunlow of Colerain, Judy Ivey of Edenton and Anita Gaskins of New Bern, each received First Place and Best of Show Awards and were presented medallions and certificates.

Ivey's award was for her work on the cover of Chowan's 1994-95 Student Activities Calendar and Gaskins was recognized for the conventional pre-press work she did on the calendar cover.

Dunlow, a '94 graduate of the printing program, won his first place and Best of Show award for a book cover he created electronically. Dunlow also received a Certificate of Merit for a process color job he produced on Macintosh computers.

DeLee Smith, a junior from Powell, WY, received a first place award for a three-color posterization produced by screen printing. She also received a Certificate of Merit for a project involving computers.

Caroline Burch, a sophomore from New Bern, was awarded second place honors for her three-color posterization produced by screen printing.

Stephen Brumfield, a sophomore from Nashville, earned a Certificate of Merit for his

"Business Set," which he produced electronically on computers.

Students from all over the world enter the annual Gutenberg competition with entries in five educational divisions. Chowan's students competed in one of the five classifications of the college and university division.

The "Best of Show" winners are chosen from the entries of all first place winners and each receive a beautiful embossed and foil stamped certificate along with a medallion. Other winners received an embossed certificate.

Angela Noe president of business honor society

Angela Noe, a senior from Morehead City, has been elected president of Chowan's Business Honor Society for the 1994-95 academic year.

Serving as vice president is Sheilah Lewis, a senior from Murfreesboro, and Krista Fish, a senior from Blue Mountain Lake, NY, is treasurer. Kim VanRoekel, a sophomore from Portsmouth, VA, is secretary for the society.

Sean Martin of Chesapeake, Va, is project chair, and Preston McElheney of Roanoke Rapids, will serve as program chair.

The other members of the Business Honor Society are Ann Levy, Nancy Nelson, Linda Vaughan, Mary Hussein and John Ellis, all of Murfreesboro; Stacy Byrum, Christina Ober and Lisa Weaver of Edenton; and Richard Green of Pope Air Force Base.

Three capture "Best of Show" awards in annual contest among printing majors

Members of the 1994-95 Chowan Ambassadors posed for a photograph in the President's Dining Room following a recent college function. The members are, left to right, front row: Lisa Askew, Murfreesboro; Christina Jump, Portsmouth, VA; Shipara Jones, Burlington; Stephanie Coble, Sanford; Suzanne Whitley, Conway; Lori Herring, Rockport, IN; Meredyth Lyles, Murfreesboro; Alison Newlove, Falls Church, Va; and Caroline Burch, New Bern. The men on the back row are, left to right: James Dalton, Newport; Jeremy Funk, Baltimore, MD; William Craig, Dale City, VA; Lee Stephens, LaGrange; Thomas Brede, Neuenburg, Germany; Matthew Suggs, Jersey, VA; Nathan Smith, New Bern; and Gregory English, Portsmouth, VA. Not present when the photograph was made were Thad Forehand, Shiloh; Mark Long, Fredericksburg, VA; and Sean McClafferty, Altamonte Springs, FL. Kevin Clary, director of alumni services, is advisor to the group.

