

P-A-R-T-Y "Promoting Alcohol Responsibility Through You"

Linda Tripp, director of counseling and career development, presented a full schedule of events to mark Alcohol Awareness Week, November 4-7. Sponsored by the Office of Student Life and open to the public, the week's activities commenced Monday in Marks Hall Auditorium with Todd Rauchenberger, director of New Outlook, presenting "My Drinking & Drugging Interfere with College."

The events began with a Health Fair in the Braves Den including displays, demonstrations and free testing. Information was available on HIV, AIDS, birth control and contraception from the Hertford and Gates County Health Departments.

The Murfreesboro Fire and Rescue squads provided information on EMT and first aid and Roanoke Chowan S.A.F.E. displayed materials concerning domestic violence. Nutrition information was provided by Pioneer Food Service while the North Carolina Alcohol Law Enforcement Division provided information regarding drugs and alcohol.

Dr. Jane Markert, of Exercise Physiology

Lab, administered body fat, resting blood pressure, flexibility and strength tests. Roanoke Chowan Hospital tested blood sugar and blood pressure and the New Outlook program from Southampton Memorial Hospital provided depression screenings.

Events continued Tuesday evening with a performance by the a cappella singing group, Regency, in Turner Auditorium and a "Mocktail" Party, with door prizes, in the Braves Den.

Various alcohol-related videos and a "Sundae Party" were held for students for the event.

Members of the North Carolina Highway Patrol and Murfreesboro Police, Fire and Rescue squads assisted with an extremely realistic drunk-driving accident reenactment Thursday evening. Staged in front of Marks Hall, a wrecked vehicle, student "victims" and emergency rescue operations convinced spectators that the scene was authentic. A talk on "DWI Laws" followed the reenactment by Agent Rodney Bechom of the NC Alcohol Law Enforcement Division.

Above - Jim Garrison, vice president for athletics, and Stan Lott, president, share bartending duties at the "mocktail" party during Alcohol Awareness Week.

Thirty students named to '97 "Who's Who"

Based on recommendations submitted by faculty and staff, the Chowan Honors Committee selected 30 students to appear in the 1997 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

These outstanding campus leaders join an elite group of students from more than 1,900 institutions of higher education in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations. The following students join the honor roll listing.

Laura Beth Allgood '98, Danville, VA
Ricardo Salazar Arias '97, Enfield, NC
Heather Marie Britt '97, Raeford, NC
Brian Allen Canaday '97, Radford, NC
Christina Melinda Clark '97, Manassas, VA
Stephanie L. Cooke '98, Virginia Beach, VA
E. Michelle Copeland '97, Windsor, NC
Meredith Llyn Davies '97, Moyock, NC
Gregory Alan English '97, Portsmouth, VA
Jeremy Jason Funk '97, Baltimore, MD
Michael Nan Gubitz '97, Conway, NC
Andrea Lynne Guy '97, Honeybrook, PA
Kristopher Ryan Howell '98, Turbeville, SC
Margaret Grace Jackson '97, Franklin, VA
Bonnie Palmer Jordan '97, Winton, NC
Laura Jean Lanier '98, Conway, NC
Angela Mae Lowery '97, Prince George, VA
Meredith Stewart Lyles '97, Murfreesboro, NC
Nancy Michelle Mitchell '98, Tappahannock, VA
Jennifer Lynn Murden '97, Norfolk, VA
Allison Hope Murray '98, Charlotte, NC
Jennifer Marie Neuhaus '98, Havelock, NC
Christina Grace Ober '97, Edenton, NC
Lori Anne Paratore '97, Amissville, VA
Gwendolyn Katrina Quarles '98, Bowie, MD
Brian Patrick Roe '98, Poquoson, VA
Kelly Lynnette Rothery '98, Newport News, VA
Christie Marie Underwood '97, Norfolk, VA
Heather Dawn Vann '97, Murfreesboro, NC
Steven Christopher Varley '97, New Bern, NC

Left - A realistic demonstration was staged by the Highway Patrol, and local police, fire and rescue squads assisting with a drunk-driving accident.

Christmas concert highlights season

Amidst a bank of striking poinsettias, the Chowan College Band and Chowan College Chorus combined their talents in Turner Auditorium to present a diverse musical mix for their annual Christmas concert Dec. 5.

Directed by James Chamblee, professor of music, and accompanied by pianist Carole Nicholson, assistant professor of music, the chorus performed, Gloria by Antonio Vivaldi (1678-1741). Composed by Vivaldi c. 1715, the work was written for mixed chorus, soprano and alto soloists and small orchestra. Christina Clark was featured as alto soloist with Tiffany Christner and Kelly Dunlow performing as soprano soloists.

The chorus also presented The First Noel/Pachelbel's Canon, arranged in an effective combination by Michael Clawson, and This Perfect Stranger, a contemporary work by composer Glibert Martin. Accompanying the chorus, Meredith Lyles performed a violin solo.

A selection of familiar Christmas songs included, Deck the Halls, Christmas is the Warmest Time of the Year and Fum, Fum, Fum.

James Rogers, assistant professor music, directed the Chowan Band in the performance of two movements from Three Ayres from Gloucester by Hugh M. Stuart. The first movement, The Jolly Earl of Cholmondeley, was a march in light British style. The second, a lovely ballad titled Ayre for Eventide featured solo passages by Meg Jackson and the horn and clarinet sections.

Seniors Lisa Berry and Allan Chappell led a pop selection from the pep band repertoire and Christmas numbers included Deck the Halls and Stille Nacht using arrangements performed by the popular group, Mannheim Steamroller.

Inviting the audience to join in, the band played John Ployhar's work, Christmas Sing-a-Long and closed with its Christmas wish of Have yourself a merry little Christmas featuring Larry Tiglaio on the trombone and Antuan Hawkins on the trumpet.

Annual performances by chorus and band well attended by students, faculty and guests