Information Center provides a warm, friendly welcome

Welcome to Chowan!

New and returning students get a warm welcome back from the smiling greeters in Chowan's Information Center.

Members of the community and Chowan faculty and students agree it's a lot easier for visitors to receive information and directions when they enter the campus of Chowan since the information center was constructed last year.

The center is staffed 24 hours a day and during the summer provided directions for the 2800 participants attending the 32 camps which were held on the campus of Chowan.

"We are interested in welcoming visitors to our campus and providing them the information they need to make their visit a positive and pleasant one," states Dr. Jerry Jackson, president of college.

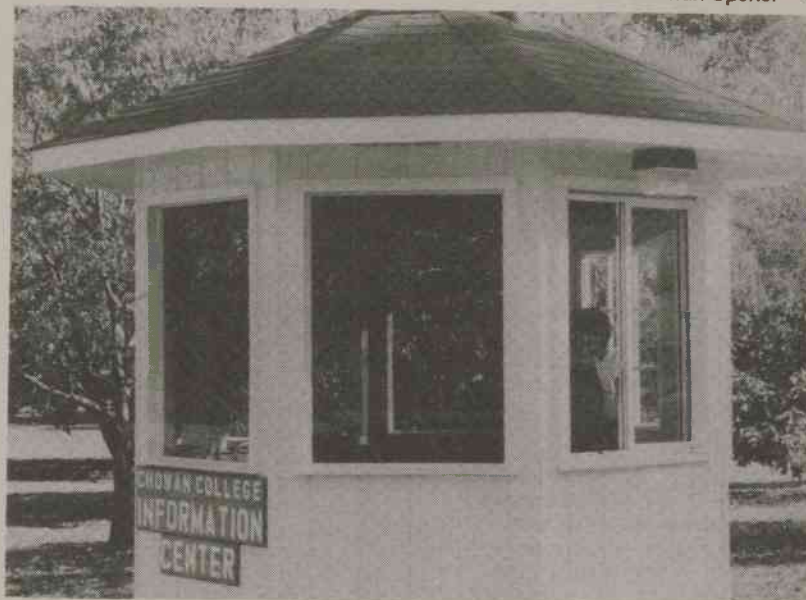

The information center is equipped with a telephone to provide additional security for the campus. According to Dr. Jackson, all cars will not be required to stop at the center upon entering the campus. After 12:00 midnight, however, cars may be stopped so students can receive assistance with dormitory entrance and for other assistance as needed.

"We are also trying to make the campus as secure as we can," explains Dr. Jackson. "The center is separate from the college's main security office, but will provide additional security for the campus, especially at night."

Students serve as welcoming attendants at the center some hours during the day, and visitors to the campus will receive a brochure entitled "Introducing Chowan College" which includes a campus map and information about lodging and dining in the area.

So, students and parents in need of advice or directions when entering Chowan, be sure and stop and ask the friendly information center personnel. You'll get a friendly welcome to campus as well as all the information you need.
