

EDGAR L. PITTMAN

MITCHELL REYNOLDS

MILES T. GODWIN

PAUL TUTTLE

The Chowan Veteran

GREGORY O. OVERTON

What is a veteran? There are many opinions about the Vietnam War Veteran, and some of these opinions are not highly rated and rightfully so. Some veterans have earned low opinions by their actions in public. The purpose of this article is to put emphasis on the veterans who do not get such publicity.

Veterans come from all walks of life and are not limited to just men. There are many women that have earned the proud name of a veteran also. Young men have entered a new life of military service, have excelled in their duties, have come out with a good record, and a desire to improve their standing in society. The desire to improve themselves is helped by the many varied benefits that the Federal Government has made available to the men and women who have served honorably in the Armed Services of the United States of America. One of these benefits is education.

The student body of Chowan is fortunate to have several veterans involved in the many phases of education. Some veterans have made the comment that they would be in college without the aid of Veterans Assistance. Still there are many that say they would probably be out working instead of going to college if it was not for the Veteran's Assistance. However, there are veterans that will not devote the time and effort that is needed to get involved in education.

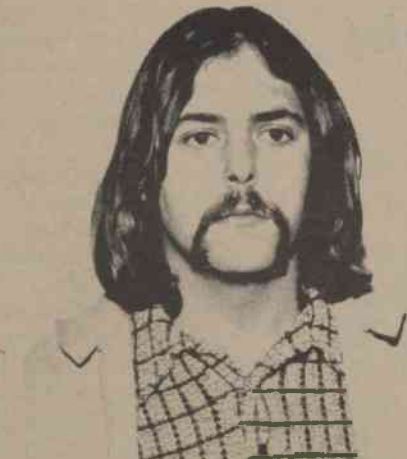

On the campus of Chowan the veterans can not be recognized by physical appearances. But the way veterans stick to the task and the desire to know is easily recognized. Even though many veterans get knocked down in their educational efforts, they still get up and try it again.

DAVID E. TURNER, JR.

MICHAEL L. CLEMENTS

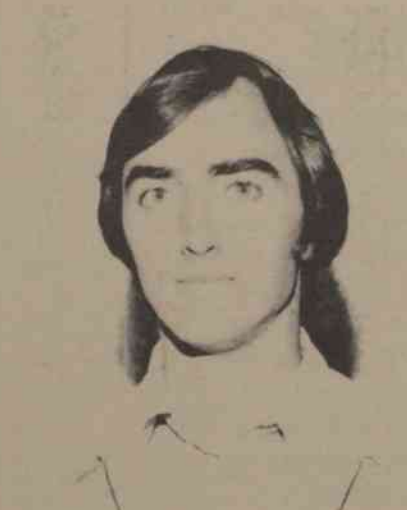

JAMES M. VENERIS

JOHN V. MASTER

DONALD S. HALL

CURTIS A. WILLIAMSON

JOSEPH B. WYNNS

JAMES C. WATFORD

DAVID PRUETTE