Students who turned out for Charlie Daniels Concert on March 24

Eight Concerts Presented by Touring Choir

The Chowan College Touring Choir spent the spring break from March 15-23 presenting concerts in eight churches in South and North Carolina, according to the director, Dr. James Chamblee.

The choir traveled Saturday, March 15 to Harsville, S.C. where it made its first appearance Sunday morning at Wesley United Methodist Church. The pastor, the Rev. Eugene Holmes, is the father of two Chowan students, David and Marc. That evening, the choir presented a concert at Columbia's Woodfield Park Baptist Church, where a former Chowan student, Edgar Pittman, is chairman of the deacons.

The choir presented a concert in Rock Hill Monday before moving into North Carolina for appearances Tuesday in Shelby and Wednesday in Belmont. Friday, the choir presented concerts in Winston-Salem at Hayes Home of the Baptist Homes for the Aging, Inc. and Glenn View Baptist Church. Chowan's choir was featured Sunday at Mt. Olive's First Baptist Church at 11 a.m. and Weldon Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Drama Characterized by Faculty and Students

A drama in which members of the audience participate as the jury, The Night of January 16th, will be presented by the Chowan College division of drama in Room 102 of Daniel Hall April 2-5 at 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The play also offers four Chowan faculty members in important roles. Two, Professor Undine Barnhill as the judge, and Mrs. Betty Batchelor as Magda Swenson, a Swedish housekeeper, are members of the English department. Mrs. Esther Whitaker, Professor of Religion, will portray Jane Chandler, a handwriting specialist and Acheson Harden, Jr., Mathematics professor, the court clerk.

Mrs. Batchelor's son, Paul, a junior at Murfreesboro High School, will play the old night watchman, Hutchins.

All other parts are by the Chowan players, most with experience on the Chowan stage.

They include: lawyers Andy Grimes of Coats as Mr. Flint and Elaine Heathershaw of Winston-Salem as Ms. Stevens; Vicki Jones of Suffolk, Va. as Karen Andre, the girl on trial; James Luxford of Chesapeake as Elmer Sweeney, the inspector of police; and Pete Cambridge of Hockessin, Del. as "Guts" Regan, who bursts into the courtroom to solve the mystery of the murder.

Others appearing in the play are Betsy Guedri of Richmond, Va. as Nancy Lee Faulkner, the murdered man's wife; George Payne of Springfield, Va. as John Whitfield, the wife's father; Mark Romulus of Norfolk, Va. as Siegard Finequist; Mark Reaves of Winton-Salem as Dr. Kirkland; Lycurtis Satterwhite of Oxford as Homer Van Fleet.

The play's assistant director, Lini Knight of Chapel Hill, will play the bailiff. The director is Mrs. Nancy Truesdale, who heads Chowan's drama program.

Mrs. Richardson Demonstrates Art of Self Defense

A 5-1, 105-pound Raleigh policewoman, who works in operations assigned to a squad car, spoke at Chowan College Tuesday, March 25, on "Self Protection for Women."

Sponsored by Chowan's social science department and the Hertford Co. Sheriff's Dept., Mrs. Patricia M. Richardson addressed high school and college students at 2 p.m. in Marks Hall Auditorium. The sessions were "for women only" and admission was free. The cost of the sessions were being assumed by various area women's clubs.

Mrs. Richardson, 25, has been a Raleigh police officer for 3½ years. An officer first class, she has been assigned to both Community Relations and Crime Prevention Units. She is presently assigned to field operations. "This basically means I am doing 'line' police work." She explained this includes answering calls, working in a squad car, investigating wrecks, etc.

The policewoman is also a student at North Carolina State University and plans to graduate in May with a degree in English. A Boone native, her mother lives in High Point and she has been living in Raleigh for five years.

Mrs. Richardson said her talk included some preventive measures and also ways to defend oneself if the attack is inevitable. It included a short demonstration of ways to escape from strangle holds, how to kick, among other subjects.

Job Offers in Europe Available to Students

Any student between the ages of 17 and 27 may obtain a temporary (60 days to one year) job in Europe by only submitting an application by mail. Students interested in a job in Europe should obtain and mail their applications well in advance to allow ample time for processing the job and working papers. Jobs and processing are provided on a non-profit basis, and brief orientation periods are given in Europe before going to a job to speed adjustment to Europe and make certain everything goes as planned.

Wages range upwards from $250 a month, plus free room and board. The free accommodations mean that your wages are clear to save or spend as you wish as there are no basic living expenses to pay.

Jobs and locations are in hotels, resorts, restaurants and offices in Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Spain and Switzerland. Most of the jobs are in Austria, France and Switzerland which are good central locations from which to travel to surrounding countries.

Positions include: General Helper; Receptionist; Buffet Server; Office Worker; Kitchen Helper; Groundskeeper; Waiter; Waitress; Clerk Typist. These positions are available now through the summer.

Advantages and benefits of a temporary job in Europe include the opportunity to broaden your background by living new experiences, and to travel and see Europe while you can on an earn-as-you-go basis without really being tied down. For college job hunters it is also an excellent interim opportunity, and later on in a competitive job situation it could tip the scales in your favor to be able to put on a future job application "I worked in Europe."

Volunteer work on community projects throughout Europe is also available. Free room and board are provided as well as local travel privileges, free entrance fees to local events, and other privileges. Work is usually only half day or less and in interesting locations. Usually no standard wages are paid.

Applications may be obtained by writing directly to:

Department of Business Sponsors Four Seminars on Current Economic Conditions

Interested in a forecast of economic conditions in eastern North Carolina during the next several months and few years? Would you like to know more about the Federal Reserve System and how its actions affect the economies of North Carolina and Virginia?

A series of four seminars, "Money Management, And its Effect on the Economy," will be offered in April in Marks Hall auditorium at Chowan College to provide answers to these and other questions related to the economy and money matters.

Co-sponsored by Chowan's department of business and Planters National Bank and Trust Co., the seminars will be held Thursdays at 8 p.m. beginning April 3. The speakers include Arthur V. Myers, Jr., vice president, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond; Alfred G. Smith, III, senior vice president, North Carolina National Bank, Charlotte, who heads the bank's Money Management Division; and Dr. Clyde H. Farnsworth, Jr., assistant vice president, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

The final session will be devoted to a panel presentation by bankers and bank oriented business people moderated by James B. Powers, chairman and president, Planters National Bank, Rocky Mount. Powers is a former member and chairman of Chowan's Board of Advisors.

A discussion and question-and-answer period will follow each presentation, noted Mrs. Rachel Pittman, professor in Chowan's department of business, who has headed the planning.

The sessions are open to the public and there is no admission charge. "While everyone is welcome and will benefit from attending, the seminars will hold special interest for business and professional people," remarked Mrs. Pittman.

During the opening session April 3, Myers will present a program on the Federal Reserve System, including how it is organized, its policies are formulated, its functions, how its actions affect the economy, etc.

At the April 10 session, Smith will present a program analyzing the current state of the economy, factors that have caused the current economic trends, and what citizens of eastern North Carolina might expect in the way of economic developments during the next several months and few years, Mrs. Pittman stated.

Dr. Farnsworth will discuss the practical application of the policies of the Federal Reserve System, April 17. His presentation will apply particularly to banks in the Fifth Federal Reserve District, and the effect of Federal Reserve actions on the economies of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and other states in the district.

The panel for the final session, April 24, will include M. Leiby Boinest, Jr., Roanoke Rapids, vice president of Hoerner Waldorf Corp., who will serve as the industrial spokesman; and L. A. Bailey, executive vice president and chief executive officer, Belk-Tyler Co., and a member of the Board of Directors, Planters National Bank, retail merchant spokesman.

Planters National Bank and Trust Co. officials will also participate as spokesmen on the panel. They are Norfleet Sugg, vice president, Marketing and Economic Development, agribusiness spokesman; William W. Eskridge, vice president, economic analysis spokesman; and Joel T. Lee, senior vice president and Ahsokie City Executive, Roanoke-Chowan spokesman. Lee is also a member of the Hertford County Economic Development Commission.

The panel will analyze the economy and factors affecting the economy of eastern North Carolina, Mrs. Pittman noted.

Financial Aid

Due to some policies that the Office of Education in Washington, D.C., is reviewing, financial aid for 1975-76 is in a state of confusion at this time. Within the next thirty days, the situation should be cleared and we will be able to send out award letters. Before awards will be made, the BEOG Student Eligibility Report for 1975-76 must be in Mr. Collins' Office.

All students receiving financial aid this year will be required to attend a meeting April 7 or 9 at 10:00 A.M. in Camp Hall Amphitheatre. At this meeting students who have National Direct Student Loans and do not plan to return to Chowan in 1975-76 will be required to complete Exit Interview Forms. Please bring the following information with you.

1. Social Security Number
2. Drivers License Number
3. Selective Service card
4. Life Insurance Co. and address
5. Names and addresses of three (3) personal references

Those students in the Work-Study Program are to work until the end of the semester. Failure to fulfill this obligation will be taken into consideration when assignments are made for next year and when evaluation forms come from prospective employers.

Sandy and I wish you a happy spring.
